HEADSTONES DAMAGED AT BRUDENELL

The above picture shows a portion of the damage done at Brudenell cemetery by vandals. At least 15 stones were damaged or broken completely in two. Some of the stones are over 100 years old while others are of fairly recent vintage. A few had high pillars which were broken off their bases and toppled to the ground. The Montague detachment of the RCMP is investigating.

Board Gives Reason For Dragger Seizure

RCMP seizure of a dragger in Souris over the weekend was undertaken on direct orders from the Fishermen's Loan Board as the result of a new get tough attitude, A.W. Gaudet chairman of the board said yesterday.

RCMP and loan board investigator John White boarded the Irene R. at Souris Saturday and the ship is now locked up. The dragger is owned by Leo Griffin of Souris.

The chairman said dragger captains had been guilty of frequent violations of the board's regulations, particularly regarding fish landings, and when specific warnings were ignored the weekend act of the police was ordered.

Mr. Gaudet stated building of the draggers was financed by the provincial government through the Fishermen's Loan Board as an aid to the fishing industry. At the same time in order to maintain the economy of the port of Souris it is necessary that draggers land their fish at that port, where two large fish plants are operating.

He said in the past too many instances were noted of draggers landing their catch at Nova Scotia ports.

Island fish plants cannot be operated at anywhere near capacity unless there is a constant flow of fish into them. It is in direct contradiction of board orders when any catch is landed at a port outside the province, he said.

Fireproof Spot Found For Harris Paintings

Safe, fireproof storage space has been made available in the Dominion Building for the Robert Harris paintings now contained in the Harris Memorial Gallery, located in the public library building.

W. E. Colton, chairman of the board of trustees of the Legislative and Public Library and the Robert Harris Memorial Gallery, said yesterday that the paintings, about 50 in number, are expected to be moved next week and stored until gallery space is available for them in the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Building.

The present gallery and library, at the corner of Grafton and Queen Streets, is to be demolished to make way for the Confederation Memorial.

JOINT TRUST

The library and gallery was set up as a joint trust between the City of Charlottetown, the provincial government and the Robert Harris Estate. Fifty per cent of the cost of the building was provided by members of the Harris family, while the balance of the cost was shared equally by the city and the province.

The building was designed by a nephew of Robert Harris, the late James E. Harris, architect.

The collection of pictures in the gallery show many phases of Robert Harris' work as they cover over 40 years of painting, from early watercolors to late oil paintings, and a variety of subjects from studies of figure and landscape, allegorical and historical subjects, portraits and landscapes.

BEST KNOWN WORK

The best known piece of Robert Harris' work was "Fathers of Confederation." This famous painting was lost in a fire that destroyed the Parliament Buildings in Ottawa and is now known only through copies. The Charlottetown collection has a photograph of the original and the preliminary pencil sketches.

Robert Harris, born in the Vale of Conway, Wales, in 1849, came to Canada with his parents when he was six. His early years were spent in Charlottetown where he attended Prince of Wales College.

He received art training in London, London and Paris.

In 1883, he settled in Montreal. In 1893, he was elected president of the Royal Canadian Academy of Arts and held that position until 1906.

AWARDED MEDAL

He was awarded a medal at the World's Fair in Chicago in 1893; a gold medal at the Pan-American Exposition in Buffalo in 1901 and at the World's Fair in St. Louis in 1904. In 1902, he was made a Companion of St. Michael and St. George in recognition of his service to art. He was the first Canadian artist to receive this honor.

Mr. Harris exhibited at the Paris Salon, the Royal Academy in London and in other famous exhibitions where pictures are selected by a committee composed entirely of artists.

His pictures are to be found in many art galleries and private collections in Canada.

A number of his early portraits of men prominent in this province may be seen in the Legislative Chamber of the Provincial Building, at City Hall and some large memorial pictures are in the chapel adjoining St. Peter's Cathedral, Rochford Street.

MERRY-GO-ROUND STILL POPULAR

The midway was no sooner assembled yesterday when the children were lined up waiting their turn to try out all the new rides. The most popular ride on the midway appears to be the merry-go-round as the children are able to mount their favorite steed and gallop into battle in a make-believe world. The exhibition grounds in Charlottetown were fairly crowded as sightseers watched the workers bring the fair to life and get Old Home Week in Charlottetown off to a good start.

Second Siege Battery To Hold Annual Reunion

The Second Canadian Siege Battery, the famous 98th, of the First World War, will hold its annual reunion on Thursday, August 16.

The members will meet at the Queen Hotel at 5.45 p.m., from where they will move to the Cenotaph on Queen Square where a wreath will be laid by the president, A. Roy MacKay, Lynn, Mass. The party will return to the hotel for a brief business meeting and banquet.

The Second Siege Battery has the distinction of being the first complete Island unit to see action in any war. It was recruited in Charlottetown early in 1915 and went overseas in November of that year.

The Battery went to France in May, 1916, and fought all through the Somme offensive and every other major engagement, including Vimy Ridge, Passchendale, Hill 70, Amiens, and many others. It had the enviable reputation of being one of the most efficient batterys in the Canadian Army, especially in counter-battery work.

Of the original officers, only one survives — Capt. J. Frank Sterns, Souris, who is honorary president.

Reunion Held At Brudenell

A very enjoyable family reunion with four generations present was held at Brudenell Park last Sunday when the family of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew FitzPatrick, of Woodville Mills, joined together for an outdoor supper in honor of one of their daughters and son-in-law and family of Lachine, P.Q.

Present at the reunion was four of their six sons, five son-in-laws, five daughters, one daughter-in-law, 25 grandchildren, two great-grandchildren and five guests.

TOP BREEDING

it was learned. The sire has been sold recently to the American Breeders' Service, reputed to the artificial insemination centre with the widest dissemination of semen. The price is believed to be an alltime record, although no details are available.

FROM SCOTLAND

The young calf's grandson came from Lessnessock farm in Scotland and his sister is to be featured on the front page of American Ayrshire Digest.

The Wood calf was purchased from Donald MacIntyre, Finch, Ontario, and also has exciting records in his pedigree. Born on December 25, he is young for his class and is much smaller than some of the others which will probably affect him in the judging, though it has no bearing on his breeding or his potential quality as a sire.

His sire, Sidwood Betty's Commander, has 43 daughters with more than 12,275 pounds milk, 499 fat and he sired the first prize senior get of sire at the Royal Winter Fair last fall.

The Wood calf's paternal granddam, Glengarry Betty's Ann—here's that Glengarry blood again—was the world's youngest 100,000 pound cow of her breed, as she made the six figure total when she was eight and one-half years. She lived to produce 152,000 pounds in her lifetime.

GREATEST PROOF

The American Ayrshire digest suggests the youngster's sire has the greatest Ayrshire proof of all time. (The word "proof", Wallace Wood explained, has reference to the improvement a sire creates in daughters over their dams.)

And, it adds, "he is now considered by many as the sensation of the Ayrshire breed."

The calf's mother Donholm Greta's Sparkle, a consistent winner in the prize ring, produced 13,468 milk as a two-year old and 15,071 as a four-year old, and she classified Very Good on her first test, the highest classification a heifer can obtain.

Sparkle's production was so good that she qualified with 100 percent of the breed class average in the first six months of her lactation.

Mr. Wood appreciates the value of line breeding with careful selection and he notes with satisfaction that three of his calf's grandparents were sired by the outstanding animal Glengarry Cony's Burton.

No Trace Of Missing Girl Found

MONTAGUE — Despite a continued search by RCMP and volunteers in the area between Montague and Beach Point, no trace has been found of Eileen Williams, 19, of Beach Point.

The girl has been missing since Monday, Aug. 6, when she left Montague after visiting friends and started to hitchhike home. She was last seen about 7 p.m. just outside Montague on the road that leads towards Murray River, and her home in Beach Point.

The RCMP and other searchers are continuing their efforts to find a clue to her whereabouts. She was wearing a green sweater and black slacks with a white stripe when last seen.

Delinquent Tax Accounts Dealt With

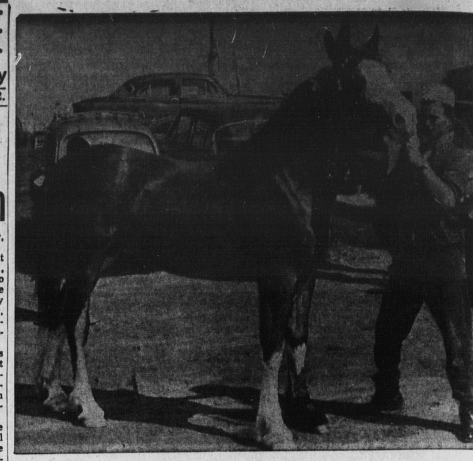
MONTAGUE — Montague Town Council meeting was held this evening presided over by the Mayor B. H. Yeo. Councillors present were C. J. Fraser, F. Green, S. C. Reid, L. C. Johnston and Town Clerk Arnold Wightman.

The matter of the delinquent tax payers was brought up and they will be passed on to the magistrate for judgment.

There was a complaint from a taxpayer regarding the litter on the streets. Routine matters were dealt with and the meeting adjourned.

STILL IN HOSPITAL

LONDON (Reuters) — Lady Clementine Churchill said Monday there is no sign yet of Sir Winston Churchill coming out of hospital. She visited her 87-year-old husband in the London hospital where he is recovering from a thighbone fracture suffered in Monte Carlo six weeks ago.



TOPS DRAFT HORSE CLASS

Bert Taylor, a former provincial junior plowing champion from Dundas Centre, topped the draft horse class for filly or gelding, born in 1961, with this outstanding Clydesdale as the horse judging got the provincial exhibition underway yesterday. The fair was officially opened last night.

Many fine horses were shown during the day and the judge had a difficult time in deciding the winners. The judging of horses was completed yesterday and today the cattle hold the spotlight with the judging of Ayrshires, Guernseys, Dual Purpose Shorthorns. The hogs will also be judged today.

Federal Oceanographers Are Trained As Scuba Divers

By JOHN E. BIRD

OTTAWA (CP)—Federal government oceanographers are being trained as scuba divers so they can hunt the ocean specimens they are trained to study and analyse.

Four members of the marine sciences branch of the department of mines and technical surveys have been trained in the use of self-contained underwater breathing apparatus. Additional oceanographers are to receive similar training.

The scuba training project has been launched on a modest scale as a part of Canada's expanding research program in oceanography, marine geology and the geophysical sciences of the seas and inland waters.

The pressing need for information about the seas has placed oceanography a close runner-up to space research. A greater knowledge of the ocean will aid navigation, disclose the potential resources of the continental shelf and improve Canada's defences.

Oceanographers trained as scuba divers will be better qualified to observe the geology and physical properties of coastal and inland waters. Besides being able to choose their own specimens and make on-the-spot undersea observations, they will be able to test equipment and conduct other experiments in the natural environment of the ocean.

TRAINED IN QUEBEC

The four oceanographers trained as scuba divers are Charles D. Sauer, 36, head of the Canadian oceanographic data centre of the branch's oceanographic research division; Charles Glennie, 29; James Mackenzie, 34, and Blake Kelly, 29.

They were trained at Blue Sea Lake, Que., 65 miles north of Ottawa, under direction of John T. Ree, an experienced scuba diver and a member of the National Association of Underwater Instructors.

After a course which included 18 hours in the water in the use of scuba equipment, the four Ottawa men were qualified for underwater swimming up to depths of 100 feet.

Mr. Sauer said scuba diving represents a new departure for the marine services branch and is being encouraged to improve the quality and broaden the extent of oceanographic research in Canada.

"It's not for fun, it's for science," he said.

All oceanographers selected for scuba diving courses must pass rigid medical examinations. One oceanographer selected for the first course was disqualified because of a heart condition and had to be replaced.

NEED GOOD TEETH

Good sound teeth are essential. A tiny air pocket left in a tooth after it has been filled by a dentist can be dangerous. Such a tooth may explode when a diver surfaces after being underwater for a long period.

Mr. Sauer said oceanographers trained in scuba diving will be used to an increasing extent in Canada's expanded program of oceanographic research.

This program includes the recent construction of the $4,500,000 Bedford Institute of Oceanography near Halifax which will be responsible for research on the Atlantic coast and in Arctic waters. A number of new research vessels also are being built and future plans call for an oceanographic research centre on the Pacific coast.

Mr. Sauer said a scuba diving oceanographer would also be invaluable in the event of some emergencies while oceanographic research vessels are at sea in remote areas.
