Europe Counts 18 Dead In Wake Of Fierce Storm

LONDON, Nov. 7 — (AP) — Western Europe counted 18 dead tonight in the wake of a storm which raged from Britain to Greece.

Winds up to 94 miles an hour drove shipping to cover in the English Channel and Irish Sea, grounded ships in the North Sea off Germany and Holland, blew down bomb-damaged buildings in Berlin and sank two motorships.

Ten crew members died in the sinking of the Maria Antonietta off Sicily. A German motorship sank in the Rhine near Worms and a sailor was lost.

Four Germans repairing a flooded dike near Wesermünde were downed. Two died under falling buildings in Berlin.

The 6,379-ton Panama steamer Faustus, which grounded off the Hook of Holland Thursday, remained helpless on the head of a Hook breakwater where all ships previously "stranded" have been lost.

The northern French coast, the Alps and even the far-off Dodecanese Islands off Turkey were hit.

A cold wave moved south behind the dying winds tonight.

The strongest winds were reported around the British Isles, where ships were torn from moorings and the 8,723-ton British steamship Asia and nine smaller vessels were blown aground. No serious casualties were reported in Britain.

N.A.T.O. naval manoeuvres were curtailed by high winds which drove fishing fleets to shore in the Mediterranean.

In Britain, nearly 100 ships sought shelter. Lifeboats went out from many British ports to answer distress calls.

The liner Scythia with 550 passengers for Canada was held up 10 hours at Southampton. The 20,000-ton Franconia from Quebec with 225 passengers and the Empress of France sheltered for the night off the Isle of Man.

Villagers at Shimpling, Suffolk, saw the wind blow away the little parish hall they have been preparing for 30 years. On a hill summit near Glasgow known as "Rest And Be Thankful" a furniture truck was lifted and dropped in a hollow 150 feet below.

More than 1,000 canaries and budgerigars escaped when their aviary was blown open on the roof of a Birmingham store.

Declares Canada Can Afford Health Insurance

VANCOUVER, Nov. 7 — (CP) — Canada can afford a comprehensive plan of national health insurance, said tonight.

"It is no longer a question of whether it can be done" he said in a prepared address.

Mr. Coldwell, whose party has been urging health insurance for years, said Canada is one of the few countries without it. Most countries with such plans had resources and natural incomes far below those of Canada.

"Yet in no instance" he said, "have any of them found the cost more than the country could bear. Nor have any of them, once they instituted comprehensive health plans, reverted to the haphazard, inadequate private coverage such as they had before and such as we have in Canada today."

Mr. Coldwell stressed on the idea that the net cost of a health plan—the amount it would cost above what now is being paid by individuals and governments—would not be high.

Total health expenditure in Canada now is about $675,000,000, of which an estimated $500,000,000 is spent by individuals, he said.

A comprehensive health plan would replace entirely the present system. It also would replace a substantial amount of what governments now spend, though the C. C. F. would call for the boosting of certain government grants.

Mr. Coldwell noted that Health Minister Martin had estimated the cost of a scheme as around $600,000,000; but he said the chief point to be remembered about that figure was that it would to a large extent replace already-existing expenditures.

"The chief difference," he added "would be that under the C. C. F.

Immunization Clinics In Progress

Hundreds of parents with young children are gathering at 19 schools throughout the province these days to attend the 4th Regional Immunization Clinics. These are being conducted by the Department of Health and Welfare to complete the first series of inoculations for protection against whooping cough, diphtheria and tetanus which were started in the spring. These Fall clinics will also enable young children who were inoculated a year ago to receive a necessary reinforcing dose.

The Health Department is making every effort to remind parents about the clinics. Teachers in the surrounding districts to the Clinic Centres have been notified and given a list of names of the young children in their district who are due for an inoculation. In addition, a postcard has been sent to all parents concerned. The Health Department urgently advises all parents whose children were too young to start the protective inoculations in the spring and who haven't done anything yet about securing inoculations, to go to their family doctor as soon as possible. No one can take a chance on delaying protection against whooping cough and diphtheria which are so very dangerous and often fatal for young children.

Master Stewart Hansen, who broke his leg on October 15th, re-entered the King's County Memorial Hospital at Montague on Wednesday, October 29th for several days, where a walking cast will be placed on his leg. His many friends hope to see Stewart about soon again.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Landry and family of Charlottetown are visiting Mr. Landry's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Landry of Georgetown. Harold returned recently from Labrador where he has been employed as an electrician for several months.
