FINE DISPLAY OF ART WORK AT NOTRE DAME

Exquisite Articles Of Handicraft And Art Are Work Of Local Students

A real treat is in store for those who love beautiful hand made articles in the annual display of handicraft and art at Notre Dame Academy today and tomorrow. The exhibition opens at noon today and continues all day tomorrow.

The exhibition includes not only the work of pupils of the academy but of special students, some of them adults as well. Not the least interesting is the work of the "baby class," a grade one which has really noteworthy work on display.

But as was mentioned before the work has to be seen to be appreciated. And the opportunity is given to all interested to visit the academy this afternoon and all day tomorrow. The beautiful work show should prove a source of inspiration and delight.

Personal: Mrs. V.M. Hudson, Charlottetown, accompanied by her daughter Miss Queenie, arrived home last evening from a three weeks stay in Halifax.

Miss Agnes Trahan left on return to Worcester, Mass., this morning after visiting with her father Mr. James Trahan, 141 Spring Park Road.

Mr. and Mrs. H.D. Henderson and Prof. A.W. Truman and Mrs. Truman who have been guests of Mrs. W.A. Miller, leave for Sackville this morning. They were guests at the Royal Garden Party at Government House on Wednesday.

Their Majesties have received messages from all the Lieutenant Governors of Canada, including the following from Hon. G. D. DeBlois:—

Charlotteown, P. E. I. June 15th, 1939
His Majesty the King, Halifax.
May it please Your Majesty

On behalf of myself, and the people of the Province of Prince Edward Island, I humbly refer to Your Majesty and to Her Majesty, the Queen, our very sincere and heartfelt thanks for Your Majesties' gracious visit.

We rejoice in the good fortune of having had the privilege of contributing even a small part of a continent-wide effort to their visit. On Great George Street it was simply a case of directing many children to the station or one of the schools.

One of the greatest thrills of the day experienced by any leader was probably in the Parliament Building when the Queen asked Miss I. MacDonald, one of the Club leaders of Zion Group, a few questions about Scouting on the Island.

The following telegram was received yesterday by Premier Campbell from Their Majesties:—

The Premier of Prince Edward Island, Charlottetown
The Queen and I realize that a great deal of preparatory work was done in connection with our pleasant visit to Prince Edward Island. Will you please express to all who were concerned with both the making and the carrying out of the necessary arrangements, the sincere thanks of the Queen and myself. GEORGE RI.

THE SCOUTS ON THE JOB

Scouts and Cubs from all over Prince Edward Island were represented in Charlottetown on the day of the Royal Visit and in one way or another every boy had a job to do.

In the morning a group of Scouts were on duty at City Hall to assist in the local Children's Department. They had little to do in the morning, but soon after the Royal Party reached Government House they began to assist in restoring lost children to their units. On Great George Street it was simply a case of directing many children to the station or one of the schools.

One of the greatest thrills of the day experienced by any leader was probably in the Parliament Building when the Queen asked Miss I. MacDonald, one of the Club leaders of Zion Group, a few questions about Scouting on the Island.

That Her Majesty was much interested in the Guides was evidenced by the fact that at Government House she spoke to Miss Fullerton, commenting on the weather and to Joy Shierren and Margaret Fry, members of the Guard of Honour, also, when I, as your representative was presented to Her Majesty, she showed concern over the fact that it was raining and hoped that none of you had got wet. I know you will be glad to hear she thought of you and that it was worth while coming a long distance with your own Guide and Brownie smiles to get her smile.
