SELECT AIR CADETS FOR SPECIAL TRAINING

OTTAWA—The Air Cadet League of Canada has announced the names of 508 Air Cadets from across the country who have been selected for special training awards provided by the League and RCAF each summer. Chosen from some 21,000 Air Cadets in 280 squadrons, the award-winning youngsters have qualified for pilots' courses, leadership training and goodwill exchange trips to the United States, Great Britain or the Continent.

Recommended on the basis of their outstanding records as Air Cadets, the winners have passed through joint League and RCAF selection committees at local, provincial and national levels. They are rated as the "cream of the Air Cadet crop" for 1956.

For two hundred and fifty of the cadets, the high point of their careers is the award of an RCAF scholarship covering 30 hours of actual flying instruction. The four weeks' course will commence on July 2nd (one week later in the Maritimes), and training will be given at flying clubs across the country. Successful graduates will qualify for the Air Cadet flying badge as well as for private pilot's licenses. the RCAF scheme will be supplemented later by the award of a number of special flying scholarships granted by the League.

One hundred cadets will report to RCAF Station Camp Borden early in July to commence seven weeks of leadership training aimed at producing a pool of potential officers and instructors for the Air Cadet squadrons.

Another one hundred cadets will attend a seven weeks' Air Cadet Drill Instructors Course also being held at Camp Borden. From this group will be selected a forty-man precision drill squad which will compete with an American Air drill team for the General Beau Trophy at the Minnesota State Fair, Minneapolis, on August 25th.

The top Air Cadet award goes this year to fifty-eight outstanding cadets who will participate in the League's goodwill "exchange visits" project. Twenty five cadets will tour the United States for three weeks this summer, visiting Washington, New York and other points. The remaining thirty-three cadets will fly the Atlantic to spend three weeks in the United Kingdom and pay a short visit to RCAF bases on the Continent. From this group, eight lads will be selected for sightseeing jaunts to Norway, Sweden, Holland and Denmark. Return parties of teen-aged cadets from each of the participating countries will be entertained by the Air Cadet League and the RCAF in Canada.

Expert Says Pipeline Debate Violated Rules of Procedure

TORONTO (CP) — The Star quotes the man who wrote a handbook on House of Commons procedure as saying just about everyone involved in the stormy pipeline debate violated proper procedure.

The newspaper reports an interview by staff correspondent Robert Nielsen with Dr. Arthur Beauchesne, 80, clerk of the Commons for 25 years and author of "Beauchesne's Parliamentary Rules and Forms."

The Star quotes Dr. Beauchesne as making these points:

1. Speaker Rene Beaudoin, deputy speaker W. A. Robinson and E. T. Applewhaite, deputy chairman of committees, were all wrong on a number of key rulings.

2. Opposition leader Drew was misguided in his motion of censure against the speaker.

"It is a motion under which the Speaker may be cross-examined in the house. He will defend himself; that's his right. Thus he is in the position of a man who is a judge and is also in the dock. It would have been better if Mr. Drew had moved that the conduct of the Speaker be referred to the committee on privileges and elections; they could call witnesses and report back to the house."

3. The government invoked closure too soon; "they should wait until questions have been debated two or three weeks, then give notice of closure."

Dr. Beauchesne said the Speaker had no authority to reverse his ruling. On Thursday, Mr. Beaudoin had permitted debate on a question of privilege raised by Colin Cameron (CCF—Nanaimo) which stalled the pipeline bill for the the rest of that day. On Friday the speaker arose and announced that he had made a mistake and ruled Mr. Cameron's motion out of order.

"It is evident that the speaker has tried to put the (pipeline) measure through for the government. But it is not his duty to put business through; it is his duty to see that the procedure followed in putting it through—or in objecting to it—is correct."

Party Chiefs Open Drive For N. B. Election Votes

By DON HOYT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

FREDERICTON (CP) — Progressive Conservative and Liberal leaders Tuesday opened a whirlwind courtship of the estimated 250,000 perons eligible to vote in the June 18 New Brunswick election.

Premier Hugh John Flemming touched off a two-week campaign tour of the province in Bathurst where he laid his Progressive Conservative government's mining policies before Gloucester county voters who returned five Liberal members to the 52-seat legislature in 1952.

Liberal leader Austin C. Taylor taking his first cross-province tour as Opposition chieftain, sought the support of audiences at St. George and St. Stephen in southern Charlotte county which elected four Conservative members in the last election.

Mr. Flemming will criss-cross New Brunswick by car and private plan seeking a new five-year mandate for the party which ended 17 years of Liberal administration in a sweeping upset four years ago.

The Conservatives won 36 seats and Liberals, 16.

VISITS ALL CITIES

Besides radio and television addresses, the 57-year-old premier will make at least one major speech in each of the province's five cities and visit several of the larger towns and villages.

Mr. Taylor's barnstorming is scheduled to end in the provincial capital here June 15, one day earlier than Premier Flemming's campaign.

The province's two television stations in St. John and Moncton are being used for the first time to place election issues before the people.

The premier has made one TV appearance and plans at least two more. Mr. Taylor has appeared twice and two more 15-minute speeches are scheduled for provincial television screens.

Newspapers and radio stations are carrying heavy runs of campaign publicity.

At many centres, party supporters will meet their leaders and escort them through the streets in motor cavalcades.

SOCIAL CREDIT ENTERED

Social Credit, which has 18 candidates in the field, is relying heavily on radio and platform speeches by western members of Parliament to win votes in the seven constituencies being contested.

Liberals and Progressive Conservatives have 52 candidates each in the 17 multiple-seat ridings.

There are two Independents. No CCF nominees are entered.

Meanwhile, C. B. (Burdo) Burden, one time athlete and now Queen's printer responsible for overseeing the widespread electoral apparatus, says Saint John city will have about 30,000 voters —almost one-fifth the total and the largest single bloc in the province.

Saint John electors will have a choice of 12 candidates representing the three parties. The city elected four Conservatives in 1952, two of whom were named cabinet ministers.
