Young Women Enter Maryknoll Sisters, N. Y.

Beginning their religious training for foreign mission work, 49 postulants received the Maryknoll Sisters' habit and their religious names at a ceremony in the Motherhouses at Maryknoll, N.Y., on March 7. Among them was a young woman from P. E. Island, Miss Alice Geraldine Dolron of St. Charles Parish, Souris, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo G. Dolron of St. Charles, and a graduate of the New Acadian School and St. Mary's Convent, Souris, Prince Edward Island. Two years before her entrance at Maryknoll in September, 1947, she taught school in Charlottetown. Her name in religion will be Sister Leo Marie.

At the same time, 27 novices pronounced their First Vows and are now eligible for assignment to the mission field. One novice is Sister James Florence, the former Miss Florence Blanchard, daughter of Dr. James Edward Blanchard, 15 Kensington Road, Charlottetown, Prince Edward Island. Dr. Blanchard was mayor of Charlottetown from 1944-1946.

She attended Notre Dame Academy in Charlottetown and graduated from Mount St. Vincent Academy in Halifax, Nova Scotia. While at school she was treasurer of the Catholic Students' Mission Crusade at Notre Dame Academy and also of the Sodality at Mount St. Vincent Academy. She entered Maryknoll in 1947.

The Rev. John B. Sheerin, C.P., editor of The Catholic World, spoke at the ceremony, and the Very Rev. Thomas S. Walsh, Vicar-General of the Maryknoll Fathers, officiated.

Seventeen States have contributed this group of 77 young Sisters. There are also seven from Canada, and others from the Panama Canal Zone, Hawaii, and the Philippines and Guatemala.

In the group are 23 college graduates, - nurses, laboratory technicians, teachers, a bacteriologist, a Social Service Worker and a dietitian. Others are secretaries, office workers and young business women. A number have come directly after high school graduation.

The Maryknoll Sisters staff hospitals in China, Bolivia, the Philippines and, in the past year, have begun to staff hospitals in Korea and Ceylon. Dispensaries are maintained in China, Africa, Nicaragua and Panama. They have schools in Hawaii, the Philippines, China, the Caroline Islands, Africa, Panama, Nicaragua, Bolivia and the United States. They also do Social Service work in Hawaii, California and in Boston, New York and Chicago. The maintenance of these medical and educational works requires a great number of trained professional workers.

acquainted. It amuses us to hear nowadays "Well, I should love to come - but I don't know how to drive a horse! If there were carried, it would be different!" We recall that Ellen, nice and name-sake of ours, and her sisters are among the number of young folk who have been accustomed to hitching and driving horses since as children they spent many hours with a beloved pony. There was as well the driver known as "Old Todd" also much respected and as necessary to their school days as the books and lunches they carried.

James has a notion that all farm children, to be natural, should be born with a liking for, and a knowledge of handling horses. We overheard him tease Jamie about this recently after the two had been along the fields on a matter of hauling with the team, and Jamie had been content to be a mere passenger instead of demanding the reins. James' memory goes back to the days when on an outing with his mother, perhaps as far as her old home, while he did the driving, she kept a firm clutch on the lines, beyond his notice. He related to Jamie that he "once knew a man who couldn't drive a horse" his tones indicating that this gentleman was the very soul of helplessness, and consequently to James' idea, much to be pitied.

"A Minister," this was, of the long ago-"and he was content to sit there... a fat man and nice and fine looking". "And a little deat" we reminded James. "Yes," he nodded, "and in a beaver hat-he sat there and let his wife drive. That's what you'll have to do, Jamie, if ever you are called to be a Minister. You'll have to let your woman drive you to and from your winter appointments!" James chuckled. And Jamie smiled until a dimple showed and replied "but there'll be no horses used then - it will be a plane or a helicopter!"

Dark and rainy tonight but warm for the lambskins, the calves and piglets now making "Spring" appearance in fold and stable and sty.

Until tomorrow - Diary-Good-night....

It was learned with regret that our good friend Mr. Gerald Barry, who has been foreman around the packing plants here for thirty years will not be on the job this spring owing to poor health. Gerry will be sorely missed around the plant by many of the old timers, who have been with him for three decades. He will be replaced by Mr. Ted Anderson. Mr. Anderson, a Bristol man, has many years experience to his credit in the packing of fish.
