is credited with introducing coffee into England about 1652. Little did he think that his new drink would become so popular as it is today.

The making and preparing of this invigorating beverage has advanced with great strides, and as an example of the modern methods, our coffee comes to us in sealed packages, packed while warm from the roaster and is ground to your order in an electric mill. All the flavor and aroma are retained and of course it is always fresh. 60c, lb., 5 lbs. or more 55c.

Corns?

—just say Blue-jay to your druggist

Stops Pain Instantly

The simplest way to end a corn is Blue-jay. A touch stops the pain instantly. Then the corn loosens and comes out. Made in two forms—a colorless, clear liquid (one drop into) and in extra thin plasters. Use whichever form you prefer, plasters or the liquid—the action is the same. Me, gentle. Made in a world-famed laboratory. Sold by all druggists.

HOUSE CLOSING TODAY—The formal closing of the House takes place today at 2 o'clock when the Guard of Honor will be in attendance upon His Honor the Lieutenant Governor. Yesterday the Election Bill passed second reading and several other bills were disposed of. The House adjourned at 11.20 last night to meet this morning at 10 o'clock when the remaining business is expected to be concluded by 1 o'clock.

ELECTRIC CO. BREAKDOWN

About midnight all lights and power from the Electric Co. were shut off. The Guardian had to go to press under its auxiliary steam plant. The trouble at the Power House is due to the bursting of a gas pipe and it is reported it may be two days before the plant is operating.

FIRST FORMAL DECLARATION OF U. S. REGARDING RUSSIA

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Political recognition of a new government in Russia must await the establishment of "sound" business and social conditions there. Secretary Hughes declared today, in response to a petition presented by a delegation of women, asking United States aid toward Russian re-establishment. The declaration by Secretary Hughes was the first formal declaration on the policy of the United States regarding Russia, since recognition of the Soviet Republic became a matter of prime importance at the Geneva conference. In view of the pending negotiations in diplomatic circles.

Provincial Legislature

Legislature. They might be young women, and there would be nothing to prevent them nursing their children while they pass the laws of the country.

The motion was further supported by Messrs. W. B. Butler and W. Dennis, and carried.

Premier Bell moved the first reading of the Election Act. On motion of Mr. Saunders (in the absence of Hon. Mr. Johnston) the Act respecting the Constitution of the Supreme Court and the Appeal Court of Equity were given the third reading.

Electric Power Bill Amended. On motion of Premier Bell, the House went into committee with Mr. LePage in the chair, for second reading of an Act to Amend the Act incorporating the P. E. Island Light, Heat and Power Co., Ltd.

Premier Bell, explaining the purpose of the amendment, said the bill was more or less a matter of form, and would doubtless pass without discussion. In conversation with Mr. O'Leary, the chief promoter, it was pointed out to the speaker that it was the intention of the company to carry out the purposes of the Act, provided a little more time is given in which to begin operations. Mr. O'Leary asked that the time limit be extended from one to three years, and that four years instead of three be allowed in which the company must expend $25,000. The Premier was very anxious to find out whether the intention to carry on the work was a bona fide one, and he had satisfied himself that this was the case. He had no hesitation, therefore, in asking the Legislature to give the required extension of time.

Mr. Stewart: I see no objection to it at all if this company is going to come in and establish their business here, they should, I think, be extended this courtesy. Have they given any reasons why they have not already started work? Is there anything to prevent them?

Premier Bell: Nothing more than the difficulties of the prevailing hard times. That was all that was mentioned.

Mr. Higgs believed there should be some assurance given that the company would make the expenditure.

The amendment passed as read. Budget Debate Continued. Mr. Dennis, continuing the budget debate, expressed his satisfaction with the record of the Government during the past year. Mr. Brodie, he took it for granted, was elected in the best interests of the Liberal party, as he was himself. If he had found it necessary to vote against his party on a measure such as the highways grant, then he should feel it his duty to resign from that party. (Applause from the Liberal benches.) It is admitted that the expenditure is well invested in permanent work such as the concrete culverts. It is well known that in this province there is an independent Farmers' party, and it may be that the hon. members for York and New Perth are catering to this party. He had nothing against the Farmers' party. If they thought they could do better than the present administration, or than the Conservative party, then they had a perfect right to attempt it; but he did not think so.

Along the line of education and public works the last government had proved negligent, continued Mr. Dennis. The question with the voters today in regard to the highways question is: Is the work worth 60 cents to the dollar? It must be admitted that it is increasing the debt of the province, but this is being provided for by a special auto tax, which is thus put back onto the roads, as it should be. A special concession made to the province to build the highways out of the best clay and gravel at hand, instead of going to the expense of importing more permanent material. The chief good point of the road roads is that the water drains off quickly.

The winter roads, however, are very bad, and in many cases a month and a half of good hauling is lost on account of bare roads. We are losing thousands of tons of good clay, which is being washed down the clay embankments in the drains. Sweet Clover plantations tend to do away with the growth of weeds and would gather the snow and bind the clay on the road together.

Mr. Dennis cited the benefits which farmers were receiving from co-operative methods of shipping. He took up the taxation subject. Considerable complaint has been made in regard to the poll tax. It is worthy of note that in the Tax Bill it is provided, when any section of the Act would tend to create any undue hardship, that this clause might be repealed. Mr. Brodie had wanted the highways people in the country have wanted this, too, but, unlike Mr. Brodie, they have waited patiently knowing that when the highways work is finished the other roads will be attended to. He believed that the government can safely leave its case in the hands of the people.

Mr. Butler congratulated the jun-ior members for Belfast (Mr. Brodie) who was, like himself, difficult of speaking when it was not necessary. His speech, however,

"Over The Hill" Most Powerful of All Modern Motion Picture Dramas

Coming to The Strand Monday, May 8th.

One of the great epoch-making photoplays of many years is the beautiful William Fox photo drama of mother-love entitled "Over the Hill," which will be seen at The Strand, commencing Monday, May 8th.

Founded upon the famous poem by Will Carleton this simple story of the devotion of a mother for her children in spite of the trials and tribulations to which they subject her, is one of the most appealing and lovable stories ever screened. Staged under the direction of Harry Millarde, it has relied for its great strength with the public upon the simple theme and plain story of a mother and her family whom she carefully rears and protects.

There is no suggestion of big massive scenes, no spectacular effects, no crowds—nothing but the simple, thrilling and powerful story that touches the heart of all humanity and brings everyone to realize the love and affection with which a mother's memory should always be revered.

Produced in New York by William Fox in September of 1920, without ostentation, without undue exploitation, without any furor of newspaper fire works, the fame of the simple and beautiful picture "Over the Hill" spread like wildfire. All who saw it sent hundreds of their friends. Newspapers hailed it as one of the great and crowning artistic triumphs of the motion picture world. Clergymen preached sermons about it. Editors wrote editorials advising every mother's son and daughter to see "Over the Hill." The result of this word-of-mouth advertising was to send such crowds to see "Over the Hill" that William Fox repeatedly extended the engagement, leasing one theatre after another and moving "Over the Hill" continuously until it was finally presented at six different theatres on Broadway. It must be remembered also that

Three years pass. John is released from prison and comes back home to find his father is dead, his mother has been neglected by all of the other children, and the hypocritical Isaac has even appropriated for his own use the money that should have gone to support his aged mother. She has even been evicted from her own home and sent to the poor-house. How John comes to the rescue, saves his mother from poverty, punishes his hypocritical brother and drags him through the streets, is told in vivid and dramatic scenes. John's faithful sweetheart, ever confident of his innocence welcomes him with open arms, and is a happy home indeed when the mother returns to her old home to find that even though some of her children may have neglected her, the black-sheep turns out to be the only white one, all wool and a yard wide.

This beautiful and convincing and exquisite photoplay of mother-love, is presented with a special musical setting.
