

Selected Poetry

LINES ON THE DEATH OF REV. W. H. TILLEY.

BY MRS. W. Y. BRUNTON.

"Another Ship: Another Voyage."
Arrived scarce midway o'er life's changing sea,
This barque so richly freighted for the land
With precious gifts of Christian charity;
Hope's flag unfurled, steered by the Master's hand,
Swift spreads death's shadow o'er the sunlit sky.
The dark'ning clouds of suffering and gloom
Wrap the brave ship, which struggles bravely on,
But vainly strives against impending doom.
Though his frail vessel, wrecked and tempest tossed,
Hath passed into the port of endless day,
Still must we mourn our friend, so early lost,
'Till time and faith shall wipe our tears away.
We miss the words which shed their healing balm
O'er many a fainting soul and wounded breast;
His gentle, beaming smile, serene and calm,
Cheering the erring spirit to its rest.
Thus, when the troubled voyage of life is o'er,
With storm-tried barque and drooping sail unfurled,
Oh, may we see thee beck'ning from the shore
The glorious Haven of a brighter world

Household Hints.

To Wash a Flannel Skirt.—A flannel skirt, embroidered with blue (or other colors), to set the color, should be soaked for ten minutes in a pail of cold water containing a teaspoonful of sugar of lead. Then wash it in tepid water made soft with borax. Use very little soap; it hardens the wool. Rinse well, and hang where it will dry quickly.
Chicken Pie.—Cut up a large chicken; if it is tough parboil it. Place your crust in a deep, well buttered pudding dish, then a layer of thin salt pork, and on that a layer of chicken; pepper it; chop up two or three hard boiled eggs, and sprinkle some over the chicken; then more pork, chicken, and egg, until the chicken and half pound of pork is used up; pour in enough of the water in which it was parboiled to make a gravy; cover with a crust; ornament it a little; bake an hour, or longer if the pie is very large.
Mince Meat.—Two pounds of fresh beef, the tongue boiled, or two pounds of lean roast beef, one pound of beef suet, two pounds of stoned raisins, two of washed and dried currants, one pound of candied citron; mince all these separately, then mix them well together, and add to them two pounds of sugar, grated rind of four lemons, an ounce of allspice, half an ounce of cinnamon, half an ounce of cloves, one ounce nutmegs, all the spices ground; half an ounce salt, and one teaspoonful black pepper, three pints brandy, one pint sherry; mix well all together and put in covered jars some days before use; when you make your pies add to the above three pounds chopped apples and one pint sweet cider.

Facts and Scraps.

A farmer being poorly provided with materials of sustenance for his men, fed them with pork cooked with the rind upon it. A young man of the company, not liking the outer portion of the food, was observed by the host to be carefully removing the outside covering, whereupon the latter said, "Young man, we eat the rind and all here." To which the youth replied, "All right, old man; I'm cutting it off for you."
Brigham Young used to be noted for his ingenuity in evading a difficulty. It is said that a disciple strong in the faith once lost a leg, and prayed him to have another supplied by miraculous growth. The prophet answered that he could command another to grow, of course, but begged his petitioner to consider how awkward it would be to walk around heaven with three legs, when the other saints there would have only two! The device succeeded, and the sufferer went away satisfied.
"The millennium has come," said a lion to a lamb; "suppose you come out of that fold, and let us lie down together, as it has been foretold we should." Been to dinner to-day?" inquired the lamb. "Not a bite of anything since breakfast," was the reply, except a few lean swine, a saddle or two of some old harness." "I distrust a millennium," continued the lamb thoughtfully, "which consists solely in our lying down together. However, you may go over yonder sunny hill and lie down until I come."
It was at a dinner party at Mr Prescott's Nahant residence, years ago, the honored guest being an English Baronet. Just as the first course was removed, the historian and host, turning to his guest, said: "I am afraid you'll miss your soup. We have given you instead our usual side dish." "Indeed!" answered the Baronet. "And what do you call it?" "Chowder." "How?" "Chowder." "Would you be so kind as to spell it for me?" "C-h-o-w-d-e-r! How do you like it Sir John?" "Well," said the noble Briton, "I've travelled a good deal in my time, and I confess that I've eaten things that were worse, but not much—not much!" The guests kept their faces straight as long as possible; but the roar came at last, and it was a hearty one.
The "Vietsburg Herald" says—Common laborers are now earning in this state and in Louisiana from $50 to $75 per month, yet we are constantly hearing of starvation and strikes in the North. Laborers, come South.
Between 8,000 and 10,000 eyes are sold annually in the United States. An eye-maker gives one in 125 as the population of one-eyed people. Computing the population of the country at 42,000,000, this ratio gives 536,000 as the number of people with only one eye in the United States.
