A dearer Mother never lived
Nor one so fond and true
Nor was a Mother ever loved

We who loved you sadly miss you
As it draws one year
In our lonely hours of thinking
Thoughts of you are ever dear

Inserted by Daughters, Margaret,

a good position, but I realize that I am falling in love with my employer, who is a married man, and he in turn is falling in love with me. Under the circumstances would it be wise for me to give up my job, which I need very much, and try to find work elsewhere? Does my job mean more to me than peace? I feel I can't go on working where I am under the strain of existing conditions. Please advise me what to do.

ANSWER: My unhesitating advice to you is to leave at once. Proximity has the devilish power of drawing men and women together. It gives them common interests. It makes them depend upon each other, makes them necessary to each other. It fans a spark of fancy into a fire of passion. Men and women fall in love with each other for no other reason than that they are thrown constantly in each other's society.

So your only safety is in getting away from this man you are falling in love with. Get away from the thrill of his touch. Break the bonds of association. Get away where you will not be necessary to him or he to you. Go where you will have new faces about you, new interests. That is the quickest and surest way of forgetting him. The only way.

Wise is the girl who, when she finds herself falling in love with a married man, flees from temptation. Better to give up a job than to throw away one's life.

DEAR MISS DIX: My wife is being made love to by a doctor who has been treating her. He is a married man with two nearly grown children. When I remonstrated with my wife she has grown very angry with me and says that if I will leave her alone she can work out the problem satisfactorily. So far I think she has only been indiscreet, but I fear the outcome. What can I do to save this foolish woman?

ANSWER: I don't know, unless you can make her see that she is headed for certain ruin if she persists in her affair with this man. You have evidently been very patient with her and the time has now come to take drastic measures. Tell her that you will divorce her and disgrace her unless she gives up her lover. That may wake her up to the seriousness of the situation.

True Success Story

By F. E. MacArthur

Santi Raphael, or the "Divine Raphael," as he was often spoken of, was the son of a poor painter. Santi was born in Italy and got his first lessons in painting from his father.

So clever was this child that at the age of 18 he was taken into the academy at Perugia. Here he continued to paint for some six years. Then he started out on his own and soon became famous with his excellent piece, "Christ Praying on the Mount of Olives." This was followed by "Saint Michael and Saint George," the two last of which still hang in the halls of Louvre.

Toward the end of the same year Raphael went to Florence, no doubt attracted there by the fame of its numerous artists, and in this center of true art he studied with some of the greatest painters of that period, going home occasionally to visit his home town.

In Florence Raphael won local applause. He was a man of importance, he conceived an idea which enabled him to develop a new style. It has been said that from Michael Angelo he learned simplicity and strength of outline; Leonardo da Vinci showed him how to put ample grace in expression, while from Bartolommeo he gained a depth of coloring.

During the last two years of his stay in Florence, he painted, in a manner many of these latter paintings were among his best. Of such, critics acclaim the "Entombment of Christ," "Madonna del gran Duca," "Holy Family," etc.

Finally he went to Rome, at the invitation of Pope Julius II, and started working on the frescoes of the four chambers of the Vatican which today are known as the stanze of Raphael. Here he did the "Dispute of the Fathers of the Church." Upon the accession of Leo X, Raphael became the chief architect of St. Peter's where he further added honors to his illustrious name. To this period belong his painting of "John in the Desert" and the "Madonna and Child." Raphael's last and unfinished piece, "The Transfiguration of Christ," hangs in the Vatican. Raphael died at the early age of 37, and was buried in the Pantheon with highest honors.

Among The Farmers

Federation of Agriculture News

Crop Review

The grain is turning fast and harvest is well under way in many sections. It is expected that one of the biggest grain crops in history will be harvested in the province this year.

However, in a few districts they are having trouble with the new insect known as the Barley Joint worm. This is a new pest here and the entomologists are doing everything possible to try and control it.

Most people are threshing their grain. Generally speaking there has not been as much timothy seed saved as last year but, the quality is good. There has not been any definite price established yet, but it is expected prices will be good and farmers with timothy seed for sale should make sure they are getting the market price. This should be established within the next couple of weeks.

Some turnips have moved at a fair price, but the market is not too strong. The early potato movement is about over and is finishing up at an extremely low price even on Maritime markets.

Big Fair

The general comment from visiting livestock people and from the judges at the Provincial Exhibition has been that the whole show was a credit to the province.

The livestock in particular was outstanding and it was gratifying to note the many new breeders were placing well with their exhibits. The increased interest and enthusiasm of the general public in following the livestock judging was noticeable too.

The one thing lacking seemed to be a separate program for the junior clubs and it is hoped that some arrangement can be made in future so that all our Junior Clubs can get together for a provincial contest and showing of their calves, poultry and swine.

Dairy Storage Approved

The new dairy wing of the Government cold storage in Charlottetown has been approved for storage of butter, by the Dairy Products Board.

This storage was built at the specific request of the Dairymen's Association and designed for the storage of butter, cheese and eggs with a temporary packaging room for butter and packaging room for cheese, both of which will greatly facilitate a centralized marketing plan and central packaging at least during the fall and winter months.

The full responsibility and control of this storage will probably be in the hands of the Dairymen's Association and it is hoped that suitable arrangements can be made with all our local factories to set up a marketing plan to work together in storage and packaging problems. This is being done by the cheese men at the present time and has improved conditions for producers, wholesalers and local salesmen.

The butter market is strengthening at the present time. This is due partly to a decreased production across Canada and also because many of the fats going into the manufacture of butter substitutes are required in a defence program.

Potato Board

The fate of the potato marketing scheme is now completely in the hands of the Provincial Board and the Government. This scheme was formally presented to the Government last week.

The private dealers are meeting again Friday morning to nominate their representative. Mr. L. R. Stevens, the dealer representative on the B. C. Board will be present.

Turnip Trouble

The turnip root maggot has appeared again in mostly all our turnip growing districts. This pest caused a great deal of damage last year and has caused a great deal of trouble already this year in our early turnips.

According to Dominion Government scientists there definitely has not been any way discovered to completely control or eradicate this pest. It is suggested that more cultivation would help.

However, as a result of the trouble, our Provincial Federation made a survey of the extent of the danger and trouble and presented a very strong case to Ottawa to have some research work done.

This coupled with the efforts of our local Agricultural officials resulted in a Conference of the Dominion Entomologists from all the turnip growing areas in Canada last fall. At this time it was agreed that a research program this year be taken at Charlottetown to try and find some method of control. This is being done at the present time and it is hoped that as a result of those tests there will be some valuable information available to our turnip producers. In the meantime, there is no spray or treatment that can be recommended to control those maggots effectively.

We are satisfied that every possible effort is being made to find some method of control.

Industrial Conference

During this week a Maritime conference is being held in Antigonish, Nova Scotia. Representatives from agriculture, Maritime industry, miners, medical services and housing projects are together to try and map out a blueprint for those different groups in the Maritimes to work closer together for the general improvement.

Some of the key speakers are: Hon. R. H. Winters, Minister of Resources and Development, Ottawa; J. H. MacKitchan, President Fisherman's Council of Canada; J. W. Mitchell, President Cumbea Health Services, Toronto, together with representatives from those groups right across Canada.

Booth Successful

Many favourable comments were heard about the Joint Federation and Dairymen's Booth at the Exhibition. Many new contacts were made for the sale of Island dairy products. The ideas were based on advertising and publicity for Island butter and cheese and a medium through which information regarding general farm problems could be given to the public.

Feed Problems

The overall feed and feed grains problem will be the main question under discussion at the semi-annual meeting of the C. F. A. opening in Fredericton, New Brunswick on September 11th.

Potato marketing and other pressing Maritime problems will be discussed. Any Federation members from the Island who wish to attend the open meeting on Tuesday will be welcome.

Membership Cards Lost

There have been some inquiries recently from farmers who did not receive their membership cards. We want to emphasize that those cards were mailed to the Federation secretary in each district as soon as the receipts and agreements were received. Any member who did not get his card should check with his district secretary and if the secretary has not received the cards it would be appreciated if the office were notified.

New Lime Spreading Method

Lime spreading by truck directly from the car to the field is going over in a big way in Nova Scotia. Some demonstrations were held recently and this plan has found to be popular and it works.

The lime spreading truck can carry about five tons or so where it is loaded directly from the car. As soon as the truck is loaded it goes direct to the farm, the driver then engages the limestone unit which is operated on a transmission take-off and spreads the limestone in a horizontal band that is wide, up hill and down dale at a speed of about three miles an hour. About twenty minutes after he drove in the field, the driver is off again for another load. With a short haul and some help to load he can easily handle a car of limestone a day.

The cost of this service is about $1.50 per ton in a five mile radius, with five cents more for every mile the truck has to operate beyond this limit. This is just about the cost of limestone if it is purchased in bags.

Under the new system the limestone can be delivered at any time of the year, spread directly from the car to the field and at no greater cost than bagged limestone. Nova Scotia Agricultural College, secured by writing direct to the details of the operation may be Truro.

Incidentally, we have not received near enough applications for the Farm Forum Course in Truro which opens on October 5th. There are scholarships available but applications should be in before September 1st.
