Brokers Need God

New York (CUP-ENS) - The men and women who guide the millions of investors on the stock market are turning for guidance to an unlikely source - God.

According to the old Trinity Church in the heart of New York's financial district attendance at mass is up 1000 per cent from last year.

George Bauer, a church official, admits that there is probably a connection between the dismal state of the market and the healthy attendances. Weekday attendance is now twice that of last year's bullish market.

But despite the surge in attendance, officials also note that contributions are off.
