

P.M. Pays Surprise Visit To Windsor; Requests Privacy

WINDSOR, Ont. (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker paid a surprise visit to Windsor Tuesday and made no bones about his desire for privacy.

He arrived unannounced on an early-morning train. His welcoming party consisted of Norman Spencer and Richard Thrasher, Progressive Conservative MPs for Essex West and Essex South.

Officially Mr. Diefenbaker is visiting here to receive the 33rd degree of the Supreme Council, Ancient and Scottish Rite of Canada. The order is holding its annual convention this week.

Ontario's Premier Leslie Frost and federal Finance Minister Fleming were also in town. Mr. Frost is also here to receive the order's 33rd degree. Mr. Fleming was conferred with the 33rd degree four years ago.

Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Frost were to be given the degrees Tuesday night.

There were reports Mr. Frost and Mr. Diefenbaker were to confer. It was not known what was to be discussed or whether a meeting was held.

One of the first things the prime minister noticed on his arrival was a couple of fishermen on the Detroit River. He expressed surprise at the size of the pickered he was told are caught there.

After breakfasting in his private car, the prime minister took a stroll up Ouellette Ave., the city's main north-south business street. He posed for a picture and then asked newsmen to give him an hour and a half to himself.

He and Mrs. Diefenbaker then visited Mrs. Diefenbaker's cousin, Mrs. Flora Macleod. The newsmen tagged along, then gave up at the cousin's residence when the prime minister again pleaded for privacy.

Finds Ancient Skeleton With Gold Bucket

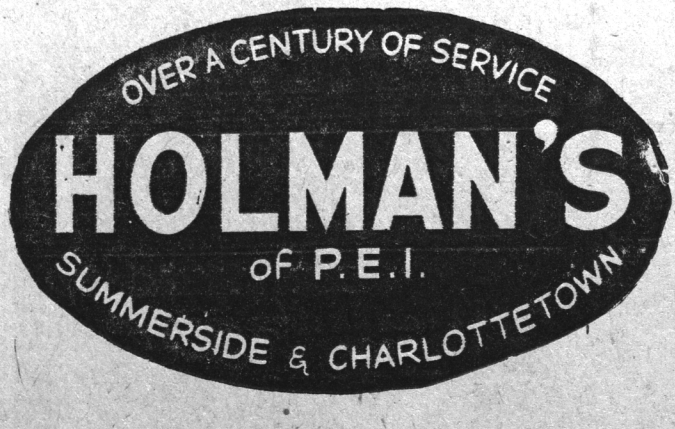

TORONTO (CP)—A 31-year-old archaeologist from suburban Swansea was revealed Tuesday as the finder of "one of the great archaeological discoveries of recent years."

The discovery is a solid gold bucket clasped in the hands of a 2,500-year-old skeleton in excavations in Iran.

The discoverer is Runnymede Collegiate and Harvard graduate Robert H. Dyson, field director for an archaeological team from the University of Pennsylvania.

In a letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Dyson, he describes the bucket he found in the ruins of a collapsed building as "bent flat, but still eight inches across by a foot high, and both sides covered with the most amazing figures of people riding chariots, making offerings to the gods."

Mr. Dyson said the iron age city of Hasanlu on the shore of Lake Urmia in northwestern Iran, which he and his team were excavating, was a powerful community which inexplicably came to an abrupt end about 813 B.C.
