

Salesman Suffers Severe Pains; Wite Miserable With Rheumatism

Couple now loud in praise of Sarnak for the quick way it relieves long-standing stomach disorders and suffering from rheumatic pain resulting in swollen hands.

LOUIS GORE

How can a home be happy when both husband and wife are in misery and pain—and never feel really well? How can a salesman like Mr. L. R. Gore, Belle River, Ontario, keep up his fine record of sales—under such aggravating circumstances?

No wonder Mr. Gore is now a poster for Sarnak—since it brought relief within 3 days! He writes— "For many years I suffered from severe pain in my stomach and nothing I took seemed to do me any good. Three days after I started to take Sarnak, I had complete relief from the pain. But even from the first dose of Sarnak my pain began to ease.

"My wife also started Sarnak for her rheumatic pain and swelling of the hands and she is equally well in her praise of Sarnak for the relief it has given her from this aggravating form of pain."

In our files are thousands of letters from people like Mr. and Mrs. Gore who have suffered from stomach complaints, backache, constipation, rheumatic, arthritic and neuritic pains in the knees, legs, shoulders, arms and hands. All have found Sarnak has "helped" them—often from the very first dose. So don't suffer needlessly. Get Sarnak today and give it a chance to help you, too.

Walsh-Boudreau Wedding

St. Alban's Church, Sydney, was the setting for a lovely fall wedding on September the 11th when Mabel Louise, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Placide Boudreau, Dominion Street exchanged marriage vows with Raymond Frederic, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sampson Walsh, Albany, Prince Edward Island.

The marriage was performed by Venerable Archdeacon A. F. Arnold before a large number of relatives and friends.

The church was beautifully decorated with gladioli and carnations for the ceremony. Mrs. A. F. Arnold played the nuptial music as the bride entered the church on the arm of her father, a picture of loveliness in a gown of white satin.

The exquisite styling of rare chantilly lace comprised a picture of beauty. The high marquisette yoke blended into a finely moulded bodice of lace over satin. The graceful lace pepper-tum swirled around the back of the skirt, falling into pointed folds. The fitted all lace sleeves had satin covered buttons to the wrist and formed a lily point over the hands. The sweeping skirt was draped to harmonize with the slender figure of the bride. Her floor length veil was of finest French illusion misty tulle which was held in place by a coronet of tiny seed pearls. Her only ornament, a string of matched pearls, a cascade of roses intermingled with baby's breath.

Miss Edith Boudreau sister of the bride as maid of honor was charming in a gown of ice blue taffeta with matching picture hat of pleated net, and wristlets of matching taffeta. She carried a bouquet of mixed carnations with satin streamers. The bridesmaids were also very charming and were as follows: Lilly Edwards, wearing sky blue; Mildred Jones, daffodil yellow; Audrey Parsons, wearing mauve; Georgina Yates, wearing blossom pink and Mrs. Frank MacKay, wearing Nile green. They were attired in gowns of similar styling of nylon marquisette. The brides were fashioned with Bertha collars extending over the shoulders forming sleeves, V-necks and a large bow on the right shoulder. The skirts fell in soft graceful folds. Their pleated net picture hats were of color contrasting to that of their gowns. They carried bouquets of mixed carnations with matching streamers.

Miss Anne Marie White, niece of the bride as flower girl was dainty in a gown of yellow or-gandy and poke bonnet, she carried a nosegay of mums. William Boudreau, brother of the bride acted as best man. Other attendants were the Messrs. Charles Hopkins, Frank MacKay, Don Ward, William George and Ralph Jackson.

During the signing of the register their guest soloist, Miss Ruby George sang, "O Perfect Love."

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where some 200 guests were served. Mrs. P. Boudreau, mother of the bride was smartly gowned in mauve sheer with black accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. The groom's mother who was unavoidably absent was represented by Mrs. Arthur Walsh, who was also very smart in a gown of yellow taffeta, white accessories and a corsage of American Beauty roses. The bride's table was covered with an all linen cloth centred with a four tier wedding cake with miniature bride and groom, flanked by tall tapers in silver holders. Color scheme used for decorating was pink and white streamers centred with wedding bells.

The rooms were artistically decorated by Miss Tena Boudreau, sister of the bride. The toast to the bride was proposed by Rev. A. F. Arnold to which the groom responded.

Caterers for the occasion were Miss Dolly Ott and Mrs. Elsie Sheppard, while Mrs. E. House presided over the silver service. The guests were served by Misses Florence Jones, Florence Burt, Lily Yates, Belle Lundrigan, Ruby George and Louise Lundrigan.

An interesting feature of the day was the marking of the 15th wedding anniversary of the groom's brother and sister-in-law. The attendants, organist, soloist, and ushers were all suitably remembered.

In the evening dancing was enjoyed at St. Michael's hall, music being provided by Harvey Lewis' orchestra.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful wedding gifts, including linen, china, crystal, silver and electrical appliances. Later in the week Mr. and Mrs. Walsh left on their honeymoon to Prince Edward Island where they were the guests of the groom's parents. While there they received gifts of money and many useful articles.

For travelling the bride chose a navy blue worsted serge suit with a Russian squirrel neck-piece and a corsage of pink roses. On their return the young couple took up residence in the city where the groom is an employee of De Young's Ltd.

Friends are happy to know that Mrs. Harold Dickleson has returned to her home, and is convalescing nicely.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dickleson had as their guests on Sunday Mr. George Donald, Mrs. Herbert Donald and Mrs. Edward Graham.

Mrs. Edna McInnis is spending some time with her brother, Mr. Gordon Laird and Mrs. Laird. Friends are glad to learn Mrs. Laird's condition is gradually improving.

Rev. Paul Richardson is conducting special services in the Christian Church, and will continue through until Nov. 12th. Special music under the direction of Mrs. George Dickleson, as organist is an attracting feature.

Mr. R. L. Dickleson took in a large quantity of fowl, capons, etc., on Tuesday and only on one lot was it necessary to pay below the highest price. Farmers have learned to offer only the best product.

The many friends of Mrs. Isadore Dolron who has been a patient in the Charlottetown Hospital, where she had a successful operation, are pleased to know she returned to her home on Tuesday.

The children as well as grown-ups were quite excited on Saturday morning when one of the deer which were released on Mr. R. R. Bell's farm appeared in the village, it seemed to be very friendly, coming so close as to eat grass from the hands of those that offered it. Later it swam across the river. Its mate was seen up at Hazel Grove.

The Sunbeam Mission band, held its autumn thankoffering in the United Church on the afternoon of October 24th. As president Doris Andrew conducted the devotional period, while the members occupied the choir seats. After call to worship hymn, "Praise Him" was sung followed by the purp and prayer. Scripture reading from St. Matthew was read by Marion Stevenson, Pearle Nicholson led in prayer. Monologue "Her Two Mitts" by Nellie Andrew. The band sang as a chorus, "Bring Your Gifts to Jesus." Offering received by Freddie Andrews and Chester Moffatt. Sheila Dickleson gave the prayer and dedication. Mrs. Gough then introduced the speaker Dr. Florence Murray missionary from Korea. She gave a challenging message to the young and older listeners. A discussion accidents, Dr. Gustafson noted that where violence has produced extensive changes in an individual, the teeth often are the only means of identification. He cited cases in which teeth are the sole clues found to identify a victim or criminal, "particularly in connection with fights in which teeth have been knocked out."

Dr. Gustafson's formula to show the age of the individual is based on a number of measurements of many changes in the teeth connected with age, with allowance made for error, as contrasted with previous methods that have taken into account only single changes. These changes are based on (a) the wearing down of tooth surfaces as the result of chewing, (b) changes in the gum structure, (c) changes—Increase or decrease—of the tissues (dentin and enamel) around a tooth in cases of decay or disease of the tooth, (d) changes in bony tissue at the root of the tooth and resorption of degree of destruction of the structures surrounding the pulp (nerves and blood vessels), (e) transparency of the root, which increases with age.

The estimation of the age of an individual from a tooth or teeth can be very important for identification purposes.

Good Milk Improved in Four Important Ways

Carnation is good, whole cows' milk—made double-rich in all milk food values, by evaporation. Made smoother, richer-flavored more digestible, by homogenization and heat-refinement. Made absolutely safe by sterilization in the sealed can. More nourishing, with vitamin D increased to 40% Units per pint.

From Supervised Farms

On fine dairy farms, "Contented Cows" produce good, rich milk for Carnation. The farms are under regular, rigid inspection by Carnation's field men—to make sure that only the finest milk goes into the red and white Carnation cans.
