PSYCHIATRIST TESTIFIES

Dr. A. A. MacVicar, Psychiatrist, Falconwood Hospital said that he had interviewed Hedley MacNeill for an hour on the morning of Nov. 7 and as a result of the interview concluded that he was a mental patient with a split personality whom he considered potentially dangerous and recommended his removal to Falconwood Hospital.

Dr. John Theriault, Psychiatrist read a lengthy verbatim report dealing with several interviews with Hedley MacNeill whom he found extremely tense and with out emotion when questioned. MacNeill complained that people were talking about him but when he looked there was no one there. He couldn't sleep. Later he said "my head hurts".

Witness said his impression was that the noises, voices, etc. were delusions indicating serious mental illness. He seemed to be labouring under the delusion that he should annihilate the whole family.

To the Coroner, witness said MacNeill was paranoid type, shy and exclusive and developing delusions of persecution. He would say for several years and his condition was chronic and approaching acute stage. He would not appreciate the quality of his act, labouring under the delusion that he was doing right.

Joan MacNeill, 16-year-old daughter said she was awakened early Sunday morning. Her father was swinging axe up and down but did not touch the children in the room. She went to Mrs. Martin who phoned for the police. When she returned to her home she saw her mother on the bed and thought she was ill.

Questioned by the Coroner, witness said Father was extra kind to us for several weeks. He made a big thing out of little troubles. Roy MacNeill, 13-year-old son told of waking when he heard children yelling. His father had an axe in his hand which the boy took from him without difficulty. He kept saying "this is the best way." Mother told witness on Saturday night that his father was sick.

Mrs. Edwina Martin described how she was awakened at 4.15 a.m. by Joan MacNeill at the door. She called police and later went to stairs and saw deceased dead in bed.

Witness said they had been neighbours for eight years and never had a word of any kind. Mr. MacNeill was very kind to his children. One could not tell by looking at him that he was sick. He attended church regular every Sunday.

Coroner Prowse told the jury that the child Phyllis aged 5 or 6 had two cuts on her neck when he saw her at the house on arrival. They were not bleeding. The remains of a safety razor blade nearby and the nature of the cuts indicated that they had been made by the blade.

Wendell Beaton told of his having phoned Hedley MacNeill after being advised that he had backed his car into Mr. Beaton's car on Sunday night. MacNeill came and would not respond to questions regarding repairs.

George Barter, photographer, submitted a number of photographs taken on the authority of the Attorney General, which he described and which were admitted in evidence as exhibits.

POLICE EVIDENCE—Sgt. Duncan MacPhail told of receiving the phone call from Mrs. Martin at 4.10 a.m. and getting in touch with Cons. James Howatt on the patrol with whom he proceeded to the MacNeill home. Saw MacNeill through window and heard three children pleading "Don't do it daddy". Witness described how he and Detective Sgt. Lund took the child Phyllis to hospital. He

Text Of Reply From Water Commissioners Re Water Fluoridation

Following is the text of the letter from the Commissioners of Sewers and Water Supply in the matter of the Council's recommendation for fluoridation.

"At the present time very Canadian cities are fluoridating their water. Toronto held a public hearing on the matter and those who received the approval of voters to fluoridate the water, are much disturbed and are contemplating the adopting of it. Our largest Canadian City has adopted it. In the Maritimes there is no city at the present time fluoridating their water supply. The uncertainty that exists in the minds is the same as is experienced by the Commission of this City."

"In reference to your letter re resolution of the City Council requesting the Commission to proceed with the fluoridation of the City of Charlottetown water. This matter has been under the observation of the Commission for the past few years, much material has been studied both pro and con. The Commission feel that until definite results are established for or against, it would be very unwise of them to interfere with the water supply."
