to work because of heart disability." This study and statistical analyses indicate that counseling and placement agencies should interview all heart patients whom the physician considers employable. The physician should recommend the number of hours per day or week and amounts of carrying, lifting, walking and traveling a patient can do.

"Through selective placement and a reasonable amount of medical supervision, a considerable number of heart patients in their 60's and 70's can remain in useful employment."

From the standpoint of elderly men with heart disease, it is encouraging to know that the majority are employable. The knowledge of this fact should be known to all concerned, that is, to employers, to employees, and to the families of these heart patients. To the patient himself it will lift his morale that he can still be useful to the community and be still able to help support his family.

However, as stated above, all heart cases who wish to continue work must be carefully selected and through this "selective" placement and with a reasonable amount of supervision, can make their contribution to their community.

spring dandelions in bloom. And from a vine on the House across the Lane at Alderlea, Jennie gathered roses in December. So mild is this weather, that some of the herd still ranges by day on the pastures; the sheep too without need of shelter.

But winter will come—snow to cover the fields, ice to bridge ponds for the children's skating. Christmas also—in the turn of a few days. Shall we this year, we wonder, honor it well at heart?

"Tis not enough that Christ was born
Beneath the star that shone,
And earth was set that holy morn
Within a golden zone.
He must be born within the heart
Before He finds the throne
And brings the day of love and good
The day of christian brotherhood."
