Selected Poetry.

LOVE AND LIBERTY.

In briery dell or thicket brown,
On mountain high, in lowly vale,
Or where the thistle sheds its down.
And sweet-fern scents the passing gale,—
There hop the birds from bush to tree:
Love fills their throats,
Love swells their notes,—
Their song is love and liberty.

No parent-birds their love direct:
Each seeks his fair in plumy throng,
Caught by the lustre of her neck,
Or kindred softness of her song.
They sing and bill from bush to tree:
Love fills their throats,
Love swells their notes,—
Their song is love and liberty.

Some airy songster's feathered shape,
Oh! could my love and I assume,—
The ring-dove's glossy neck he take,
And I the modest turtle's plume,—
Oh! then we'd sing from bush to tree,
Love fill our throats,
Love swell our notes,
Our song be love and liberty.

Household Hints.

Apple Pudding.—Pare and stew three pints of apples, mash them and add four eggs, quarter of a pound of butter, sugar and nutmeg, or grated lemon. Pour upon a delicate crust and bake.

Meat should be cooked by a quick fire, as the rapid closing of the outer pores retains all the juices within, and these, becoming heated, create a natural process of steaming in its own gravy.

Pop-Over Cakes.—One cupful of sweet milk, two cupfuls of flour, two eggs, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one tablespoonful of melted butter. Mix a little stiffer than pancakes. Bake in teacups.

Scrambeled Eggs.—Beat up four eggs, with salt and pepper to taste. Put an ounce of butter into a saucepan; directly it is melted put in the eggs, and keep constantly stirring with a spoon until they are nearly set.

Feather Cake.—One cupful of white sugar, half a cupful of butter, half a cupful of sweet milk, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder, two eggs, whites beaten separate, two and a half cupfuls of flour; flavor with lemon.

Cousin Sarah's Indian Pudding.—Pour a quart of boiling milk on a cupful of Indian meal, half a cupful of molasses, and a tea spoonful of salt. Stir well together, set in the oven and bake two or three hours.

Cousin Ann's Gingerbred.—One cupful each of sugar, molasses and water, half a cupful of butter, one egg, a teaspoonful and a half of cream of tartar, a teaspoonful and a half of soda, three and a half cupfuls of flour.

Halibut Steaks.—Wash and wipe the steaks dry; beat up two or three eggs, and roll out some hard crackers very fine; salt each steak, and then dip it into the beaten eggs, and after into the cracker crumbs, and fry in hot fat.

Facts and Scraps.

A cannibal's joy—To live, and move, and have his being.

A farmer who told his family that he had bought six head of cattle was asked by an inquisitive son, "Who took the tails?"

It was Prince John Van Buren who, being stopped by highwaymen one night in the City Hall Park, said, "Gentlemen, I haven't got any money, but I'll give you my note for three months."

Helen M. Cooke, writing verses for a New York paper, says that kisses on her brow are the richest diadem her woman's soul aspires to wear. All right, Helen. Bring on your brow and take your diadem.

At the marriage of an Alabama widower, one of the servants was asked if his master would take a bridal tour. "Dunno, sah; when old missus's alive he took a padule to her; dunno if he take a bridle to de new one or not."

Animals may think, but sometimes, they do not think very fast. A cow got into a garden lately, and took her half an hour to make up her mind where to go out. A man and dog were flooding her mind with information all the time, too.

A female begging imposter, importuning a gentleman to give her a copper, the benevolent gentleman said she should have one, if she would leave off begging, and take in washing.

A doctor in Japan is compelled by the etiquette of the country to wear a sword of wood. That is, we presume, he carries a weapon of lath because it is the nearest thing that suggests plaster.

A Vermont son said at his mother's funeral that he and his father were very much obliged to the people who came, "and we hope that the time is not far distant when we may do the same for you."

Punch once told a droll story of a man who, being suddenly raised to riches, exclaimed in the fulness of his satisfaction, "O that I could stand in the road, and see myself ride past in my carriage!"

When a man is treating a dashing widow to ice cream and sees his wife coming into the restaurant, about all he can do is to button his coat, hang to his chair and trust to Providence.

A Kentucky lady asked for a divorce on the ground that her husband is not a Christian. If the poor man can't become a Christian except by a separation from his wife, let her have a divorce by all means.

At a young lady's seminary, a few days since, during an examination in history, one of the most promising pupils was interrogated: "Mary, did Martin Luther die a natural death?" "No," was the prompt reply, "he was excommunicated by a bull!"

Old Squire B. was elected Judge of the Inferior Court of some county in Georgia. When he went home his delighted wife exclaimed: "Now, my dear, you are Judge; what am I?" "The same big fool you allers was!" was the reply. She never forgave him that remark for six months.
