

New French Immersion Program

Most students are by this time aware of the opportunity afforded them by the French Immersion Program offered every fall to get to grips with spoken French in a more concentrated way. The Modern Languages department, while it feels that this is the most effective way to learn French, nevertheless recognizes that some student because of the demands on their timetable made by the subjects they are majoring, are unable to take advantage of course. With this in mind the department has experimented with a course this year which meets four times per week for a total of six semester hours, i.e. double the length of a regular course. This course has the same objective as the Immersion course, namely to improve one's spoken French. The department would like to make this compromise course more widely known in the community and would invited students who are not total beginners and who would be interested in investing two of their courses next semester in French, to join the course in January. Monday 3:15 - 4:40 pm, Tues, Wed., Fri, 10:30 - 12:05.

eh?
This university is our place and if people go around wrecking, they cannot complain about the lack of facilities or anything else. Thanks for bothering to read this and I hope that whoever they are, they got the hint.

Tenure Correction

The Editor,
Sir:
I was suprised to read a news item in your recent issue (November 18, 1975) concerning the decisions of the Senate Tenure Committee. I wish to point out that Tenure Committee does not decide the granting of tenure. It only recommends to the President. The President makes his own recommendation to the Board of Governors.
Publication of this information in the CADRE is unfortunate and premature as the procedures for tenure consideration have not yet been completed.
Yours, sincerely,
M.P. Madan, Chairman
Senate Tenure
Committee

In this time of giving, we at the Cadre thought that it would be appropriate that all of you middle class thoughtfull...conscientious...givers knew who you are giving to when the time comes for that Great White Conscience Salve to come to your door. And so with the greatest of... and misgivings too, the Cadre presents....

Another Wet Dream

Dear Cadre,
One of the members of our esteemed university community has suggested we follow the States and have a Wet Tee-Shirt Contest. I suggest we be original and have a Wet Gym shorts (the white silk ones) contest. In this contest the guys would be doused with warm water while clad only in white silk gym shorts. We could then invite qualified judges (such as Martha the Mink) to officiate. Come on guys get up for this one. As Bored said: size ain't everything.
Signed Rita the Rider

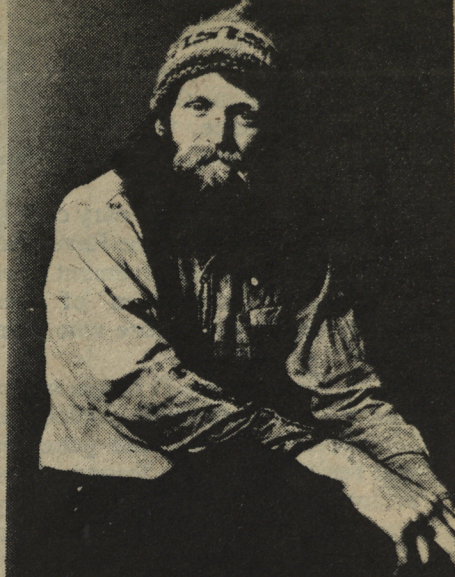

Please note: we got about four letters on this one topic. Since all of them said basically the same thing, we felt that it would be a little redundant to print all of them. To you girls who did not get your letters printed; Sorry.
