

Today's Graduates From SDU Representative Of Hong Kong, U.S. And Canada

Bishop MacEachern To Confer Degrees, Diplomas On SDU Grads

At 3 o'clock this afternoon 62 students of St. Dunstan's University will reach one of the first stages of their professional careers when they receive their diplomas and certificates indicating that they have finally won their degrees after years of long-haul study.

In his capacity of Chancellor of the University, Most Rev. Malcolm A. MacEachern, Bishop of Charlottetown will preside over the annual convocation exercises. He will also confer the degrees, honorary degrees and diplomas on the successful graduates.

Degrees will go to those successful in the field of: education, arts, science and commerce and the honorary doctor of laws. Diplomas will be presented to engineering and secretarial graduates.

Looked forward to by both the student body, faculty and the visiting public is the address to the graduates which will be delivered by U.S. Senator E. M. Ted Kennedy.
