'Leftovers Litter Table As Parliament Prorogues

By RONALD LEBEL

OTTAWA (CP) — Substantial leftover littered the table when Parliament prorogued Saturday night after nibbling on the Liberal legislative program for 23 weeks.

The "meal" was disrupted by sporadic shouting matches and consisted of a light diet of 15 major items and 24 routine house-keeping bills.

A wide array of touchy, crucial issues were left over for the 1964 session opening in the second week of February. These issues include:

The Canada contributory pension plan, introduced in the Commons July 18, boycotted by Quebec, attacked strongly by some sectors of the business community and modified at a series of federal - provincial talks.

Far-reaching changes in railway legislation, affecting the abandonment of money losing branch lines and passenger services, freight rates and government subsidies to the CNR and CPR.

A major overhaul of Canada's election laws.

The 1964 menu also lists such items as ratification of the 1961 Columbia River power treaty, expanded mortgage and housing provisions, changes in the unemployment insurance scheme, a new labor code and an Indian claims commission.

The much-criticized splitting of the Northwest Territories into new territories also was left over. So were the creation of a Canada development corporation to invest public funds in the private sector and appointment of the Senate's new divorce commissioner as a judge of the Exchequer Court.

As well, the 1964 session will be asked to approve a bilingual program for the civil service, various government reorganizations, criminal code amendments, air transport laws and new bankruptcy procedures.

Sound and fury dominated most of the first session under minority Liberal management.

Controversy piled on controversy over the minority government's approach to economic affairs, defence, English-French relations and transport.

ENMITIES PERSIST

The animosities of the April 8 election campaign remained alive for months and the ever-present possibility of a snap election preoccupied many MPs.

The opposition accused the government of ineptitude, arrogance and political patronage. But the Liberals survived vote after vote with the help of Social Credit MPs and sometimes the New Democrats or Creditistes.

The session lasted 117 sitting days, the longest since the record 174-day session in 1960-61.

These were the main legislative developments:

1. Unprecedented government trusteeship was placed on the Seafarers' International Union of Canada and four other marine unions in an effort to end labor violence on the Great Lakes.

2. Taxes were increased to finance new programs and perhaps reduce the deficits of recent years. A graduated sales tax was clamped on building materials and production machinery; personal income tax was boosted by one percentage point to help finance an old age pension increase. Tax incentives were provided for foreign-controlled companies with 25-per-cent Canadian ownship and industries settling in any one of 35 depressed areas.

3. On the economic planning front, a 28-member economic council and a department of industry were established. A $400,000,000 municipal loan fund was created and a $100,000,000 fund was provided for the Atlantic Development Board.

4. Federal aid to the provinces for technical and vocational schools was extended under a new formula to 1967.

5. Old age pensions to all at age 70 and pensions for the needy aged 65-69, the blind and the disabled were boosted by $10 to $75 monthly.

6. Substantial salary increases were voted for MPs, senators, federal judges, lieutenant-governors and 31 members of various boards.

A two-year procedural blockade against divorce bill by some NDP members ended after new divorce machinery was promised. As a result, 503 divorce petitions from Quebec and Newfoundland were approved.

Borrowing authority was given to the St. Lawrence Seaway authority to double the Welland Canal's capacity in a $180,000,000 five-year project.

EXPAND BOARDS

Other bills expanded various boards, extended gold mining subsidies for four years and small business loans for three years. Tariff surcharges imposed by the Conservative cabinet in 1962 were ratified by Parliament to kill off lawsuits for $100,000,000-plus.

For the first time in nearly two years, all government spending was approved by Parliament in the customary fashion. Spending estimates of $7,300,000,000 for 1963 - 64 were passed, mosty in the last two weeks of the session.

There was an unprecedented avalanche of 1,906 written questions, 203 motions for publication of official documents, 82 motions and 72 private members' bills.

Committees were unusually active, with six or seven of them often meeting at the same time. Committee investigations were launched into defence policy, election laws, consumer credit, parliamentary procedure, pesticides and the problems of the aged.

All of these incomplete studies are expected to resume next year.

The June13 budget sparked the longest and most acrimonious debate by far. The sales tax was bitterly condemned for days on end and the income tax bill was debated sporadically for 13 days in the Commons.

The measure was held up for two weeks in the Senate before finally receiving royal assent Dec. 5. The traditionally docile upper chamber killed the government bill to appoint the divorce commissioner to the Exchequer Court and a Senate committee killed another government measure relating to harbor boards.

Shorter battles developed over the government's decision to acquire nuclear weapons and on defence cutbacks, the September split in Social Credit ranks, and TCA's purchase of the DC-9 jet aircraft.

Standings in the 265-seat Commons at prorogation were Liberals 129, Conservatives 95, NDP 17, Creditistes 13, Social Credit 11.

In the 102 seat Senate, standings were Liberals 60, Conservatives 34, independents 2, Independent-Liberal 1, vacancies 5.

Bank Robbing Plot Is Failure

HAMILTON (CP) — Police are looking for would-be thieves whose novel plot to rob a bank failed here.

The bank's telephone lines had been tapped for the intended purpose of listening to incoming and outgoing calls. But a wrong connection disrupted phones and caused a short circuit in the alarm system.

The wiretappers escaped. Police found their rented car beside a telephone pole near the bank. In it were two telephones for listening in on the bank's two trunk lines. A small metal box and four toggle switches controlled the equipment.

The tappers had hooked their lines into the telephone junction box on a pole about 200 feet from the bank.

Police said that had they been successful, they might have got away with as much as $200,000.

Detectives said that they could have learned the exact times of money transfers, when payrolls were being made up and the names and values of various bank accounts for forging purposes.

Police do not think the would-be thieves had a chance to use their equipment. The car was rented Sunday night.

Million Tons Of Fill Needed

MONTREAL (CP)—The Montreal administration has called for public tenders on 1,000,000 tons of fill required to complete the island site for the 1967 Montreal world's fair.

The announcement said tenders will be opened Jan. 14 and the successful bidder then will have 90 days in which to haul the fill to the site by truck.

Dredging operations in the St. Lawrence River to date had supplied only 1,500,000 of the estimated 20,000,000 cubic yards of fill required to build up the island.

The city administration already has ordered contractors working on the Montreal subway to take all excavated material to the fair site.

Under an agreement with the federal and Quebec governments, the city is committed to turn the completed site over to the Canadian Corporation for the 1967 world exhibition by July 1, 1964.

TEST YOUR PLAY

1. You are declarer with the West hand at Four Spades.

	♠KJ974 ♥5 ♦642 ♣AJ73
♠10863 ♥K9 ♦AJ10 ♣K94	N W E S	♠AQ1062 ♥Q7 ♦KQ83 ♣Q5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♥	Dble	2♥	2♠
Pass	Pass	4♠

North leads the king of hearts and continues with the ace. How would you play the hand?

2. You are declarer with the West hand at Three Notrump. North leads the seven of hearts. How would you play the hand?

	♠AJ96 ♥J93 ♦A97 ♣AK8
♠K1042 ♥A84 ♦K543 ♣Q93	N W E S	♠Q105 ♥K64 ♦J62 ♣J1064

1. It is obvious from the bidding that North has the ace of diamonds or king of clubs (possibly both). There is no danger of going down if it turns out that North has the ace of diamonds, for so some provision must be made for the possibility that South has it. South may have some sure hand as: S. 5 3 H 10 8 7 3 D A J 10 C. 9 8 4 2.

To cover this possibility, ruff the heart, draw trumps, and lead a low club towards the queen. If North has the king, he will have to play it or never get a club trick. If he takes the king, two diamonds can later be discarded from dummy on the A-J of clubs, and the only losers will be a heart, a diamond and a club.

If it turns out that South has the king of clubs, that will prove that North has the diamond ace, in which case the only losers will again be a heart, a diamond and a club.

It would be a mistake to lead diamonds ahead of clubs. Thus, in the example cited, South would take the ace and return a diamond, and the contract would also go down if clubs were led from dummy for the purpose of taking a finesse. The losers would be a heart, a club and two diamonds.

2. Assuming North's seven is his fourth best heart, he is likely to have the K-Q-8-7-x, K-10-8-7-x, or Q-10-8-7-x. The winning play, in the long run, is go up with the ace, and take a spade finesse. This play will succeed in the last two cases and fail in only the first case—assuming, in each case, that North has the king of spades.

The effect of going up with the ace at trick one is that the hearts cannot be run if South has the Kx or Q-x while ducking the heart would permit South to win and return a heart, and thus unblock the suit.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
