THE DAILY EXAMINER.

MARCH 1, 1892.

Vaudreuil.

THE seat for this County has also passed from the Opposition to the Government, an Opposition majority of 98 having been changed, by the election of yesterday, to a Government majority of 36. There is evidently a revulsion of public opinion against the Opposition all along the line.

Notes and Comments.

— The Patriot remarked a few days ago that "the overwhelming majority polled in Goderich would seem to indicate that the town has been bought up bodily." But the returns show that it was the township of Goderich which gave Hon. Mr. Patterson such a large majority. The majority in the town was only three. Will the Patriot contend that the intelligent and independent farmers of the township of Goderich were bought up."

—We are requested by the assignees of Mr. F. T Newbery to state that they were ready to afford the committee of creditors all the information they could reasonably desire, and that the committee went away apparently satisfied. But aftewards one of them returned and demanded permission to put auditors upon the books. This demand was refused on the advice of the assignees solicitors and in the interests of the whole estate. We need hardly say that we publish this explanation with pleasure, having no desire to state anything but the exact truth about the matter or to prejudice Mr. Newbery in the slightest degree.

Leading Them to Glory.

The recent speech of the German Emperor at Brandenburg was a long one, says a late despatch from Berlin. After saying that it was consoling to receive, in the midst of the perplexing state of affairs which occupied his whole time, so warm a recognition of his efforts for the people's welfare, he proceeded :

"Unfortunately it has now become the fashion to criticise and nag at every step taken by the government. Public peace is disturbed on the most insignificant grounds. The enjoyment of life shared by the whole German Fatherland is envenomed.

"As a result of this nagging persecution, many persons have been imbued with the idea that our country is the most unhappy and worst governed in the world, and that life in such a country is a perfect plague. That this is not the case, we, of course, are well aware; but would it not be better if discontented persons were to shake the dust of Germany from off their feet, retiring as soon as possible to some country where such a miserable, wretched state of affairs does not exist.

"They will thus reap advantage to themselves, at the same time doing us a great favor. We live in a state of transition. Germany is gradually emerging from infancy. She is now about to enter upon the period of youth. It would be well, therefore, if we freed ourselves from infant maladies. We live in exciting days in which the judgment of the majority of men is unfortunately devoid as regards objective facts. But quieter days are in store, since our people, now uniting, undeterred by the utterances of voices abroad, are putting their trust in God and in the loyal, solicitous efforts of their hereditary ruler."

He next referred to the supposed historic incident in connection with Sir Francis Drake's discovery of the Pacific. He said that when the admiral had made a landing in Central America he inquired of the natives regarding the great ocean. A native chief, in response to the inquiries of Sir Francis, said : "You are in search of the great water. Follow me, and I will show it to you." Then, despite the warnings and exhortations from the admiral's comrades, Sir Francis, led by the chief, who had volunteered to guide him, started to make the ascent of a lofty mountain chain.

After surmounting many terrible and disheartening difficulties, the great navigator and his companion at length finished their toilsome journey and arrived at the summit of the mountain. Here the chief pointed to the sea behind them, and Sir Francis Drake, looking in the direction indicated, saw the wild waters of the sea which he had just crossed. The chief next led the admiral around a projecting rock, when, lo, there suddenly burst upon the enchanted gaze of the explorer the sparkling mirror of the Pacific stretching in majestic calm as far as the eye could reach. So may it be with us, said Emperor William.

"A firm confidence in the sympathies accorded your work and mine inspires me continually with fresh strength to continue my task, and advance in the path heaven has pointed out to me. I also am impressed with the feeling that what has occurred in the past is due to the hand of our supreme Lord on high. I am firmly convinced that he who was our ally at Rossbach and Donnewitz will not now leave me in the lurch. He has so constantly aided the cause of Brandenburg and my house that we cannot believe that he has done all this for no purpose. No, on the contrary, we still have a great destiny before us, and I am leading you to glorious days."

In concluding, the emperor urged his hearers not to allow glimpses into the future to be darkened by grumblers and the speeches of discontented partisans. His reply to attacks upon the policy of the government was : "My course is the right one, and it will be prosecuted to the utmost." He added : "I trust my brave Brandenburgers will assist me in my task."

The press generally has not yet had time to criticise the emperor's speech.

The Freisinnige Zeitung alone comments on it. It says : "The remarks made by Emperor William at the banquet which he attended at Brandenburg are pervaded with the same spirit which impelled him to write in the visitors' books at Munich the sentence, 'Suprema lex regis voluntas,' and the inscription under the picture, which he presented to the minister of worship, 'Sic volo, sic jubeo,' and which produced his remark at the Brandenburg banquet in 1890. 'He who bars my I will dash to pieces,' and the expression he made at the Rhine provinces dinner in 1891. 'There is only one ruler in the country. I am he, and I will suffer no other."

The Freisinnige Zeitung adds : "Emperor William is right when he says that Germany is past her childhood. We even believe that she has reached man's estate. She therefore no longer needs absolution, but has a constitution demanding a constitutional government."

Last Night's Concert.

LAST night a very pleasant two hours were passed in the basement of the First Methodist Church, when the young men of Mr. S. F. Hodgson's bible class provided the entertainment. They were greeted by a full house, and they deserved it, for their programme was very well carried out. The teacher, Mr. Hodgson, occupied the chair ; Miss A. Wilson played all the accompaniments, and in the choruses there were also a violin and cornets to assist, Mr F. Newson playing the violin and Messrs. Mitchell and Johnson the cornets In the first number, "Around the Camp Fire," Messrs. J. Lewis, J Collins and R. M. Johnson each sang a verse as a solo, while the class, numbering about thirteen, joined in the chorus. The cornets gave a martial character to this air. Next came a beautiful solo, "You'll miss your mother, When She's Gone," by Mr. John Lewis, followed by a cornet duet by Messrs Mitchell and Johnson. A reading by Mr. Louis A. Moore was very well rendered; after which the class sang "The Midshipmite," with violin and cornet accompaniments, Mr. F. Beer being soloist. "Whispering Hope" was next and it was beautifully sung by Messrs. Cook and Lewis, who both possess very fine voices. An Instrumental trio, by F. Newson, R. M. Johnson and A. W. Mitchell was well rendered and loudly encored; after which Mr. W. W. Moore gave an amusing reading, in which was given some wholesome advice. Four members of the class then sang "Tenting To-night." Messrs. Lewis, W. W. Moore and R. M. Johnson singing the solos. This was sung in a very pleasing manner. A beautiful solo by Mr. Leslie Cook came next, and was heartily encored. Mr. Fred. H, Beer then read a selection very nicely, after which came a double quartette, in which the following young men took part: Messrs. Lewis, S. Poole, Cook, Wright, F. Newson, J. Collings, Smith and W. W. Moore.

Mr. Hodgson then in a neat speech conveyed the thanks of the class to Miss Wilson for her kindness in giving so much time and assistance to them.

Then the class sang "Massa's in de cold, cold ground," Mr. Cook's soloist, violin accompaniment. The last number, "Good Night Ladies," was then given, and followed by God Save the Queen, thus closing a very enjoyable programme.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Social Wreckage.

"Thou shalt not bear false witness against thy neighbor."

SIR,—I notice in last evening's EXAMINER that the Rev. Mr. Brewer, Pastor of the First Methodist Church of this city, has been descanting on the terrible effects of immorality in Charlottetown.

Mr. Brewer has spoken on a very important matter. It is clear that these vices which destroy our domestic happiness should be repressed. It is equally clear that in order to do this, public opinion should be directed against them. But this should be be done temperately and uniformly and without bias. There should be but one weight and one measure. Mr. Brewer, aware of this, no doubt spent a very considerable time in selecting the vilest sink of pollution in order to intensify his remarks regarding our prevailing sin. He has thought fit to furnish one example to his congregation. He directed their attention to "a poor, wretched building on Pownal Street, wherein some sixty seven individuals are living, and a number of whom are leading lives of impurity." The pastor of the First Methodist Church of Charlottetown either knew that those poor illiterate people were leading impure lives, or he did not. If he did, he has personally investigated facts and has abundant evidence to show he knew whereof he spoke when he branded these poor people with leading immoral lives. Would Mr Brewer kindly state whether or not he has a personal knowledge of the truth of his charge. If, on the other hand, Mr. Brewer did not know nor care if these people were living in impurity there, he must be branded as a loathsome slanderer and an abject libeller of these men, women and children whom he so rashly and so hastily published in his church on Sunday last. Mr. Brewer evidently seeks for victims of lust and immorality among the poorer classes. In doing this he is following the example of Him who said : "Blessed are ye when men shall revile you and persecute you, and shall say all manner of evil against you falsely for My sake."

He is not aware that licentiousness is rampant among the highly-fed and aristocratic class who constitute the upper crust—say, even among those who preside at the meetings of religious and benevolent institutions, who are the delight of every society and the favorites of large and influential congregations. He has not read in the papers a few weeks since of the minister of the gospel who, a little before commemorating the institution of the Lord's Supper, seduced some young girls in his church by intoxicating them with the wine to be used on the occasion.

Charges such as those hurled from the pulpit of the First Methodist Church on Sunday last will always obtain credence from persons, who hating certain classes without knowing why, are only too eager to believe anything which will justify their hatred.

Mr. Brewer has invented a happy scheme for the destruction of immorality in our midst. This pet scheme he has christened the Harbor Light. With this machine he proposes to fumigate such places of iniquity. I would suggest that he begin elsewhere. MARCUS

A Challenge.

SIR,—Permit me through your columns to defend myself. I have been informed that the Rev. Mr. Brewer in the course of his remarks to his congregation made mention of me and my place of business as being the place where all the young men of this town were lead astray. Now, Mr. Editor, I have lived in Charlottetown all my life, and what is more I intend to live here. Therefore, I have to resort to this method for the purpose of denying the charge, and I now challenge Mr. Brewer to open discussion as to the merits of my place and that of the Harbor Light. Trusting that you will kindly allow me space to defend myself, I remain, yours truly

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.

ANOTHER VICTORY.

Vaudreuil Redeemed.

A Gain of 124 Votes in the County Within a Year.

RIGAUD, Que., March 1.

French Canada has again been heard from, and once more its voice has been raised in thunder tones against Laurier, Mercier and the Unrestricted Reciprocity fad. Harwood, the Mercier-Laurier candidate in Vaudreuil was once a Conservative and a great many of that political faith were still inclined, on personal grounds, to support the unseated member. Public sentiment, however, was too strong and Hugh McMillan is again back in his old seat in the House of Commons as the elect of Vaudreuil.

Hardwood carried the county last March by 98, and McMillan redeemed it yesterday by 26.

MOST ASTOUNDING FACTS

From Mercier's Bank Books.

Pickings of the Party of Purity.

MONTREAL, March 1.

Yesterday was the last day of the Royal Commission before the election, and most astounding facts were revealed by the bankers and other gentlemen whose evidence was heard. It came out that the proceeds of the two notes for $5,500, made by the contractors for the heating apparatus in the Montreal Courthouse, was passed to Mercier's private account. The Ex-Premier's discounts and deposits in the Banque of Jacques Cartier from May, 1890, to December, 1891, reached $82,000, all of which was used to corrupt the electorate and for personal use.

Joseph A. Mercier's accounts were also looked into, when it was found that the Count's faithful brother had to draw from the People's Bank to aid Messrs. Laurier and Cartwright et al $2,000. It is now estimated that the two Merciers and Pacaud boodled to the extent of half a million of dollars within the last three years.

Dominion Parliament.

Debate on the Address.

OTTAWA, March 1.

Mr. Laurier attended the session of parliament yesterday.

Mr. Northrup, East Hastings, moved the address in reply to the speech from the throne. Mr. Bain, of Soulanges, seconded it in French.

Mr. Laurier commented upon the tone and manner of the speech by Mr. Northrup which he declared the best of recent years by any mover of an address. Sir John Thompson, after congratulating the mover and seconder of the address, said the prosperity of the country was something to be proud of, and declared that if pestilence and famine continue to be inscribed on the grit banner the youth of the country will never support the party. Both Laurier and Thompson made eloquent references to the Duke of Clarence's death.

BRITISH PARLIAMENT.

The Irish Education Bill

Narrow Majorities.

LONDON, March 1.

The House of Commons spent five hours yesterday discussing and dividing upon the Government's scheme for Irish education. Division upon division was called for upon amendments made by Nationalists. The Government majorities ranged from 26 to 33. Every time the result was declared the Liberals hailed it with satisfaction as showing a significant decrement from the time when the Government could count upon a majority of 80 at any time a party issue was involved.

Balfour at last moved the closure. This was carried, and the Government carried an appropriation of £90,000 for the pension fund for Irish teachers by a majority of 30
