RCAP officer lines nuclear weapons role

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time, an RCAP officer has stated publicly what nuclear weapons would mean for the Canadian air defence system. Writing in the June issue of the Roundup, monthly RCAP magazine, Air Vice-Marshal Murray Lister, deputy chief of staff for operations, North American Air Defence Command, said: "The MB-1 atomic air-to-air rocket engine and GAR-1 Falcon atomic guided missile, now utilized by NORAD aircraft in the United States, tremendously increase the kill capability of the fighter-interceptor. "Described as the 'most important aerospace defence development since the introduction of radar,' the Genie was first tested in 1952. The GAR-1 joined the NORAD inventory in the summer of 1959. "When detonated in a formation of enemy bombers, either the Genie or the Falcon have on the attacking aircraft. "KILL ATOMIC BOMB "More important, however, is the fact that a atomic defence weapon has the capability of killing an atomic bomb—that is, it will render it harmless whereas conventional weapons will bring the bomber down but the weapon it is carrying can still detonate with devastating results."

Control System Fault Seen Cause of Orly Field Crash

PARIS (AP)—Air France officials here have demonstrated their belief that a failure of the elevation control system may have caused Sunday's tragic jetliner crash that took the lives of 130 persons. New instructions, it was learned at Orly Field, have been issued to the line's Boeing 707 jet planes on pre-flight testing of the movable horizontal tail surfaces which determine a craft's up and down direction. The instructions were issued Monday. Previously, according to standard regulations, these controls were tested as part of the check list while the craft was standing still before the air terminal, and again at the end of the runway just before the takeoff run. Under the new instructions, pilots are to test the control surfaces again early in the takeoff run when the craft reaches a ground speed of about 110 miles an hour. At this point, the craft still has enough runway left to halt. If anything seems amiss on this third test the pilots are immediately to cut their engines, brake the craft, and cancel the flight. At this point, the craft still has enough runway left to halt. Officials in charge of the investigation maintained a tight silence on their findings, but Orly Field sources said investigators had virtually confirmed that the ill-fated craft had attained and even exceeded normal takeoff speed Sunday.
