HASZARD'S GAZETTE.

Saturday, October 28, 1854.

A fortnight since, and we rejoiced in the fall of Sebastopol, lamenting at the same time, the sad loss of human life that had been sustained in achieving the victory; at the end of a week, we found that both our joy and sorrow had been sadly unavailing, Sebastopol was still in the hands of the Russians. Thursday evening, however, gave us the certain and official accounts of a great a victory, and as honorable to the allies as can be expected of Sebastopol itself. The battle of the Alma will shed additional lustre on the military fame of both the gallant nations, by whose united exertions it was won. It was short and severe, but decisive; that Sebastopol has, ere this, surrendered, there seems to be no doubt in the minds of those best qualified to judge correctly in the matter. It would seem that the Russian General was so perfectly satisfied with the superiority of his position, that he felt quite certain, that no force that the allies could bring against him, would make the least impression, and had the position of the two armies been reversed, there is no doubt that such would have been the case. Had the English and French occupied the heights of Alma, an hundred thousand Russians might have attempted it in vain. In fact, they relied too much on their position, and accordingly, when assailed by the cool, steady valour of the English on one side, and the chivalric impetuosity of the French on the other, they knew not what to make of enemies, by whom natural obstacles, of themselves ordinarily insurmountable, in the face of a superior force, but rendered unreasonably difficult by means of the resources of military art and skill which had been lavished with an unsparing hand, were surmounted one after the other, with a firmness, and determination that has few parallels in either ancient or modern warfare. This is the first time that the Russians have felt the united force of the allies, and the encounter must have convinced them, that against such men, animated with the remembrance of former victories, and with an enthusiastic spirit of generous rivalry pervading both nations, an army, however naturally brave, but who have no other feeling to keep them together, than the tie of military discipline, must give way. More has been done by the battle of Alma to ensure a permanent peace, and one properly guaranteed, than the taking of Sebastopol, or Moscow, however glorious might have been the achievement. The Emperor Nicholas is by no means a fool, and the disposition at Alma, shew that he has skilful Generals, and the next step must be make the best of their position, but his soldiers have not that moral courage, which is as necessary and essential to the well being of an army as animal bravery. The Russian soldier is essentially a slave, he is enrolled at early age, compelled to exchange one species of slavery for another, has no home but the regiment, no kindred but that of his companion. No animating thought of what his father, mother, brothers, sister, or the girl of his choice will feel, when they read of the victory in which his regiment has been so conspicuous a part, on inspiring hope, that when "gentle peace returning," he shall again visit his native village, and be for a while, the hero of his family, has a place in the bosom of the Russian serf, that the Czar will find, if he has not already done so, that mere brawn, and blood and sinew, however trained and drilled, and made into a machine, are nothing in comparison to the millions animated by moral life. If the battle of Alma had no other result, it would at least serve to shew, that Europe is protected from an irruption from the northern hive of barbarians, and that Russia is not, as yet, destined to roam at will, through the ruins of civilization. It will have another, and not unimportant result, it will shew those of the Czar's army that think, and of whom, I fear, the most part, the officers and their subordinates, that the boast of Nicholas, that the God of battles on their side, and that the victory was certain, is fallacious, and founded on the same error, that all his other calculations have been. In every light in which it is viewed, the battle of Alma is one of the most important events that have occurred in these latter days—It is confidently hoped that the Baltic fleet is not destined to return without adding another laurel or two to that of Bomarsund.

Our readers will observe that we have devoted a large space—for a semi-weekly paper—to the important news received on Thursday evening. We printed half of our sheet in time for the Province's Steamer, giving the latest news. It will be found on our first page. The full account of the Battle of the Alma is presented to our readers on the second page, with the exception of a very few words, and "the number of killed and wounded," which has inadvertently in the hurry of business been printed on the first.

KING'S COLLEGE, WINDSOR, NOVA SCOTIA.

This Institution which has long borne a fair title and held a prominent place among the Educational establishments of British North America, having been chiefly supplied in its means of doing good by the withdrawal of certain annual funds, partly contributed by the British Parliament, partly by the Society for the Propagation of the Gospel, and partly by the loss of Legislative, those who are friendly to that Institution, who believe that it has done much good, and hopefully trust that it will do more, have devoted themselves earnestly to the task of raising a fund by which its means shall be permanently established.

The College is under the management of 12 Governors chosen from its friends. It has five Professors.

A new system has been organized, by which contributors to the College funds will derive no small advantage from their subscription. "Any person contributing the sum of £100 will be entitled to a perpetual right of nomination, in virtue of which he may always have one pupil at the College, without paying any fees for tuition, and a Divinity student will obtain an exhibition of £30 per annum; the son of a poor man wishing to prepare for Holy Orders may pass through College without any expence to his family or friends." Certificates will be granted for every hundred pounds, which certificate shall be transferable and heritable. Attention is called to the following particulars.

"1. When a man is not able to purchase a Nomination for himself, he may join with others, not exceeding four in number, and it may be held in their joint names.

"2. Although the number of names in any Certificate may not exceed four, any number of persons united in an Association or Society, may obtain a nomination for and in the name of that Society.

"3. The Fees now paid are about £13, and will probably be more, when additional Professors are appointed, so that the possessor of a Nomination will save at least £13 per annum.

"4. Any Student may pursue a particular course of study, without attending all the Lectures, and will thus be enabled to apply more exclusively to a preparation for the Profession to which he intends to devote himself in after life.

The Rev. J. C. Cpchran, Secretary of the Governors, is now in Charlottetown, for the purpose of soliciting, aid for the Indowment of the institution, and will be happy to receive contributions from the friends, from all persons friendly to the cause of sound religious education. It is proposed to hold a public meeting for the object, on Monday evening next—of which further notice will be given.—

Elkington & Co's. Patent Electroplate.

HAS now been before the public since 1841, and after the most severe test of wear, in the vessels of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Company, the Peninsular and Oriental Company, the General Screw Steam Ship Company, the Pacific Steam Navigation Company, and numerous Club Houses, Hotels, and Private Houses, in every part of the world, continues to give the most unqualified satisfaction, supplying as it does all the advantages of silver in utility and beauty of effect; and it will be found that the interest of money upon the cost of silver goods for a period of seven years, is about sufficient to purchase Electro Plate, and this, with the now established fact of its extreme durability, makes it a matter of great importance to families, hotels or steamers. It must be evident that the wear of all articles depends on the thickness of the deposit, and the Patentees refer with great satisfaction to the award made by the Royal Commission of the Great Exhibition, 1851, OF THE FIRST CLASS OR COUNCIL MEDAL for these productions.

A large assortment of the above Goods has just arrived per Cicely, direct from the manufacturers, and is now ready for sale.

LIVER COMPLAINT,

DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE, CHRONIC OR NERVOUS DEBILITY, DISEASE OF THE KIDNEYS, AND ALL DISEASES ARISING FROM A DISORDERED LIVER OR STOMACH;

Such as Constipation, Inward Piles, Fulness of Blood to the Head, Acidity of the Stomach, Nausea, Heartburn, Disgust for food, Fulness or Weight in the Stomach, Sour Eructations, Sinking or Fluttering at the Pit of the Stomach, Swimming of the Head, Hurried and Difficult Breathing, Fluttering at the Heart, Choking or Suffocating Sensations when in a lying posture, Dimness of Vision, Dots or Webs before the sight, Fever and Dull Pain in the Head, Deficiency of Perspiration, Yellowness of the Skin & Eyes, Pain in the Side, Back, Chest, Limbs, &c., Sudden Flushes of Heat, Burning in the Flesh, Constant Imaginings of evil, and Great Depression of Spirits, can be effectually cured by

DR. HOOFLAND'S CELEBRATED GERMAN BITTERS,

Prepared by DR. C. M. JACKSON, No. 120 Arch street, Philadelphia.

Their power over the above diseases is not excelled, if equalled, by any other remedy known in the United States, as the cures attest, in many cases after skilful physicians had failed.

These Bitters are worthy the attention of invalids. Possessing great virtues in the rectification of diseases of the Liver and lesser glands, exercising the most searching powers in weakness and affections of the digestive organs, they are, in fact, mild, safe, certain and pleasant.

Read and be Convinced.

The "Philadelphia Saturday Gazette," says of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters—

"It is seldom that we recommend what are termed Patent Medicines, to the confidence and patronage of our readers—but therefore when we recommend Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, we wish it to be distinctly understood that we are not speaking of the nostrum of the day, that are palmed upon us for a brief period and then forgotten after they have done their guilty race of mischief, but of a medicine long established, universally prized, and which has met the hearty approval of its faculty itself."

"Scott's Weekly," said, Aug. 25—

"Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters, manufactured by Dr. Jackson, are now recommended by some of the most prominent members of the faculty as an article of much efficacy in cases of female weakness. Persons of debilitated constitutions will find these Bitters advantageous to their health, as we know from experience the salutary effect they have upon a weak system."

MORE EVIDENCE.

J. G. Moore, Esq., of the Daily News said, October 31st—

"Dr. HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.—We are trying this renowned medicine for a stubborn disease of the bowels, and can with truth testify to its efficacy. We have taken the contents of two bottles, and we have derived more benefit from the experiment than we derived previously from years of sympathic treatment at the hands of our first physicians."

Hon. C. D. Hiseline, Mayor of the City of Camden, N. J. says:

"HOOFLAND'S GERMAN BITTERS.—We have seen many flattering notices of this medicine, and the source from which they came induced us to make inquiry respecting its merits. From inquiry we were persuaded to use it, and must say we found it specific in its action upon diseases of the liver and digestive organ, and the powerful influence it exerts over the nervous system in the nearly surprising it calms and strengthens the nerves, bringing them into a state of repose, making sleep refreshing.

If this medicine was more generally used, we are satisfied there would be less suffering from the stomach, liver and nervous system, the great majority of real and imaginary diseases emanate there from, and consequently more health and less inducement to epidemics generally. This extraordinary medicine we would advise our friends who are at all indisposed, to give it a trial, and we feel confident, if it should, in fact, be in every family. No other medicine can produce evidences of the same merit."

For sale wholesale and retail at

THE GERMAN MEDICINE STORE,

No. 120 Arch street, second door below Sixth, Philadelphia, and by respectable dealers generally throughout the country.

In this mammon-worshipping Age, it is rare to find a man pleased to confer favors on the public, before he interest. During a late visit to the "City of Spindles," we were presented by a professional friend, to the celebrated Chemist, Dr. C. M. JACKSON, whose name is now perhaps, more familiar than any other, at the bedside of sickness, in this country. Knowing the unprecedented popularity of his medicines, and the immense sale of them, we expected to find him a millionaire, and rolling in wealth. But no, we found him in his laboratory, busy with his laborers, among his crucibles, alembics, and retorts—each busy in their personal care to the compounds, on the virtues of which, thousands hang for health. We learned, that notwithstanding his vast business, and its prompt returns in cash, his Doctor is extortion. The reason assigned is, that the material is costly, and he persists in making his preparations so expensively, that the unit profit is small.—American Farmers, 1854.
