Mr. R. Morrow Cured of Lumbago by Dodd's Pills

TORONTO, Nov 28.—The vast majority of Torontonians know and esteem Mr. R. Morrow, the able and popular agent for the Toronto Auer Light Co.

For this reason the following statement made in writing by Mr. Morrow, possesses unusual significance.

"Two years ago I was attacked by Lumbago and urinary trouble which caused me intense suffering. I took several different remedies without any benefit. Then I began using Dodd's Kidney Pills, and was completely cured by them."

Lumbago is unusually prevalent this fall. All sufferers should know that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only known cure for it. They never fail.

Mrs. L. L. Johnson, aged 60 years, has been indicted by the grand jury at Perry, Old, charged with murdering two husbands. She has been a widow seven times. The bodies of her two last husbands, which have been exhumed, were found to contain arsenic.

The Egyptian Government is about to send a circular to the Powers proposing that a term of the mixed tribunals, which ends on February 1st, be prolonged for a year. The mixed tribunals were instituted in 1875, to deal with civil actions between persons of different nationalities, and with crimes committed by foreigners.

Every household should have on hand a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment. The diversity of uses to which it can be put and the many doctor's bills it saves warrant its taking first place in the family medicine chest. All dealers sell and recommend it.

Application will be made next session for power to build a line of railway from Lake Winnipegosis to Edmonton.

Pain in the Back.

Being troubled off and on with pains in my back, caused by constipation, I tried several kinds of pills I had seen advertised, and to put the truth in a nut shell Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the only pills that have proved effectual in my case. I can heartily recommend them.

A Cemetery For Old Clothes.

In the north of London there is a little plot of ground where old clothes are buried and afterward exhumed for a curious purpose. It is a flat, barren and destitute piece of ground and presents a very melancholy spectacle. Little wooden stumps, bearing numbers, mark the graves.

There is a paper mill near by, which finds it rather difficult to get suitable material for the manufacture of a special paper.

The ordinary old rags are no good. The rags themselves have to be manufactured. Old coats, old trousers and old dresses are covered with wet soil, and after a few weeks' rotting are exhumed.

A corner is set aside for old linen goods. The linen is placed in layers in a box, with soft rich soil between each layer, and then buried.

Limewater is then sprinkled over the grave, and after a fortnight's rotting the linen is reduced to a mere skeleton, which is taken out of the box, laid flat in a warm blanket and rushed off to the paper mill.

Though it is only the size of a football ground, it contains 2,000 graves, which are marked by 2,000 wooden stumps, each bearing a number.

Women's Sense of Color.

The differences between men and women are well marked in many ways, but it may not be generally known how great this difference is in the matter of color appreciation, not to speak of color blindness. A large percentage of men are impervious to the sensation of color; they neither notice nor appreciate it. Women, on the contrary, like many animals, are strongly attracted and repelled by color, which to the average male mind remains a mystery. The ordinary man is quite satisfied if his helpmate dresses in black or in the proverbially agreeable white muslin. Why she should seek for harmonies and novelties of color, why she should arrange and match and discuss various hues with the seriousness he would give to a business matter, passes his understanding.

And just as color leaves a man cold, so does form a woman, which accounts for her indifference to statuary and her frequent incapacity for drawing. Louisa, marchioness of Waterford, was an instance of this. Her coloring was superb and the envy of artists, her drawing defective and poor, and when she tried late in life to learn to draw she only succeeded in spoiling her fine instinct for color.—London Graphic.

Mulberry Sellers.

One day while Mark Twain and Charles Dudley Warner were walking together they happened to begin a discussion of the modern novel, and one of the other suggested that it might be a good plan to burlesque it. Later while journeying together to Boston this suggestion took definite shape, and on their return the work was begun, one author writing a chapter, the other taking up the threads of the story the next day, and both critically examining the result each evening and asking the opinions of their wives as to the success of each stage of the undertaking. Finally they collected all the manuscript, of which there was too great a quantity, and jointly condensed it. It was owing to a suggestion by Mr. Warner that the chief character in the tale was called Colonel Eschol Sellers, and it is a fact that the man whose name was taken—a man supposed to be long dead—made a fiery demand for satisfaction, visiting Hartford for that purpose. In later editions of the story the name "Eschol" was changed to "Mulberry."—Ladies' Home Journal.

The Mote and the Beam.

When Lord Morris was chief justice of Ireland, a young junior barrister arose in his court one day to make his first motion and spoke in the hard brogue of the north of Ireland.

"Sapel," said the judge in a low voice to the registrar of the court, "who is this newcomer?"

"His name is Clements, my lord."

"What part of the country does he hail from in the name of all that's wonderful?" asked the judge.

"County Antrim, my lord," was the reply.

"Well, well!" said the judge. "Did you ever come across such a freightful accent in the whole course of yer born life?"

The White House Design.

The White House is an exact copy of the Duke of Leinster's palace, Dublin. In March, 1793, the commissioners on building advertised for "a plan for a president's house to be erected in the city of Washington." The prize offered was $500, and that of James Hoban, a young Irish mechanic, was accepted. The design was supposed to be original, but when the house was completed it was learned that Hoban had copied it from the duke's palace.
