The Peruvian Government is doing its best to suppress gambling in Lima. Chinese idols are the latest umbrella and cane handles for idle young men.

A human life is lost for every 50,000 tons of coal mined in the anthracite regions.

Shears with two blades and a spring back were used in old Rome for clipping sheep, hair and hedges.

The pastor of a church in Uniontown, Pa., has been requested to resign because he rode on a bicycle.

A canary bird was carefully buried in an Atlanta cemetery, a few days ago, in a satin-lined paper coffin.

A man aged sixty-five years, who claims never to have had a tooth, has been brought forward in New London, Conn.

A Voodoo woman in North Carolina, actually frightened four negroes to death by putting the "evil eye" on them.

When a man dies in Andaman, Society Islands, they paint him red, white and blue, so great is their respect for the English flag.

The ministers of Minneapolis, it is announced, propose not to buy anything of anybody who advertises in the Sunday newspapers.

Thomas Mercer, was buried in Philadelphia thirty-eight years ago. Last Friday he was exhumed and found to be perfectly petrified.

It is said that birth-marks may be removed by the use of a sun-glass. It must be employed judiciously, so as not to blister the skin.

A plucky 15-year-old girl grasped the bride of a runaway horse in Sacramento the other day, and quickly brought the animal to a standstill.

George Stirton, of Petshira, Scotland, who has just died at the age of 101 years, is said to have been the oldest freemason in Europe.

The Montreal Journal of Commerce estimates the direct loss from the recent floods in that city at $600,000, and the indirect loss at not less than three or four millions.

Fenton Fitzpatrick, a young man in the employ of Rev. Robert J. Johnston, pastor of St. Mary's church, Dedham, Mass., is missing together with the Easter collections of $950 which was given him to deposit.

Two wretched looking tramps were brought up before a Texas justice of the peace. Addressing the worst looking one, the justice asked: "Where do you live?" "Nowhere." "And where do you live?" "I said the justice, addressing the other: "I've got the room above."

A woman had been brought into court charged with attempting to poison her husband. The magistrate:—"Have you anything to offer in your defence?" She (in a hesitating voice):—"Y-ess, your honor. My friends were all the time telling me how well I would look in black."

Bishop Taylor of the Methodist Episcopal Church, who is said to have more missionary spirit than some whole missionary boards and entire churches, and who has recently travelled 600 miles on foot in the tropical climate of Africa establishing mission stations, is 70 years old.

Mrs. Jane Monroe Smith, of Red Bank, N. J., who attacked her four children with an axe, on Friday, while suffering from mental aberration, died Tuesday morning from the effects of poison taken soon after her attack upon the little ones. The three children are doing better than could be expected.

An English clergyman asked an uneducated woman whether she liked his written or unwritten sermons the best. After thinking a few moments, she said: "Why, I loike yo the best without the book, because you keep saying the same thing over and over again; and that helps me to remember what I hear a good deal better."

Herr Von Bulow, the pianist, has an extraordinary memory. No man living can approach him, probably, in the power of carrying an orchestral or piano score in his head. At a recent series of piano recitals in London he played the whole of Beethoven's thirty-three sonatas, five or six each night, and played them all from memory.

Rev. Dr. Hanson, of Chicago, recently lectured at Chautauqua, his subject being "Fools." Rev. Dr. Vincent, who something of a wag, introduced him as follows: "We are now to have a lecture on fools, by one—[long pause and loud laughter] of the wisest men in the country." The lecturer advanced to the desk and responded as follows: "I am not half so big a fool as Dr. Vincent—[long pause and loud laughter] would have you suppose."

After the failure of the Freedman's Bank, the clogged people of Georgia began to bury their money. Lum Mathis, of Marietta, buried $615 in a tin box, and died without revealing its location. Joe Cook of Marietta, buried half a bushel of silver dollars, and his heirs are still looking for the money. "Aunt Sallie Lester of Sun Hill, buried $900. On her death-bed she said to her daughter, "You will find that money in a jar at—" and died without completing the sentence.

MANHOOD. How Lost, How Restored.

We have recently published a new edition of DR. CULVERWELL'S CELEBRATED ESSAY on the radical and permanent cure (without medicine) of Nervous Debility, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., resulting from excess.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from thirty years' successful practice, that alarming consequences may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine, or the use of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately, and radically.

This Lecture should be in the hands of every youth and every man in the land.
