A Call.
I saw her flush.
In each blue eye a dancing light,
Her red lips pouting with delight;
Her round cheeks were roses bright.
I saw her flush.

I saw her flush.
"My hand is best!" she cried in glee.
"Mine all are red—yours, aces three!
The pot, the pot belongs to me!"
I saw her flush.

I saw her flush.
"Your hand is best, Maude," then I say:
"Nay I not hold it, love, alway?"
Her eyes quick to the carpet stray.
I saw her flush.

I watch her blush.
"Let us trade hands," I softly plead.
"One queen for life is all I need."
"You are my king," my love agreed.
I saw her flush!

KITCHEN RUN BY CITY.

At Grenoble, France, an Association Serves Good Food at Cost.

Housewives who think the co-operative kitchen is so far in the future that it would be absurd to look forward to it for relief from daily drudgery will be interested to hear that a kitchen with the same end in view as the co-operative has been in successful operation for nearly 50 years. The Association Alimentaire of Grenoble, France, is a purely municipal affair. The city owns it and supplies meals at cost in its own restaurant or delivers them at private homes.

Everything at the Association Alimentaire is as good as money can buy. The cooks are as clever as any in France, which is saying a great deal. The provisions are bought in the best markets and are carefully selected. The service is excellent. The dining rooms are of several grades, according to the furnishings and the attendance, so that all tastes may be accommodated. One may dine there for 3 cents on bread and soup and be satisfied or one may pay 12 cents and have a full course dinner. In the best rooms, which are marble floored and decorated with much elegance, there are waiters who look for tips as naturally as though they were in the swiftest of Parisian cafes.

Pure wines, which have been properly aged, are served at about 8 cents a liter.

There is no financial profit to the city in running this huge restaurant, which serves some 15,000 meals a day. The charges are based on the cost of the materials used, the employment of help and the amount spent in keeping the utensils, machinery and building in repair.—New York Press.

That Banshee's Wail.

There is considerable discussion in the English papers about the wail of the banshee which was said to have been heard in East Kerry before the fatal bog moved. A correspondent writes that the late Archbishop Whately, the celebrated archbishop's son, told him of a certain instance of the banshee's cry. The archdeacon said that he distinctly heard the wail while in an Irish country parish administering the holy communion to a dying man.

IT STRIKES HOME!

Chase's Ointment Cures All Skin Irritations.

Of the many skin diseases, eczema is one of the worst and most common. The one effective remedy so far discovered for it is Dr. Chase's Ointment. It has never been known to fail. Mr. Andrew Aiton, of Hartland, N.B., says: "My little daughter, Grace Ella, aged three and a half, was a dreadful sufferer from eczema for three years. We tried a number of alleged cures and several doctors, but all without effect. Her's was indeed a bad case. Her little body was entirely covered with rash. One day our local druggist, Mr. Wm. E. Thistle, recommended me to try Dr. Chase's Ointment. I did so, and four boxes effected a complete cure and saved our child."

Dr. Chase's Ointment is just as effective for piles, salt rheum and sores of all descriptions. For sale by all dealers and Edmanson, Bates & Co., manufacturers, Toronto; price 60 cents.

There is nothing to equal Chase's Linseed and Turpentine for severe colds and lung troubles. Large bottle 25 cents.

I am pleased to testify to the excellent qualities of your Pepsin Tutti Frutti as an aid to digestion and as a thirst allayer. In taking a spin through the country on my "bike" I always take a supply of Tutti Frutti with me.

Real Estate Values in New York.
Mrs. Schuyler Van Rensselaer has a paper on "Places in New York" in The Century. Speaking of the rapid increase of value of real estate in that city, Mrs. Van Rensselaer says: Two miles from the city hall? Very much farther away than this stands the new Herald building, where Broadway and Sixth avenue intersect. In 1845 the city owned its site and sold it for $9,930. The Herald now pays rent for it—for the land alone—at the rate of $60,000 a year. At the same sale 50 years ago a corner lot on Fifth avenue and Forty-second street brought $1,400, and in 1840 400 lots on Fifth avenue above Twentieth street were sold at prices ranging from $200 to $400. Within 20 years some of these were resold for $15,000 each, and you may guess their present worth for yourselves, remembering that business and business values have now moved into this region also.

Less than 20 years ago a much more northerly district, between Fifty-ninth and One Hundred and Tenth streets, west of Eighth avenue, would have shown you little but rocks and puddles and predatory goats and boys. Now much more than half its surface is covered with buildings, all of a very good class, and their estimated cost has been $170,000,000. Land up here is more precious than was land two miles from the city hall in the days of Philip Hone. And it is just as easy now as then to grow greatly richer in New York if you are already rich enough to buy little bits of its soil and to hold on to them for a little while.

"Bar" and "Keow" the Watchwords.
"Many people are unaware," said Representative Curtis of Kansas, "that Kansas had a shillbitch in border state times. In 1854, when the first tide of New England settlers began to drift into the southwest, it is related that the Missourians tied a cow at each crossing of the Missouri river. When an emigrant arrived at the crossing, he was certain to make some remark about the animal. If he said 'cow,' he was suffered to cross, but if he said 'keow' he was hustled out of the country as a bloody minded abolitionist. In retaliation for this the Kansans tied a bear on their side of the river, and when an emigrant crossed who called it 'bear' he was welcomed with open arms, but if he pronounced it 'bar' he was scooted back into Missouri as an unwelcome slavery advocate."—Washington Post.

Hard on the Victim.
Some very funny things sometimes creep into the schoolroom. A few days ago the class in physiology had the subject "asphyxia" for its morning lesson. Wishing to impress upon the pupils the necessity of being ready for an emergency, the teacher asked one of the members of the class to state what she would do in case some one was brought in who was supposed to be drowned. The young lady very promptly answered, "Lay the person flat on his back, with his face downward." It is needless to say that closed the recitation for that day.—Washington Pathfinder.

Dreamers.
"Don't forget, Philip," said Mr. Grate-dar, "that a man cannot live in castles in the air. If he spends too much time in dreaming, he is likely to find himself with but a poor shelter when storms come on. If a man would have a house of his own, he must build it himself, and he can do this only by faithful, unremitting labor. In fact, the greater part of life, Philip, is spent in carrying the hod. And he is happiest and likely to have the finest house who recognizes this fact and takes his hod up early."—New York Sun.

Womanly Sympathy.
"George Maitland left his wife a widow this morning."
"Poor dear, I am so sorry for her!"
"But they say George didn't treat her very well."
"Oh, it isn't that! With her sallow face she'll look just horrid in black."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

In Mexico it has been discovered that the administration of honey to smallpox patients banishes the pustules and decreases the fever immediately.
