Enginews

We're back! This year the Engineers have reclaimed their rightful place among the giants of literature. We have our own bi-weekly page, something that even Shakespeare didn't have.

This is the Enginews column. Probably the only half-serious article on this page. Herein we, theEngineers, shall provide you, the not-quite-so-blessed ranks of U.P.E.I. with news of what's going on in the Engineering society: The titanic struggles for power and influence within the society, the awesome political tactics employed at our weekly parliament and the incredible submarine sandwiches Ronnie eats for lunch.

Also, we sometime include secret codes in our Enginews column, messages hidden so cleverly that no one will notice them. CORNBOIL. These messages are our means of communicating with our agents in the field. Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of the Bios, the Business Administration students (the B.Ad. students) and the artsies. We know. CORNBOIL (there's that word again).

We consider it our duty to ... CORNBOIL ... tell you all about the decadence of other societies. CORNBOIL (what happening? there's that word again). And in the future watch this column for what's REALLY going on around here. CORNBOIL. CORNBOIL. (Gosh. There's just some things you can't get out of your cornboil ... er ... head.)

So to all you students out there, so long. And to all you engineers .... CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL CORNBOIL. Get the message?
