

A city business man, who gets up at nine in the morning, takes an hour for lunch and leaves for home at four or five in the afternoon, little understands the hardships of the life of the farmer, who starts to work at break of day and frequently works on into the night by lantern-light.

Woman AGAINST Woman

BY MRS. MARY E. HOLMES.

Author of "A Woman's Love," "The Wife's Secret," "A Heartless Woman," "Her Fatal Sin," "A Wife's Peril," "A Desperate Woman."

"Leave me alone," she said as they went through the door—"quite alone." She stood silent as the small cortege disappeared, then her calmness went. Lady Darrell flung herself down on her knees and gave way to her feelings. "They went away together," she whispered, a crimson wave of color dyeing her gentle face—"together in anger, now Eustace lies dead, and Roy, my angel, my prince, my son Roy! No, Oh, God, keep the thought from my mind, or I shall go mad! Let me think clearly. They were angry, they may have parted friends. Eustace may have met his death alone. Oh, God, pray that it may be so! Roy, my darling, my precious Roy, can there be blood on your hands, on your soul! Oh, what sin have we done that this awful curse should come! It is too much—too much!"

The agony of her thoughts overpowered her. Lady Darrell sank forward on to the chair, and buried her face in her hands.

A few seconds after the door was opened, a figure entered. In two strides Roy Darrell was beside his mother, had lifted her to her feet, and clasped her to his heart.

"Roy!" she gasped, fearfully. "Thank God! And yet, oh, my son, my son!" "Mother," said the young man, "you know all. Hear me now, though I may never prove it. I know, I feel, I swear I am innocent of this crime!"

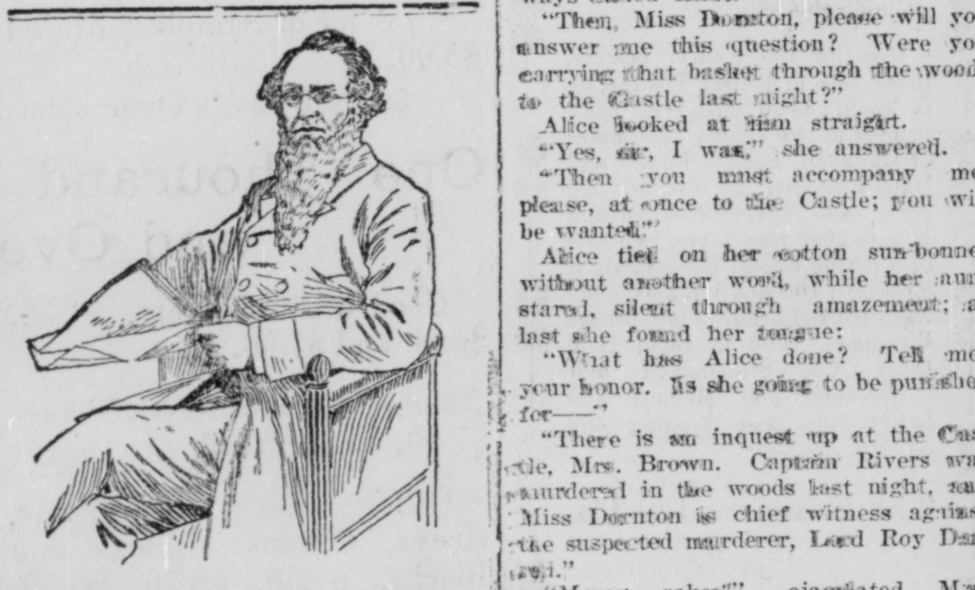

CHAPTER III.

"Answer me at once—at once, do you hear! Tell me what took you creeping out of the house at day-break, and why you was home so late last night." "Let her be, Martha," grumbled Farmer Brown, who was trying to spell through the newspaper, after eating a hearty mid-day meal.

"I shall not let her be," retorted the angry woman. "She shall know who's mistress here, I can tell her. Taking advantage of my being wanted at Mrs. Dixon's farm last night, she must needs go tramping about tillary hours! I don't believe she went into the castle. Answer me! What kept you so late, and what took you to the town this morning, sneaking out when we were fast asleep?"

"I cannot tell you, Aunt Martha," the girl answered quietly—but sullenly; but firmly. "Cannot tell me, indeed, you baes! Well, we'll see whether I can make you. Do not think me, and you talk to me. Do not think me, and you talk to

SUCCESSFUL MEN

MANY OF THEM ARE HANDICAPPED WITH CATARRHAL DISEASES.

Dr. A. W. CHASE

COMES TO THEIR AID.

Success in life is almost impossible for a man with bad breath. Nobody wants to do business with him. Nobody wants to associate with him. He is handicapped everywhere. Offensive breath comes from catarrh; sometimes from catarrh of the stomach, sometimes of the lungs, sometimes of the head, nose, and throat. It is from catarrh somewhere, and catarrh is another name for uncleanness. Many men understand this, and make every effort to cure it, but it is beyond the reach of ordinary practice. No self-respecting man can ignore catarrh. If he has it in any form he makes constant effort to be rid of it. There is something about the manner of life and the climate of Canada that seems to breed diseases of the mucous membrane. Medical science ordinarily doesn't try to cure catarrh; it "relieves" it; but Dr. Chase has been curing catarrh for over thirty years, and his name is blessed by thousands who have shaken off the grasp of this insidious disease. Sold by all dealers, price 25 cents per box, 50¢ per dozen.

The moments passed, and then she was summoned to leave the room. She walked down many passages, ignorant of all she passed—of the beauty of the walls, of the grandeur of the house, ignorant of all but that the moment had come when she must act.

The Antiquity of Glass.

Glass has been employed, we know, both for decorative and domestic purposes since the dawn of civilization. The earliest remains date from Egypt 3064 B. C. and are preserved in the British museum. It is an amulet in the form of a lion's head, of opaque blue color, with hieroglyphics that determine its date. On the rock cut tombs of the necropolis of Memphis glass blowers were depicted as early as 3900 B. C. Stories are told by Pliny, Josephus and other writers to account for its discovery, but these are very doubtful, so that we have only to rely upon facts attested by actual remains.

The discovery was doubtless fortuitous. Such lucky finds are often the work of chance. When it occurred, we cannot determine; but, so far as we know, Egypt, as she was the germ of all civilization, was also the mother of this art, which she applied to a multitude of purposes, strangely excepting that which we deem most necessary—namely, to admit light into buildings.

The dwellers by the Nile handed down the art to the Phoenicians, who in like manner bequeathed it to the Assyrians. Then it was passed along to the Persians and the Greeks, then to the Romans and the Byzantines, who in turn communicated it to the Venetians. The monks of the middle ages appropriated it to beautify their Gothic temples, and so it came down the centuries to modern times.—Frank H. Vitzelly in Woman's Home Companion.
