A morning Church Vacation School at Trinity United Church got underway yesterday. The school, for children aged six to 13 years, will be held until Saturday.

A study of the development of the church is the theme being studied, with the use of texts recommended by the Canadian Council of Churches, which is a branch of the World Council Churches now meeting in Evanston, Ill.

The program was introduced by an object hunt. The children searched for various hidden objects which indicated the activities of the program. For example, scissors and a needle meant there would be handiwork, and a Bible and picture indicated worship and Bible study.

arrange them in a pleasing and attractive way as possible. When we attend a flower show and gaze on the beauty all around, we think of the sunshine and sky, dawn and moonlight, cloud and wind, the sea, the glory of the garden, the radiance of the open field, the delicacy of the meadow and the fragrance of the woods.

Today I had the pleasure of a visit from a garden-friend who had just returned from a three month's tour of Europe and the British Isles and had attended the famous Chelsea Flower Show. It was wonderful to sit in my own garden and enjoy hearing of all the beautiful countries and the lovely gardens of Windsor and many many more places I had read about through the years.

Kew Gardens were visited and the Rhododendrons were much admired and the Azaleas. We cannot grow roses here as well as in the countries visited. In Switzerland they were very fine. In every country much was made of beauty. lovely views were made more beautiful and admired by those living there, as well as the visitors to the country.

Most of the homes had their lovely gardens and in the houses were colored in pastel shades, pink, mauve, yellow and blue, with decorations of beautiful murals made many years ago by craftsmen who loved working in beautiful mediums, such as these and stone work.

In older countries they seemed to have the time and inclination for wonderful craft work. My visitor told me that the Gladiolus "over there" were not as beautiful as grown here, and today at the flower show there will be hundreds of beautiful blooms in all colors. They are better in this garden than for some years but are not of exhibition quality.

For indoor decorations because of their sturdy flower spikes, their wide color range and their long life.

A month later we met at another dance, which I attended with my girl friends. Again, he was gentlemanly, courteous, interested — took me to a nice place to eat after the dance, then home. The following week I got up enough courage to call him and invite him to a party given by the June graduates of our school, among whom I was numbered. He accepted, apparently with enthusiasm. seems. They are beautiful, and superior and again he escorted me home, and goodnight with reluctance — but no word since. Could I call him and invite him to another party, or just forget the whole thing?

M. C. ANSWER: If a bona fide party, dance or picnic comes along, you might tempt fate and call the young man again — as much from feminine curiosity as anything else. After all, you certainly can't lose anything at this point, and you stand a chance, at least, of having another very pleasant time. His reluctance to make a date with you may be due to several things such as another girl, school, business, family obligations that limit his time, or fear that he might find himself "tied down."

DEAR MISS DIX: After 25 years

Now that the fullness has arrived, The drowsy murmur of unnumbered bees That in rose-ruffled hollyhocks are hived Beats in the heart's deep-noted harmonies. Under low-lying hills, the coral bars Lent by the peach have felt the earthward pull; Gone is the fragrance with the plum's white stars, Fallen and darkened now the seed is full. Now here again is stillness on the land. The sleepy silence of fruits ripening. Before the golden and scarlet buds expand Against a sky where thin white banners cling. Rhythmic is summer linking limb and root. Keeping the ordinance of seed and fruit. —Wanggaard.

DEPARTMENT OF FISHERIES NOTICE

THE ATTENTION OF THE OWNERS AND MASTERS OF FISHING VESSELS AND OF ALL OTHERS WHOM IT MAY CONCERN IS HEREBY DIRECTED TO THE FOLLOWING PROVISIONS OF THE COASTAL FISHERIES PROTECTION ACT, 1953.

OFFENCES AND PENALTIES

Section 7: Every person is guilty of an offence who (a) being master or in command of a fishing vessel, (i) enters Canadian territorial waters contrary to this Act, or (ii) without legal excuse, the proof whereof shall lie on him, fails to bring to when required so to do by any Protection Officer or upon signal of a government vessel;

(b) being aboard a fishing vessel, refuses to answer any questions on oath put to him by a Protection Officer; (c) after signal by a government vessel to bring to, throws overboard or staves or destroys any part of the vessel's cargo, outfit or equipment; or (d) resists or willfully obstructs any Protection Officer in the execution of his duty.

Every person who violates any of the above provisions is guilty of an offence and is liable to the penalties provided by the Coastal Fisheries Protection Act.

SIGNAL OF A GOVERNMENT VESSEL

Department of Fisheries patrol vessels will fly the blue ensign, and in addition, when signalling a fishing vessel to bring to, will hoist the International Code Flag "K", which means "you should stop your vessel instantly."

INTERNATIONAL CODE FLAG "K" /

The International Morse Code Letter "K" may also be signalled by light or by sound. When a light is used the signal will be long flash, short flash, long flash. When sound is used the signal will be prolonged blast, short blast, prolonged blast. These signals by light or sound also mean that the vessel signalled must stop immediately.

STEWART BATES, Deputy Minister of Fisheries

is doing a very dear friend of mine, who is married and has children. Should I tell her husband who thinks she is an angel, let them continue, or leave my husband?

M. C. ANSWER: You would gain nothing by breaking up a quarter-century marriage over your husband's romance, which will be of short duration anyway. You can either keep quiet and let him come to his senses alone, or tell them that if they don't stop seeing each other, you intend going to her husband. This is a threat that seldom fails, since women have much more to lose through infidelity than men. For a better understanding of the problem, read, "The Revolt of the Middle-Aged Man" by Dr. Edmund Bergler.
