THE DAILY EXAMINER.

JUNE 21, 1889.

Notes and Comments.

—What about that fence?

—Yesterday (20th June) was the twelfth anniversary of the big fire in St. John, N. B., when almost the entire business portion of the city and the best part of its residences, all its banks, newpaper offices and one half of its churches were swept out of existence.

—The Toronto World rises to remark: According to statistics furnished by official investigation, Michigan farmers pay $5,000,000 a year interest on mortgages, and Illinois $4,919,000 a year interest. And yet these farmers have a market of sixty millions wherein to sell their wheat and their chickens!

—Canada is being mixed up a good deal with the Cronin murder business. Alexander Sullivan, the chief suspect, was born on our soil; Cronin himself had been a resident of Ontario; Woodruff, one of the chief witnesses, is said to be an ex-Canadian volunteer; and now Burke, one of the supposed accomplices, has been taken into custody on Canadian soil!

—According to a late Berlin despatch, a memorial was handed to Emperor William by Gen. Count Von Waldersee two weeks ago setting forth the fact that Russia was arming her troops, and begging the Emperor to ask the Czar the meaning of these warlike preparations. The communication has caused the Emperor considerable irritation. Prince Bismarck is persuaded, however, that Russia has no hostile intentions.

—In the French Chamber of Deputies, a few days ago, M. Roche moved that the House grant a credit of 915,000 francs to complete the ironclads now in course of construction. Admiral Krantz, Minister of Marine, replied that that sum would not be sufficient. He said that a serious effort would be necessary to bring France's naval strength up to the proper standard, and announced that the Government would soon ask a credit of 50,000,000 or 60,000,000 francs for naval improvement.

—A despatch from Woburn, Mass., says that a Rev. Mr. Montgomery, of that place preached recently on the subject, "What to do with an Alderman who violates the law." He took his text from Psalms vii. 15, 16: "He made a pit and digged it, and is fallen into the ditch which he made. His mischief shall return upon his own head, and his violent dealing shall come down upon his pate." The sender of the telegram says that the church was thronged, but neglects to state what punishment the versatile clergymen proposed meting out to the erring alderman.

—The newspapers of the Old Country and of the United States are busily engaged just now discussing the matter of a successor to Pope Leo XIII. Some of them have already decided that the next Pope will be either an English or an American cardinal, and mention the names of Cardinals Howard, Manning, Newman, Moran, Gibbons and Taschereau as among the possible candidates. The Boston Herald thinks that "Cardinal Howard has, perhaps, the greatest influence at Rome, having lived there for a number of years, but the Canadian cardinal may be considered to be, politically speaking, the best candidate for the position." We presume, however, that the Sacred College will be able to make a selection when the time comes without any assistance from the press or other outside source.

—Toronto Empire:—The pettifogging trickiness of the Washington authorities is characteristically displayed by one detail as to the official correspondence about the dodge of preventing residents in Canada from crossing the border for their daily work. The Treasury Department writes to the Secretary of State's Department claiming great credit for observing and enforcing the law against "immigrants." How impudent is this pretext for a mean trick is shown by the fact that the law is enforced against men who will not become immigrants, preferring to remain in Canada, but if the same men become emigrants by removing to the United States then there is an immediate cessation of the enforcement of the law against these immigrants. Haliburton's typical Yankee peddlers, with their ingenious but dishonest devices, seem to have left the road and betaken themselves as "statesmen" and officials to Washington.

—A writer in the editorial columns of the Patriot complains of the annoyance to which he is subjected these evenings consequent upon having to listen to the noise of workmen building houses after hours. He is also very much annoyed, not to say astonished, at the audacity of the poor man who undertakes to build an unpretentious dwelling in the neighborhood of a "gentleman's palace or garden!" Here is an extract from the article in question:—

"The suburbs, where our wealthy men delight to live, are subject to the same ever-going-on-shanty-building horror. Some rich man dies or becomes poor; his fields are lotted off at sale, a small deposit only is needed, and purchasers of all classes eagerly gobble up the land. Soon commences a cellar, sometimes a mire hole in the ground alongside a gentleman's palace or garden; more often a two-storey flat-top box about 20x30 feet is set up on piles occupied by a man in his shirt sleeves, a woman in her slatterns, and a herd of tow-headed brats, whose nights for months previous have been filled with noise and row enough to wake the neighborhood or the seven sleepers; apart from every other consideration, the unceasing nightly noise, in all the suburbs of this city, by this after-hours building mania, is a nuisance most intolerable to men and women trying to sleep off the mental and physical wear and tear of the day."

There is another kind of house to which the writer in question does not refer. It is built of glass, and it would be well for the occupants thereof not to throw stones. The Patriot is very fond of posing as the friend of the workingman when an election is on, but at other times is not so solicitous for his welfare, as is evidenced by the admission to its columns of the article under consideration. This is a free country, and the workman in his "shirt sleeves" has equal rights with the "gentleman" who lives in a "palace." But there are some persons who would like to have it otherwise. The Patriot writer is evidently one of these.

War in Every Breeze.

GERMANY WARNED TO PREPARE FOR THE INEVITABLE.

A recent Berlin despatch says: The statement that M. Persiani, the Russian Minister at Belgrade, had proposed a Russo-Servian convention caused uneasiness here. The receipt of semi-official telegrams from Belgrade declaring the story unfounded has tended to restore confidence. Events in the Balkans do not mature as rapidly as it was feared they would. That alarm is felt is evidenced by the renewal of official press attacks upon Russian credit during the past week, which reacted unfavorably upon German securities. The Russian Minister of Finance was negotiating with leading houses here, including the Discomte Gesellfchaft, in relation to the conversion of certain private Russian railways. The North German Gazette pointedly referred to the proposed operation as illegal, and even the Liberal Vossiche Zeitung warned German investors to unload Russian stock as speedily as possible in readiness for the inexitable life and death struggle between Russia and Germany. The committee of the Boerse is expected to deliver an opinion to-morrow on the legality of the proposed conversion, but it is felt that the Government would not have exposed German capital to greater losses except to avert still greater dangers, and that had Balkan affairs been peaceful nothing would have been heard of the legality of the conversion scheme. The Servian government has refused to renew the commercial treaty with Austria-Hungary, which expires in 1890. Everything indicates that the Russian party in Belgrade, confident of its ascendancy, is working to effect some definite aim and that its schemes can only end in precipitating a war or in a peaceable partition of the Balkan States between Austria and Russia.

A London despatch says that in speaking of the Servian news published above, an attache of the Foreign Office, who has just returned from Belgrade, says:—Affairs in Servia are in a very excited and uneasy state at the present moment, and the Government will be fortunate if they have nothing more serious than an occasional riot to deal with. The Servians are governed by a boy king who is twelve years of age, and a regency composed of M. Ristics and two generals of somewhat doubtful reputation. M. Ristics is the only Servian who has a European reputation, and is no doubt a very able man. He wants Servia to follow an independent line, and to be henchman either of Russia or Austria. The report that he is coquetting with Russia is largely manufactured in Vienna, where one and all the correspondents appear to be in the pocket of the Austrian Foreign Office, and we all know by this time what these attacks on M. Ristics really mean. Ristics' great authority will undoubtedly be to keep Servia in safe and prudent courses. The fall of the other two regents is extremely likely to be one of the events of the near future, but it will not drag him down also."

Teachers and Scholars.

The one serviceable, safe, certain, remunerative, attainable quality in every study and every pursuit is the quality of attention. My own invention or imagination, such as it is, I can most truthfully assure you, would never have served me as it has but for the habit of common-place humble, patient, daily toiling, drudging attention.—Dickens.

The influence of good discipline will be felt throughout all after-life. Many children are under little or no parential restraint, and hence the greater necessity for strong and prompt discipline in school. Parents from indifference or want of judgment often exercise no control over their children, and whatever of submission to authority they must learn must come from the teacher or from fear of punishment by the law. With the boy or girl who has learned obedience, the law will have little to do. We, as teachers, have much reason to care for the discipline of a pupil from a civil standpoint.—Cravens.

Character is never formed by removing opportunities either of evil or good. You must lead children to do right in the face of wrong as well as beyond it; and have them do it every time, not because it is easy, but because they choose to do it. The development of the will-power in the right direction is the highest and best work we can require of the teachers. What can they do? Tell me what a boy is interested in, and how he spends his leisure hours, and I will generally determine to you his character. Because I believe this, I urge the teachers to interest their pupils in the facts and forms of nature, in science and art, and to lead them to discover the pure and the good in every school task, and in all their lessons, and to form in each pupil, as far as possible, proper habits of reading, and thinking, and studying.—Hall.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

An Answer.

SIR,—Your correspondent "Nux Vomica," in your issue of Wednesday, wishes to know if the bovines and equines which were seen grazing by him in the precincts of St. Peter's Cathedral were placed there by design, or if the gathering was accidental. For the information of "Nux Vomica" I beg leave to state: First: That the cows and horses of Charlottetown have been presented with the freedom of the city by the City Council. Second: That the assembling of those graminivorous animals is hereby accounted for.
