

GRAIN

WINNIPEG, May 21 — (CP) — Recoveries were made in all grain prices at the close today on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange. In the case of barley, flax and rye, early losses were erased and gains substituted. Oats still were lower. Early in the trade, a carryover of selling came into the market in response to declines in U.S. markets. However, fair commercial demand came in on the declines and prices moved up. Export buying was in evidence in barley, with reports that 500,000 bushels of this commodity had been sold to France. There also were reports of export business overnight in flax and rye. Export loadings of Canadian wheat included 750,000 bushels to the United Kingdom, 350,000 to Belgium, 90,000 to Italy, and 15,000 to Switzerland. Class two wheat and I.W.A. prices advanced one quarter cent from Saturday. Closing prices: Oats — May 78 1/2; July 88 1/4; Oct. 87 1/4; Dec. 87 annnt. Barley — May 121 1/2; July 119 1/2; Oct. 121 1/4; Dec. 118 1/2 annnt. Rye — May 203 1/2; July 203 1/4; Oct. 187 1/4. Flax — May 417 1/2; July 419 1/2; Oct. 398 1/2.

Valedictory At S. D. U. Closing

Following is the text of the valedictory delivered by Mark R. Morgan at the closing exercises of St. Dunstan's University yesterday. 'This afternoon we, the graduates, are the players and you, the audience, are the onlookers in this drama of the ninety-seventh Commencement Exercises of St. Dunstan's University. Thanks to the generosity of our alumni, this spacious new gymnasium-auditorium has now replaced the playhouse of former years for the annual May drama. The play of our class, this year's graduates, has been a long one, and you are about to witness the last act of our performance. Let us, then, on with the play. Scene I. Enter upon the stage of the graduates hearts the emotion of joy. What is joy? Joy is the inward satisfaction which springs from the possession of good; it is the result of the natural exuberance of youth. We have joy today, for we have attained the goal for which we have been striving through many years of school and college. Now, as we look back, we can but dimly remember the prologue, our first day at school. With some effort we may recall other now distant scenes: happy days on school playgrounds, gay school concerts, nights of struggling with arithmetic, the algebra.

Junior Farmers and Junior Club News

The first study meeting of the Hampton Shorthorn Club was held in Hampton hall on May 14th, with the new president, Gladys Villet, in the chair. Fifteen members and two visitors were present. The club decided that a large group of young people attended; however, only 10 joined for the present time. Officers elected were as follows: President, Keith Williams. Vice-President, Alfred Murray. Secretary-Treasurer, Mary Murray. H. M. MacLean, Department of Agriculture, outlined Club Organization and procedure and later Poultry films were shown. Adult Directors to be appointed at next meeting May 30th. 'V-E' Holstein Jersey Calf Club met on Wednesday, May 16th at the home of Mr. Edwin Lord, Central Bedque, President, David Reid acted as Chairman. The financial report was given by Mr. W. J. Reid, Adult Director of the club and showed the club with a fair surplus from last year after all expenses were paid. Seven new members joined the club this year to bring the total to seventeen. New members are Neil Clark, Donald and Eileen Stavert, Cottle Toombs, Norma Stetson, Gerald and Myrna Green. The next meeting will be a judging class on June 4th at Mr. Will Montgomery's. Ten members of the St. Catherine's Shorthorn Calf Club were present on the evening of May 17th for a judging class at the farm of Mr. Donny MacNeill. The members did very well in their first judging class. A short business meeting followed and a fine lunch was served those present by Mrs. MacNeill. Tracadie Grain Club The first regular meeting of the Tracadie Grain Club was held on Friday, May 18th. President, George McKenna conducted the meeting and Reggie McKenna acted as Secretary-Treasurer. Two Adult Directors, Pat Lacey and James Hughes were appointed by the Club. The President introduced Mr. I. L. Tuplin, Provincial Fieldman, who outlined oats in Canada, its varieties and adaptation. Seven members were present. Clermont Grain Club The Clermont Grain Club held its first regular meeting on May 17th. Chairman, Keith Moose presided and Charles Waugh acted as Secretary-Treasurer. Members discussed the seeding of their plots and Mr. Morris Deacon outlined the procedure in

Nurses Attend Maritime Conference

The following nurses attended the annual convention of the Maritime Catholic Nurses Council in Halifax, May 16-18: Mrs. G. J. Maddigan, president, Charlottetown Guild; Mrs. A. H. Murphy, a councillor on the Maritime Executive; Mrs. Kay Reid, official delegate; Mrs. J. J. Callaghan, Mrs. Vincent Leonard, Mrs. J. Revell, Mrs. A.H. Kelly, Mrs. Rod MacDonell. The Club decided that they would be known as 'Barbarawet Grain Club.' Mr. I. L. Tuplin, recently appointed Fieldman for Field Crop, had a discussion on Oats in Canada, its importance, uses, and varieties. Next meeting to be held June 22nd. Eight members were present. Bear River Junior Farmers debating team are again in the King's County winners in the Provincial Debating Competition. This was decided on Friday evening, May 18th at a largely attended meeting in the Bear River South school when they won a very close debate over East Point Junior Farmers. Upholding the resolution 'A well-managed 10-acre woodlot will yield greater average returns than 10 acres of potatoes,' the Bear River Club was represented by James Whalen, Martina Hughes and Bernice McCaugh. Marion MacDonald, Joe Cheverle and Stewart Cameron argued the negative side for East Point. The judges, whose decision was not unanimous were: Lincoln Dewar, New Perth; Wilfred Driscoll, Morell; and Katherine Bethune, Charlottetown. Mr. Dewar reported for the judges and all three commended the speakers for the good job they did. Mr. Bernard MacDonald, Bear River was Chairman of the meeting. Bear River will now advance to the Provincial semi-finals against Vernon River Girls Club. A delicious lunch was served to the visitors by the Bear River ladies at the close of the meeting.

Misses Bernice Haughey, Loretta Trainor, Dorothy McKenzie, Margaret Donohoe and Ellen Croken. Miss Lillian Grady, B.A., R.N. presided at all the sessions. Miss Grady was also re-elected as president for the next two years. Rt. Rev. Monsignor Curran of Halifax, celebrated the Mass before the opening of the convention and also delivered a very inspiring sermon. Following the Mass, the visitors were guests of the Halifax Nurses Guild at Communion Breakfast in the Halifax Infirmary. At the opening of the business session the nurses were welcomed by Big Worship Mayor Kinley, also by the Sister Superior of the Infirmary, Monsignor Curran on behalf of the Bishop of Halifax, and by Miss Agnes Butler, president of the Halifax Guild. Approximately sixty nurses registered. Highlight on the first day's program was a very excellent paper, 'Religion in Nursing Practice' prepared by Sister M. Irene, R.N., of Charlottetown, and read by Miss B. Haughey, R.N. In the evening a banquet was held at the Nova Scotia Hotel. Guest speaker was Mr. Richard Donohoe, barrister of Halifax. Mr. John Arab entertained with some fine vocal solos, accompanied by Gerald David. On Friday a very interesting panel discussion was presented. The subject was 'The Nurse of Today and Yesterday.' Those participating were Sister Catherine Gerard, R.N., Father Guinan, Miss Graham, R.N., and Miss Joyce McDonald, all of Halifax. Rev. Hector Daley, S. J., of St. Mary's College, was speaker at the afternoon session. At the close of the convention, a very dainty afternoon tea was served by the St. Elizabeth Guild, Halifax. Among the officers elected to the new executive were: Mrs. J. Callaghan, Charlottetown, first vice-president, Mrs. A. H. Murphy was re-appointed councillor and convener of religious activities.

ALBERTON W. L.

The Dock Women's Institute held its May meeting at the home of Miss Shirley McArthur. Mrs. John Oliver presided. The meeting opened with the ode, followed by the roll call and minutes. The school committee reported several small articles needed for the school. The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Erskine Clark with Mrs. C. W. Hayes as assistant hostess. Mrs. George Irving and Miss Margaret Forsythe were appointed to the program committee. A most interesting talk was given by one of the members, Mrs. Fred Campbell, who is a native of London, England. She described English scenery and seasons, the English school system and London fogs. She also drew vivid word pictures of several historic buildings in London and of a visit to the famous Madame Tussard's wax works. At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the hostess assisted by Mrs. Lloyd Wilkie and Mrs. John Oliver. A special feature of the social hour was the presentation to Miss McArthur of a birthday cake made by her sister, Mrs. Charles Johnson.

LENNOXVILLE, Que., May 21 (CP) — Mrs. William Harvey Abbott, aunt of Finance Minister Douglas Abbott, died today in her 86th year.

MARTHA MUST NEVER SET EYES ON THIS — IT WOULD WRECK OUR IDYLIC HOME — AND I'VE GOT TO GET THAT MAN OUT OF THE HOUSE FOREVER! GREAT CAESAR! NO! EGAD! A LETTER FOR BELASCO — I'LL HOLD IT TO THE LIGHT — YES, IT'S HIS CHECK! — THIS MUST BE THE NAME OF THE FIRM HE WORKS FOR.

'And this joy is not merely because we have attained an end that we have sought for so long, but especially because we realize that it was worth the effort it entailed. We know that at St. Dunstan's we have received the best in the way of education, for St. Dunstan's has a philosophy of education, a philosophy of life, which recognizes the complete nature of man, man in his totality, man as a rational animal, a creature composed of a material, mortal body and of an immaterial, immortal soul. 'The development of the physical part of man is, in the world at large, the aspect most stressed. The athletes, not the statesman, are the heroes of society. St. Dunstan's gives athletics its proper place, a place which is important, it is true, but yet not of supreme importance in college life. We graduates have participated to the full in athletic events at St. Dunstan's. Many of us have carried the familiar red and white in contests against other colleges. All of us have cheered our teams in victory and in defeat. 'But what about the more important part of man, his soul? The human soul has two great spiritual faculties: the intellect and the will. Catholic education is solicitous for both. Thus St. Dunstan's is a firm believer in liberal education, that education which Cardinal Newman defined as 'the process of training by which the intellect is disciplined for its own sake, for the perception of its own proper object, and for its own highest culture.' What is the proper object of which he speaks? The proper object of the human intellect is, of course, that is, truth. At St. Dunstan's we have found that the curriculum is designed to lead all to truth. In our natural sciences we have studied such truths of the physical universe as are scientifically valid. In our languages we have dealt with the correct modes, the truths, of expression. In our histories we have seen the actual records of the past, the truths of the story of man. In our social sciences we have considered the complex interrelationships of social forces, the truths of society. In our mathematics we have learned to think correctly, truthfully. In our philosophies we have learned not only how to think correctly, but especially what truth is, as known by natural reason. Finally, and above all, in our religious courses, we have absorbed the immutable truths of Catholicism. Thus our intellects have been sown with the seeds of truth. 'Besides the training of our intellects, St. Dunstan's has also looked after the training of our wills. Knowledge alone is not enough. Love also is necessary; love of God and love of neighbor. It is thus that Christian education supplements liberal education. At St. Dunstan's there has been ample opportunity for us to develop this twofold love. Love of neighbor was given a chance for expression in the daily contacts of college life, in the Thursday afternoon socials, in all the extracurricular activities in which we engaged. But what is more important, we have had opportunities of developing ourselves spiritually through prayer and the sacraments. Thus our wills have been cultivated with the discipline of love. St. Dunstan's has cared for both intellect and will. It has fed us on reason and on revelation, on knowledge and on faith. Truly it has lived up to its motto, 'Ex eodem fonte fides et scientia.' We rejoice in our good fortune. But now exit joy. 'Scene II. Enter sorrow. What is sorrow? Sorrow is sadness caused by the apprehension of misfortune: it is a checkrein which restrains our happy emotions. If there was intense joy in our hearts before, there is now sorrow just as intense, for this is the last time that we shall be assembled here as students. Henceforth we shall be alumni (faithful alumni, we promise), and never again shall we have quite the same feeling of intimacy with the family which is St. Dunstan's. We have received the blessing of our alma mater, and, like all sons from time immemorial, are going forth to seek our fortunes. 'In the past few years we have shared intimately the joys and sorrows of our adopted family. It saddens us to think that, when in a few minutes we receive our degrees, all the happiness we have had at St. Dunstan's will be a thing of the past, even though we know that the mat of welcome will always be spread for us here. We are sad too because we realize that we can never repay all that our parents and teachers have done for us. We are grateful to our parents for making it possible for us to attend St. Dunstan's. We are grateful to our teachers for what they have given us while we were here. We are sad because we know not how to repay them. But now the scene has ended. Exit sorrow. 'Scene III. Enter hope. What is hope? Hope is the inclination to something which is difficult, but yet possible, of attainment; it is a fount which springs eternal in the human breast. With hope, we turn from retrospect to prospect. The hazy film of the future hides what lies before us. Perhaps it is better thus, for did we see all the pitfalls in our paths, we might be discouraged ere we begin. We do, however, have some idea of what to expect. We can see the world as it is, and from a cursory glance realize that it will try to remove the edifices of practice from the edifice of our principles. The great false philosophies of communism, fascism, and bourgeois individualism have been at work. 'In consequence, the dominant ideal of our modern world is secularism — separation of Church and State, separation of science and philosophy, separation of religion and morality. Life is disorganized because thinking is disorganized. There is a total absence of unity, of wholeness. There is chaos rather than cosmos. This is the world into which we are stepping. But yet we have hope, for we have been trained in unity. For us the Faith is not merely a creed, but a culture. Our studies have not been departmentalized, but have been unified by Christian truth. Our thinking is unified. Therefore we have hope that our lives will be unified. Our hope is a Christian hope, for we know that 'grace can, where nature cannot.' 'And now the time has come to say farewell. Rt. Rev. Recollor, Reverend Fathers, and gentlemen of the faculty, we offer you our sincerest thanks. You have been worthy directors and producers of our drama. You have taught us not to saw the air with useless gestures; you have taught us not to mouth our lines; you have taught us to suit the action to the word, and the word to the action. We, not you, are responsible for any deficiencies in our production. A thousand thanks and farewell. 'Fellow students, our companions of many happy hours, brothers and sisters of our collegiate family, we urge you to take full advantage of your opportunities at St. Dunstan's, and may we say, in the words of Alexander Pope, 'Act well your part; there all the honor lies.' Good luck and farewell. Classmates, fellow actors of this common drama, no mere words can express the poignancy of this moment as we bid each other farewell and Godspeed. We have enacted great scenes together. Now the time must disperse. Henceforth, as alumni, we shall be but prompters on this stage. As the final curtain slowly falls on our drama let us remember that 'To each is given a bag of tools, A shapeless mass, a book of rules; And each must make ere life is flown A stumbling block or a stepping stone. 'Let us make ours a stepping stone. Classmates farewell.'

have taught us to suit the action to the word, and the word to the action. We, not you, are responsible for any deficiencies in our production. A thousand thanks and farewell. 'Fellow students, our companions of many happy hours, brothers and sisters of our collegiate family, we urge you to take full advantage of your opportunities at St. Dunstan's, and may we say, in the words of Alexander Pope, 'Act well your part; there all the honor lies.' Good luck and farewell. Classmates, fellow actors of this common drama, no mere words can express the poignancy of this moment as we bid each other farewell and Godspeed. We have enacted great scenes together. Now the time must disperse. Henceforth, as alumni, we shall be but prompters on this stage. As the final curtain slowly falls on our drama let us remember that 'To each is given a bag of tools, A shapeless mass, a book of rules; And each must make ere life is flown A stumbling block or a stepping stone. 'Let us make ours a stepping stone. Classmates farewell.'
