THE DAILY EXAMINER. AUGUST 18, 1897. FINANCES IN THE STATES.

Henry Clews, of New York, remarks that "the whole commercial and financial drift of the country is moving parallel with the recovery in the investment markets. The railroad earnings tell the whole story of business revival. The interior roads are showing increases of earnings ranging from 5 to 20 per cent; and yet the improvement is only in its beginnings. Some doubt has come over the corn crop in certain sections; but the wheat yield may be safely calculated at 500,000,000 bushels. The movement of iron ore at the West is unprecedented in quantity; which shows what may be expected from the trade that serves as the barometer for all other trades. Interior commercial buyers, who are flocking to this city in unprecedented numbers, report an encouraged feeling and sanguine expectations for the fall trade in all sections. City bankers report their country correspondents as unusually confident about the prospects of business and as desirous of making large arrangements for accommodation for the next six months. The foreign exchanges have turned in our favor, with the expectation, both in London and here, that a season of gold imports is about to set in which may make an important addition to our stock of the yellow metal. The Klondike gold discoveries cast their shadow before them in suggestions of further large additions to the world's stock of gold and the consequent displacement of the depreciated money metal that has so shaken confidence during recent years."

OBITUARY

James McVean Esq. Postmaster of Cardigan passed peacefully into rest on June 26th in the 74th year of his age, leaving a widow and two daughters to mourn their loss.

In the death of Mr. McVean Cardigan loses one of its best citizens, one who was always on the side of right, whose intercourse with his fellows was marked by truthfulness, sobriety, and honesty.

He was a kind husband and father, a good neighbour and a faithful friend. Kind and charitable in his disposition his home was ever a refuge for the poor and the distressed and from its doors no one ever went cold or hungry.

A consistent member of the Christian Church for over fifty years, he was always ready to help in its good work by giving liberally for the support of the gospel.

As a civil servant of the Dominion Government he was attentive and courteous in the discharge of his duties thus winning the confidence and esteem of all with whom he came in contact, an expression of which was given in the large concourse of neighbours and friends who followed him to their last resting place in Bradenell Cemetery.

A Moncton despatch to the Sun reports that the Liberals have not yet recovered from their surprise over the appointment of C. R. Palmer as general storekeeper of the Intercolonial railway. That Mr. Cooke a man in the prime of life, only forty-nine years of age, and no political partizan, should be superannuated, was surprise enough, but that his successor should be a man of sixty-four years, is something that those who are "against Blair" and there are a good many such among Moncton liberals, openly condemn. There were a number of applicants for the position, including Mr. Walker of the I. C. B. office, and a well known liberal with strong liberal connection, but Mr. Palmer, if not as young as he used to be, apparently knew how to pull the political ropes. In this connection a good story is told by a prominent Moncton liberal. It is that while Mr. Blair had the various applications under consideration, some person remarked to him that if Mr. Palmer, with whom the editor of the Transcript is not very friendly, were appointed, Mr. Hawke would go into opposition. Then, said Mr. Blair, Mr. Palmer shall have the appointment at once—and he got it. The Transcript, though it does not show marked enthusiasm over the appointment, has not yet gone into opposition. The editor still has hopes of "downing Blair" in certain vital matters of patronage in which he thinks he has not been treated with sufficient liberality.

MESSAGE TO MEN

Proving that True Honesty and True Philanthropy by Still Existing. If any man who is weak, nervous and debilitated, or who is suffering from any of the various troubles resulting from youthful folly, excesses or overwork, will take heart and write to me, I will send him confidentially and free of charge the plan pursued by which I was completely restored to perfect health and manhood, after years of suffering from Nervous Debility, loss of Vigor and Organic Weakness. I have nothing to sell, and therefore want no money, but as I know through my own experience how to sympathize with such sufferers, I am glad to be able to assist any fellow-beings to a cure. I am well aware of the prevalence of quackery, for I myself was deceived and imposed upon until I nearly lost faith in mankind but I rejoice to say that I am now perfectly well and happy once more and am desirous therefore to make this certain means of cure known to all. If you will write to me you can rely upon being cured and the proud satisfaction of having been of great service to one in need will be sufficient reward for my trouble. Absolute secrecy assured. Send 50 cents to cover postage and address Mr. G. Strong, North Rockwood, Mich. 135 p.w.

A Good Appetite is essential for health and physical strength. When the blood is weak, thin and impure the appetite fails. Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite. It purifies and enriches the blood, tones the stomach, gives strength to the nerves and health to the whole system. It is just the medicine needed now. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Hood's Pills are tasteless, mild, effective. All druggists.

NATURE'S BEAUTIES BY A BANKER.

We are so accustomed to the varied beauty and diverse colouring of almost everything upon this Earth of ours, that not only is its attractive loveliness to a very great extent lost upon us, but we also fail to recognize the great fact that a large and important proportion of created objects was formed mainly in order to gratify the senses, and to add to the general beauty of the scene. To select only a few examples in order to prove this assumption: the wondrous symmetry and elegance of flowers must have been conferred upon them only for that reason, for the continuation of the various species of plants could have been attained in the same way as in ferns and other cryptogamic or flowerless plants. There could have been no other object for, for instance, the graceful construction of the passion-flower, with its cruciform anthers and shapely corolla; for the strangely shaped columbine, with the petals continued as a long hollow spur; for the multiflorous varieties and forms of the tropical orchids, some of them enriched with dazzling colouring, some formed in fantastic shape, while others are endowed with a delicious perfume almost exceeding that of any other member of the floral world. The wonderful foliage of the horse-chestnut could only have been given to that noble tree in order to delight our sense of sight, for the Spanish chestnut produces an apparently exactly similar fruit from an insignificant, diminutive inflorescence. Or what other reason could there be for the brilliant and varied colours of the flowers of the bulb family, for the species is propagated by offshoots of the roots? The many hued tulips, the graceful lily, the lustrous and refractive amaryllis, and many another floral beauty which adorns our gardens and gladdens us with its elegance and loveliness, all created for the sole purpose of enhancing our pleasures and adding to our enjoyment. And the same may be said, too, of a vast number of other divisions of creation.

The peacock, for instance, from the crested head to the tip of the tail, is one galaxy of vivid colouring; or the butterfly, resplendent in all colours of the rainbow, some lustrous in many shaded iridescence, some glittering with crimsoned metallic blue and others glistening with burnished gold; all adding their contribution to the general abundance and richness of the adornment and embellishment of beautiful Earth. Well did the angels of God sing together and shout for joy when they beheld the completion of this fair creation.

Except for the gratification of the sense of sight, and thereby the enhancement of our pleasures, colour were needless and unnecessary. But what a different world this would be if there were no colours; if everything which exists were of one uniform dead, leaden ash-gray; and if those things which have been given to us by a beneficent Creator solely for the augmentation of our comfort and gladness had been withheld, and everything created had been formed solely for utilitarian purposes. There would, of course, be no flowers; neither would there be leaves to the trees, which would be simply upright, branchless trunks similar to the Cacti of South America. The sky, instead of being of a glorious azure blue, varied at sunrise and sunset with brilliant tints, would perpetually be that leaden gray; the grass, the land, the rocks, the sea, everything animate and inanimate, even we ourselves, our hair, our skin, every part of us, would all be of that same dull and uninteresting colour unrehearsed by any change of tint. Surely life would not be worth living under those conditions. How then should we appreciate those beauties of nature which abound in such profusion around us, and which were given to us by our Creator for our delectation.

And if Earth be so beautiful, how ravishingly glorious must Heaven be; for we know that its splendour and radiant magnificence and effulgence infinitely surpass anything on this earth, and altogether transcend anything we can conceive in the wildest flights of imagination; for its splendour and sublime grandeur are utterly beyond the grasp of the finite human mind, which is wholly incapable of realizing such supreme and indelible celestial glory. But if we forget Him who has made this earth so beautiful for us, we shall never behold the richer beauties of Heaven, but shall be condemned to a terrible place where all is lurid, and gruesome, and awful!

FROM DYEA. Starvation Likely to Be the Fate Of Many This Winter. (Montreal Star.)

Mr. Arthur BeNingham, of the British Yukon Company, passed through Montreal today, on his way from Dyea to New York whence he sails for England tomorrow. Mr. BeNingham confirms the reports which have been coming from Dyea that thousands upon thousands of persons have been pouring into the Yukon district since the reports of the great discoveries of gold, and that starvation is more than likely to be the lot of very many during the coming winter. Mr. BeNingham says that the pack trail over the White Pass has been open for some three weeks, and that the bulk of the travelling is now being done over this route in preference to the more arduous Chilkoot Pass route. Mr. C. H. Wilkinson, the Canadian representative of the British Yukon Company, is now in London, and Mr. BeNingham says he will return to this country early in September, authorized by his company to take immediate steps for the starting of work on the proposed railroad over the White Pass from Dyea to the head waters of the Yukon. This distance as is known, is about fifty miles, and it is expected that the railroad will be completed early in the summer of 1899. Mr. BeNingham says it is just possible that the road may be rushed to completion next summer, though the expense of doing the work in so short a time would be considerably increased.

NEWS NOTES.

The members of the Coblen Club have caused a special gold medal to be struck for presentation to the Canadian Premier, Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in formal recognition of his attachment to free trade.

According to Ontario papers the contract for dredging in Toronto harbor has been let by the Government to a varnish traveller, and without tenders being asked. Is this, asks the Montreal Gazette, a business transaction, or a business in business arrangement?

Old inhabitants of Malaga, Spain, relate that when Canovas del Castillo was a young assistant master at a school there, a Gipsy woman told his fortune. She predicted that he would become great and would meet with a violent death.

The official 'Reichsanzeiger' announces that the Canadian Customs Department has directed that German goods imported direct, shall, until Aug. 1, 1893, enjoy the same preferential duties accorded to English goods, and that the additional duties levied on these goods since April 22, are to be refunded on application.

Americans are munificent givers. Few of their Colleges and Universities are poor. Radcliffe's endowment already amounts to $225,000. Gifts are requests are pouring in. The trustees of Miss Belinda L. Randall have just given the sum of $10,000; Mr. Kynan has founded a scholarship in memory of his wife, and pupils of the late Miss Wilby, a prominent figure in Boston educational circles, have subscribed $2,500 as a prize to perpetuate her name.

Cinderella's fairy god-mother, with one touch of her magic wand, transformed the maiden's rags and tatters into the richest silks and satins. There are thousands of young women to-day who need a fairy god-mother who will touch them with the wand of health. A girl's best gift is her health. Every girl may be a healthy girl and become a healthy wife and a capable mother, if she will but take the proper care of herself in a womanly way. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the best medicine for ailing women, young or old. It strengthens and invigorates the organs distinctly feminine. It promotes regularity of their functions. It always irritates and inflammation. It checks unnatural and exhausting drains. It puts the whole organism in a healthy and vigorous condition. Most of all the ills of womankind are traceable to some form of what is known as "female complaint." Troubles of this kind unite a woman for wifehood and motherhood. Thousands of grateful women have been rendered healthy and happy by the use of this marvelous medicine. At their own request, the experience and testimony of many of them have been included in Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. The "Favorite Prescription" is sold by all good dealers and an honest dealer will not try to induce you to take an inferior substitute for the sake of extra profit.

Mrs. G. A. Conner, of Allegheny Springs, Montgomery Co., Va., writes: "My daughter, aged 12 years, had a goutte coming on her neck and it disfigured her very much. I am happy to say that it has disappeared after the use of one bottle of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription."

In paper covers, 31 one-cent stamps, cloth binding, 50 cents. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser. Address Doctor R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

The Nation says that in England at the present day the expression genteel is mainly a peculiarity of the underbred—of those with whom wives are ladies and of those who in their own sphere are known as gents and the like.

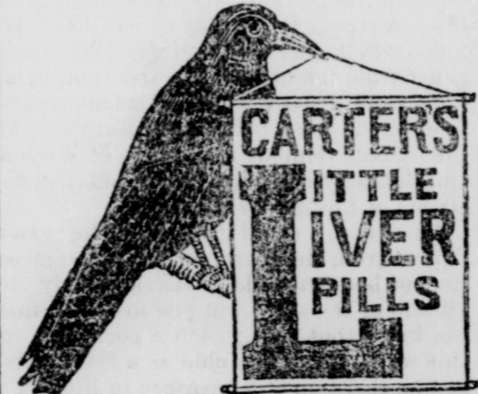

More than 10,000 persons are engaged in the manufacture of explosives in England. Last year 40 persons in the business were killed and 167 injured by accidents.

It is my creed that a man has no claim upon his fellow creatures beyond bread and water and a grave, unless he can win it by his own strength or skill.—Hawthorne.
