

Smallwood Elated Over Uranium Find In Labrador

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP)—Premier Smallwood said Friday the discovery of uranium prospects in Labrador will help solve many of the Newfoundland territory's problems.

The premier released a statement stating the results of a conference held this week to define Labrador problems with a view to the future.

Missionaries, doctors and government officials from Labrador met with provincial and federal government representatives to discuss fisheries, forest industries, mining, construction, health and welfare services, education, roads and law enforcement.

Mr. Smallwood said the government will consider expanding fisheries assistance in northern Labrador and continue its program of community fish stages in the south.

He said a Samuel B. Silver has signed an agreement with the government to begin lumbering operations in Labrador's 50,000,000-acre forest. An instructor would be sent to Labrador this summer, if possible, to investigate prospects of starting small industries.

Construction of a new nursing station at Nain would be started when navigation opens. The government was considering an aircraft for the Grenfell Mission hospital at Northwest River and radio telephones for missions at Northwest River, Cartwright, St. Anthony and the mission boats.

WILL SEND NURSE
The government would try to send a public health nurse to work with Indians and Eskimos in northern Labrador. An additional doctor would be sent to Northwest River.

Financial assistance would be provided to encourage Indians and Eskimos to move in to approved larger settlements. Consideration would be given to helping Labrador children attend vocational school at St. John's.

Plans were being made to construct a school dormitory at Nain, fifteen miles of road from the Labrador border to Lanse au Clair on the Labrador south coast had been completed. The road would eventually extend to Red Bay. A 27-mile road from Goose Bay to Northwest River was under construction.

Mr. Smallwood said the discovery of a new uranium province stretching inland from Makkovik would have a "tremendous effect on the future of Labrador, and as soon as actual operations begin will provide an immediate solution to many of the problems which were considered at the conference."

TALKS A SUCCESS
The conference was considered so successful that it will be the pattern of two more conferences to discuss problems of other inaccessible Newfoundland areas.

Premier Smallwood instructed Dr. F. W. Rowe, welfare and resources minister, to make arrangements for a similar meeting covering the great northern peninsula and a later one covering the south coast.

Scottish Concert At Montague Is Repeated

The Scottish concert, sponsored by the choir of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Montague, early in February, was repeated at Yeo's Theatre Thursday evening before another large and appreciative audience. Rev. D. A. Campbell was master of ceremonies, and the piano accompanists were Mrs. A. F. Campbell, Mrs. D. M. MacDonald and Miss Elinor Minchin.

The stage was beautifully arranged with back drapes of various tartans, lending a very realistic highland touch to the entertainment. George Fraser, Jr., and his young sisters, Evelyn and Heather, always great favorites with Montague audiences, received hearty applause for their numbers which included bagpipe songs and accompaniments by George; the Highland Fling, Irish Jig, Hornpipe and Flora MacDonald's Fancy by Evelyn and Heather.

Two dance numbers by Ralph Fraser, Montague, the Sean Caribhas by Judy MacDonald, Caribgan, step dance by Reginald Johnston, Murray River; the double sword dance by Gwendie Clark and Dianne MacLeod, Montague; and the Highland Fling by Gwendie, Dianne and Judy, were also greatly enjoyed. The girls danced to bagpipe accompaniment played by George Fraser.

Mr. Walter Burdett sang two solos, "Scotland" and "Wee House Among The Heather" and was heartily cheered for his rendition of these lovely Scottish songs.

Florence MacDonald was favorably heard in the solo and tap dance numbers and also took part in a group of Scottish songs and tap dancing with nine bonnie lassies, Joanne Waterworth, Marjorie Macdonald, Pauline Nicholson, Rachel Minchin, Marjorie Gillis, Carol Boehner, Heather Jamieson, Elaine Poole and Mabel MacLean. The girls sang "At-ten Waters", "Bonnie Wee Window", "My Highland Laddie" and the tap numbers included "Road To The Isles" and "My Bonnie Laddie" with Florence as soloist.

Selections by the Rhythm Band, a group of young folk from Caribigan, under the direction of Ralph Gillis, included "Bonnie Dundee" and "Scottish Folk Song". Piano and violin selections by Mrs. James MacBeth and Mr. John Webster were greatly enjoyed and included a number of Scottish airs. Mrs. MacBeth and Mr. Webster also played during the intermission and accompanied Mr. Johnston.

The lovely "Westering Home" year, and the paying of the necessary fund to the Film Council for the purchase of the new projector. The Home and School Association has been very active since its reorganization last year.

The meeting closed with the singing of The Queen, after which the members present were shown the progress being made in the construction of a combined music belong to that species. This species was then named the spotted alfalfa aphid. An aphid that attacks similar plants in India, the Middle East and Southern Europe resembles this species. If it is the same aphid, no one knows how it came to America.

Because it is believed to be an introduced pest, men have gone from the University of California to search India, Africa, Europe and parts of Asia to find, if possible, its natural enemies, such as ladybird beetles, lacewing and other flies which destroy many aphids, do also feed on the spotted alfalfa aphid, but these aphids multiply so fast and are so exceedingly destructive of alfalfa, that the action of their enemies has been "too little and too late."

The Lahonta variety of alfalfa has shown a fair amount of resistance, but it is not well adapted to the area and is rather a poor yielder. Plans are under way to use this variety to breed resistance into more suitable varieties. This, however, may take years of work. The only remedy at present to stay this pest is the use of insecticides.

The best control so far discovered has been by spraying or dusting the alfalfa fields at the right time and as often as necessary with Malathion spray or dust with either ground equipment or airplanes.

Malathion is not only effective against the spotted alfalfa aphid, but kills leaf hoppers, alfalfa weevil larvae, mites and grasshoppers. While very effective against all these insects, it has a very low hazard for warm-blooded animals and man.

Its use does not require a permit in the United States, and it has a short waiting period of only seven days between an application and harvest. The rates that have proved effective for the control of this aphid are 10 ounces per acre of actual malathion applied with ground sprayers, or 12 ounces per acre when dusted from an airplane. A 4 percent malathion dust requires to be applied at a rate of 20 pounds per acre. If malathion is used according to directions, there is no residue problem. The allowed residue on harvested crops is 8 parts per million, as compared with parathion, which is one part per million and DDT which is 7 parts per million. Moreover, malathion does not affect the milk or meat of animals.
