DONKEY, DOG AND GOAT.

The Three Great Sights of a Transcontinental Journey.

"The three oddest things that I saw outside of New York," said a New Yorker who had gone overland to Denver and returned by water by way of Galveston, "were a donkey, a dog and a goat. The donkey was the motive power of the single boattail car that goes up the hills on South Broadway, Denver. He was an amusing fellow. After I made my first trip up that steep hill I was astonished to see the conductor unhitch the donkey and put him aboard the car. The dashboard was fitted up as a sort of stall, and he stood there sideways when the car started back down the hill under its own impetus. The donkey's face took on a delighted expression as he found himself in the role of passenger. He really seemed to be grinning at the conductor and the passengers.

"I saw the dog as I was about to enter the Taber Opera House in Denver. The dog was called Bill, and he was part of the outfit of a cigar store in the opera house building. He was a black spaniel. He was rigged up in Zouave trousers and jacket trimmed with gold braid, had a tasseled fez on his head and spectacles on his nose. The oddest thing about him was that he sat on his haunches, with his paws in the air, actually smoking a cigarette like a confirmed cigarette fiend. I found that he had been trained to smoke the cigarettes while the audience was going into the theater as an advertisement of his owner's business. That was the first time I had ever seen a dog smoking.

"I made the acquaintance of the goat in a tobacco factory in Key West. There were 200 Cuban girls there, nearly all of them pretty and all of them smokers or chewers of tobacco. The goat was their particular pet. He was the biggest goat I ever saw, almost as large as a Shetland pony, with big branching horns, and perfectly tame. He playfully batted the girls or pranced around among them. His best trick, however, was the larceny of their dinner baskets. He used to go nosing around until he found a particularly choice luncheon. He would knock over the basket, seize the lunch, and dash outdoors with it. No amount of chastisement had ever broken him of the trick. Of course I saw wonderful scenery in the journey, but the donkey and the dog and the goat were by long odds the most interesting living things that I encountered." —New York Sun.

A Clever Lawyer.

An old lawyer in Paris had instructed a very young client of his to sweep every time he struck the desk with his hand. Unfortunately the barrister forgot and struck the desk at the wrong moment. The client fell to sobbing and crying.

"What is the matter with you?" asked the presiding judge.

"Well, he told me to cry as often as he struck the table."

Here was a nice predicament, but the astute lawyer was equal to the occasion. Addressing the jury, he said: "Well, gentlemen, let me ask you how you can reconcile the idea of crime in conjunction with such candor and simplicity. I await your verdict with the most perfect confidence." —Exchange.

Dosed the Doctor.

"Doctor, just an instant, please," exclaimed a caller at the office of a man of physic as he caught sight of the physician disappearing in his private office.

"I'll see you shortly, sir," was the curt reply.

"But a second is all I want," persisted the caller.

"I'll see you directly, sir," with sternness. The visitor took a seat in the general reception room, read the afternoon paper through, looked at the pictures, played with the dog and took a nap. After 30 minutes or more had passed the medicine man came out of his den and with an air of condescension said to the visitor:

"Well, now, my man, I am at your service. Your turn has come. What can I do for you?"

"Oh, nothing in particular," was the reply. "I just dropped in to tell you that your neighbor's three cows have escaped from the barn and are having a picnic in your garden and flower beds." —Strand Magazine.

NO DANGER OF CIVIL WAR.

Why Uncle Sam's Big Family Will Henceforward Live in Peace.

There is no longer any danger of a civil war, says Woodrow Wilson in The Atlantic. There was war between the south and the rest of the nation because their differences were removable in no other way. There was no prospect that slavery, the root of those differences, would ever disappear in the mere process of growth. It was to be apprehended, on the contrary, that the very processes of growth would inevitably lead to the extension of slavery and the perpetuation of radical social and economic contrasts and antagonisms between state and state, between region and region. A heroic remedy was the only remedy. Slavery being removed, the south is now joined with the west—joined with it in a stage of development, as a region chiefly agricultural, without diversified industries, without a multifarious trade, without those subtle extended nerves which come with all round economic development, and which make men keenly sensible of the interests that link the world together, as it were, into a single community. But these are lines of difference which will be effaced by mere growth, which time will calmly ignore. They make no boundaries for armies to cross.

Tide water Virginia was thus separated once from her own population within the Alleghany valleys—held two jealous sections within her own limits. Massachusetts once knew the sharp divergences of interest and design which separated the coast settlements upon the bay from the restless pioneers who had taken up the free lands of her own western counties. North Carolina was once a comfortable and indifferent "east" to the uneasy "west" that was to become Tennessee. Virginia once seemed old and effete to Kentucky. The "great west" once lay upon the Ohio, but has since disappeared there, overlaid by the changes which have carried the conditions of the "east" to the great lakes and beyond.

There has never yet been a time in our history when we were without an "east" and a "west," but the novel day when we shall be without them is now in sight. As the country grows it will inevitably grow homogeneous. Population will not henceforth spread, but compact, for there is no new land between the seas where the "west" can find another lodgment. The conditions which prevail in the ever widening "east" will sooner or later cover the continent, and we shall at last be one people.

PAIN—WRACK

No Station in Life is Proof Against Rheumatism—All Come Under the Ban—South American Rheumatism Cure Cures All.

"Chas. Cotton, of Gananoque, has been employed by the Bathing Company for nearly twenty years as engineer, and from the nature of the employment was subjected to severe attacks of rheumatism. He tried many remedies with scarcely any benefit. South American Rheumatism Cure was recommended to him. He found almost instant relief and the first bottle effected a cure. Sold by Dr. S. W. Dodd and Geo. E. Hughes.

The Bell Organ & Piano Co., Ltd

Dear Sir,—Allow me to compliment you on the qualities of the Piano ordered from you for the Toronto Conservatory of Music. The tone is remarkably pure and brilliant throughout, while the bass is deep and powerful. The mechanism is apparently perfect, the touch elastic, and in appearance the entire Piano is a work of art

Yours truly,

This is the greatest country in to world for variety of drinkables. None but us could sit down and write out a list of all the styles and flavors from Plain Soda to Mumm's Extra Dry.

But there's one summer drink that deserves to occupy this advertisement and to be impressed on your memory so that you'll not forget to ask your grocer for it. It's ALLAN'S CHAMPAGNE KOLA.

In a year from now we'll all be drinking it in preference to all other aerated or mineral water drinks, because it's such a pleasant drink. Not only that, but its such a wholesome drink, its invigorating, it cools the brains and strengthens the nerves. Its a great thing to take before breakfast, or before going to bed. Its good when you've got that tired feeling, it brightens you up.

It's the Temperance Drink of the Day and everybody should try it. Keep it in the house to treat your friends or for family use. It costs no more than Ginger Ale, etc., and it's far better. If your Grocer can't supply you write the maker.
