

2-Party System Advocated By MP

OTTAWA (CP)—Lloyd R. Cross (LPC—Queens-Lansburg) said he fears for the future of Canada unless there is a two-party system of government. There were only two parties in the throne speech debate, "the two main parties," he said. "Canada had grown to its present influence in the world on the two main parties."

"And unless we return to the two-party system I have grave doubts about the democratic future of Canada."

Mr. Cross also attacked the Liberal party which, he said, had taken a sharp swing to the left that "must have some old-line Liberals clinging to the right."

IMPACT EVIDENT
"The impact of the member from Assiniboia (Hazen Arvink) who left the NDP to join the Liberals is quite evident. I wonder how long it will be before he takes over the leadership of the party."

The Nova Scotia member said Liberal Leader Pearson's speech in the throne speech debate was "devoid of responsibility to the Canadian people."

With no party enjoying a clear majority in the House it was essential for all parties to work together for the good of Canada.

Venture Capital Company Formed

MONTREAL (CP)—A group of banks, insurance companies and other firms Wednesday announced the formation of a company to provide venture capital and management assistance for young Canadian enterprises.

The new company, called Canadian Enterprise Development Corporation, has a capitalization of $5,000,000.

A. Bruce Matthews, president and chairman of the corporation and president of the Excelsior Life Insurance Company said CED is not a lending agency "but will specialize in venture capital financing."

"Any new, small or medium-sized company is eligible for CED's assistance, provided it is managed by men of integrity who have worthwhile new ideas or concepts to market with excellent growth potential."

Investments of up to $500,000 would be considered "normal." The corporation would seek an equity position in every company it invested in.

OBITUARY

MRS. HUGH GILLIS
The committee of Vernon River and Shamrock were saddened to hear of the sudden passing of Mrs. Hugh Gillis on Saturday night, September 29, at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Hazel S. MacLeod, on Vernon River. Although stricken with a heart ailment in June, she had apparently made a good recovery.

The deceased was born August 19, 1866, to the late Mr. and Mrs. John MacDonald of Breadalbane and after her marriage to the late Hugh Gillis had resided in Shamrock until fifteen years ago when she went to live in Vernon River with her daughter, whose husband had passed away. Mrs. Gillis was a mother of twelve children and fostered five more. Although ninety-six years of age, she had all her faculties and an especial relative memory. With a cheerful and friendly disposition, she endeared herself to all, and was a most interesting conversationalist with whom friends and neighbors delighted to visit.

There are left to cherish her memory six sons: Archibald, Dr. Ewen and Donald in British Columbia; Fred in New York City; Dr. Thomas in Chicago, Illinois; and Samuel on the home-stead; and one daughter, Katie, Mrs. MacLeod, seven grandchildren and one great-grandchild; also survived are two half-brothers, Hugh A. MacDonald in British Columbia; Alex C. MacDonald on the old home-stead in Breadalbane; and one half-sister, Mrs. William Wells in Madison, Maine.

The many beautiful floral tributes testified to the esteem in which the deceased was held. A short funeral service at the home was conducted by Rev. T. R. Goudge, assisted by Dr. A. S. Weir. The flower bearers were Clinton Richards, Charles MacNeill, String MacLeod and Douglas Lee; and the pall bearers were Frank Lee, Irving Tweedy, Ernest Collings, Clarence Redmond, Roy Egan and Alan Curran. The largely attended service in the Rose Valley United Church, of which the deceased was a member, was conducted by Rev. Mr. Goudge. A duet "The Beautiful Land" was sung by Mr. and Mrs. Neil A. Matheson of Southport. The flower bearers were William Matheson; James McIntosh, Heber Fall and John Matheson; and the pall bearers were Donald Gillis, Samuel Nicholson, Angus M. MacDonald, Joseph Hughes, William MacDonald and Daniel Matheson. Interment was in Springton Cemetery.

New York City, West Germany Seen Customers

By ALAN DONNELLY
OTTAWA (CP)—For Canadian producers looking for export "markets in a nutshell"—concentrated buying power with high potential—the trade department is suggesting a close look at two areas: New York City, and a small group of West German retail buyers.

The first offers, within 3,900 square miles, a market almost as big as all Canada. The second, says the department, offers the possibility of a share in a $2,500,000,000 consumer market.

Douglas Girth, assistant trade commissioner in New York, describes the metropolitan New York-Jersey City area as "a good nutshell market—one that affords an ideal opportunity to test a product not only in terms of its acceptability to the U.S. market but also to world markets as a whole."

What does the New York area offer? For one thing, the largest and most diversified manufacturing operations in the U.S., with more than 50,000 manufacturing firms requiring industrial equipment and supplies. Another is the New York municipal government alone, with a budget about half that of the Canadian government.

Louis de Salaberry, Canadian trade commissioner in Düsseldorf, suggests that Canadian makers of consumer goods concentrate on the big West German buyers.

These nine-four leading department store chains and the five biggest co-operative purchasing groups— "dominate the West German market for consumer goods," he says.

With a booming economy and rising salaries, retail sales are rising too. Mr. de Salaberry's sales tips: Quota prices delivered at European ports; send descriptive literature—but not samples unless requested; write in German if possible; give assurance of continued supplies.

Arthritis Drug Maker Asked To Hold Product

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal authorities have asked the Montreal manufacturer of Liofort, a drug designed as a treatment for arthritis, to stop its distribution. It was disclosed here.

Dr. C. A. Morrell, director of the food and drug directorate, said in an interview that the manufacturer, Endocrine Laboratories, has given assurance of compliance with the request.

He said the drug had been distributed since last winter for clinical testing by qualified investigators but the food and drug directorate had not been satisfied with the kind of reports of the tests it had received from the manufacturer.

Dr. Morrell said the drug had not been released for general distribution and as far as he knew no person in Canada had suffered any ill effects from it. CALLED DANGEROUS

In Washington, Commissioner George P. Larrick of the Food and Drug Administration, said the drug is "dangerous and may not legally be imported into the United States."

A 71-year-old California woman was reported to have suffered a severe adverse reaction after obtaining the drug in Canada. She later died after complications set in.

Dr. Morrell said there was no export of the drug from Canada by the manufacturer, although individuals may have taken samples of it with them from Canada to the U.S.

The request that distribution be stopped in Canada was made last week.
