Education Association Looks To Bigger Role

By GERRY McNEIL, Canadian Press Staff Writer
SASKATOON (CP)—The Canadian Education Association wrapping up a three-day convention Thursday, took steps that will give it a bigger role in research and other fields.

"Steps have already been taken to find ways in which the CEA can give the leadership that is expected of it," said Dr. C. E. Phillips of Toronto, new CEA president.

The board of directors, composed of education leaders from each province, announced establishment of a committee to study the structure and activities of the "whereby it may provide more effective leadership."

RESEARCH REPORT
A report on research recommended that an organization called the Canadian Council for Research on Education be set up to correlate educational research activities and disseminate the information.

"We are children when it comes to educational research," said Dr. F. E. MacDiarmid, deputy minister of education in New Brunswick and the outgoing president.

One of Dr. MacDiarmid's final duties was the presentation of the Althouse Award, established after the death of a former CEA president, to Dr. Harold L. Campbell, Dr. Campbell, fourth recipient of the award, has been superintendent of national defence schools in Europe since he retired in 1958 as deputy minister of education in British Columbia. He was born in Prince Edward Island.

PANEL DISCUSSION
A final panel discussion on developments in reading and reading habits attracted interest to a Nova Scotia program begun in 1953.

Harold M. Nason of Dartmouth, N.S., director of elementary and second education with Nova Scotia's education department, outlined the program.

Mr. Nason said that the program was designed to help children learn to read by using a variety of materials and methods. He said that the program had been successful in increasing the number of children who were able to read at the end of the school year.

Quebec Still Refuses Federal Univ. Grants

QUEBEC (CP)—Premier Paul Sauve indicated Thursday his attitude toward federal grants to Quebec universities refused by the late Premier Duplessis' government for the last six years is the same as that of his predecessor.

At a press conference Mr. Sauve commented on a statement made here by Defence Minister Raymond O'Hurley during an interview. Mr. O'Hurley said the federal government is ready to turn over to Quebec universities the money refused by them to date—$26,221,000.

Mr. Sauve, who assumed leadership of the Quebec government after Mr. Duplessis' death last week, said:

"I must say that this federal offer has already been made to the Quebec government and that it has been decisively refused... there undoubtedly is, through this effort of the federal government to pay money to the universities, and interference in the education domain where the provinces have sole rights."

"When the federal government and those of the provinces, principally that of Quebec, have definitely agreed on this issue there will be no further problem and the question will be settled once and for all," the premier said. Quebec universities are given provincial grants at the discretion of the government. They accepted the federal grants in 1952, the year they were inaugurated, but have refused them ever since.

day in York at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Watts.

A motor party of Mrs. Ramsay Auld and Mrs. David MacDonald, Charlotteville and Mrs. Gordon Crockett and son Donald spent Wednesday afternoon at Cavendish Beach.

Miss Margie Lewis, York, and her friend, Miss Beatrice Farquharson, Southport, spent the week end holiday at Halifax.

Miss Rose Watts, York, has accepted a position with the Maritime Electric Charlotteville.

Mr. Allen Brown of the Maritime Electric, spent the weekend at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leith Brown.

In Ottawa, Mr. Diefenbaker said discussions have been held in the past to learn whether a satisfactory arrangement could be made whereby federal grants to universities could be accepted by Quebec universities.

Such discussions would continue. The matter was last discussed with the Quebec government some months ago.

It was a matter between the federal and Quebec governments to settle on an ad hoc basis. Until something was arrived at between the two governments there was no need for it to be discussed elsewhere.

OTTAWA (CP)—The annual rotation has begun of Army personnel serving in the Middle East with the United Nations Emergency Force. About 530 Canadian troops will have been transferred to Egypt when the operation, begun this week, is completed in six weeks. Nineteen return flights will be made from Montreal by Flying Boxcars of the RCAF's 26 Squadron of the Transport Command.

TIMELY NOTES ON FUR FARMING

Hudson's Bay Company Fur Sales will hold a mink sale in New York on September 28 and 29. Goods will go on show there September 21. New York Auction Company will hold fur auctions in Minneapolis, Minnesota, December 12 and 29, 1959.

The United States Federal Trade Commission is watching very carefully fur advertising promoting the sales of garments or other fur products made up and retailed to the public. Robert McGee, head of Robert McGee Furs, Oakland, Cal., is being prosecuted for having made fictitious pricing and saving claims for his furs.

The complaint alleges that purported regular retail prices on labels attached to various furs were fictitiously high. Although newspaper ads said that purchasers would receive "forty percent off our entire stock of new furs" proper records were not kept to substantiate such claims, F.T.C. charged.

FUR SEASON
"Fur Time USA"—a national retail sales promotion, has been launched by the Fur Information and Fashion Council. The promotion is planned to coincide with the fur-buying season which usually begins in September and runs through December.

J. George Greenbert, Fur Information and Fashion Council secretary, states: "It is in the best interests of the fur industry for us to extend its promotional activities to the retail level. If we can help retailers by suggesting how to promote furs locally, we will be doing a service to the retailer and to the entire fur trade."

We do not know of a similar organization for boosting fur trade sales in Canada. There are, however, organizations which confine their activities to the larger cities. But it is very likely that in the near future an organization will exist that will assist promotion in all the provinces of Canada.

BEAT THE HEAT
In a report of August sales in the United States, the results varied. In Milwaukee, Wisconsin, extreme heat affected business to some extent. But on the whole, sales were pretty satisfactory, primarily due to heavier advertising during the month. In this respect, it may be mentioned that advertising as an assist to sales was mentioned in reports from other cities.

In Milwaukee, mink stoles priced around $600, and mink jackets went at $400-$500 and were the favorites. One department store reported its August fur sales as 99 percent mink and 10 percent Persian Lamb. Mink scarfs ranged from $89 to $399.

Fur sales in New York departmental stores during the month of July advanced twelve percent over sales for the same month of 1958 according to a Federal Reserve report. Of six districts covered in the report, three including New York showed advances over July of last year. Three showed declines.

Cleveland sales advanced 29 percent, and Chicago 5 percent. Kansas City sales declined 33 percent, and Philadelphia declined 20 percent. Chicago was down 4 percent.

In North Carolina, fur sales were slightly ahead of last year, with mink continuing to dominate among the better furs. Mink neck pieces and stoles at $400 to $600 were preferred items.

AUCTION DATES
Hudson's Bay Company and Canadian Fur Auction Sales Co. Ltd. have drawn up a tentative list of auction dates for the 1959-60 season in Montreal. H.B.C. will start selling on December 7, Canadian Fur Auction on December 8.

The new cooperative arrangement has been made in an effort to enable out-of-town buyers to see a substantial quantity of mink without losing too much time. An estimated 140,000 mink will be offered. Show dates have been set for about three days prior to the two auctions.

A list of sales dates is as follows: Hudson's Bay Company special mink sales—December 7 and 17; Canadian Fur Auction Sales special mink sales—December 8 and December 21 and 22.

DENOUNCE A TESTS
ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (Reuters)—A subcommittee of the World Health Organization for the eastern Mediterranean Wednesday passed a resolution denouncing "any attempt on the part of France or any other state to test an atomic bomb in the Algerian desert or any other area in the neighborhood." Nine countries favored in favor of the resolution. France, Italy, Iran and Pakistan abstained.
