

MISS JAMAICA ARRIVES

TORONTO — Joan Duperly, 18, this year's Miss Jamaica, leaves a plane at Malton airport with a big smile for the photographers. Her trip to Canada was one of the prizes in the Miss Jamaica contest. While in Toronto and Montreal the island beauty will teach Canadians how to do the calypso dance. (CP Photo)

4 Residents Of Fortune Are Injured In Accident

Howard Dixon, 46, prominent potato grower of Fortune, two of his children—Joan, eight, and Sefion, four, and his niece, Ruth, 22, are patients in the Prince Edward Island Hospital where they are being treated for injuries received yesterday in a two-car collision. Hospital sources said last night that the condition of the injured was "not too bad". All were said to be suffering from cuts and bruises. The mishap occurred shortly before 4:00 p.m. on the St. Peter's Highway near the Mount Stewart intersection.

The occupants of the other vehicle, Mr. and Mrs. John Sellick, and their two children, Melvin and Barbara, suffered only minor injuries. They returned to their Wallace, Nova Scotia home last night. Both cars were damaged extensively and were towed to Charlottetown. The Dixons were on the way home from Charlottetown where they had driven Ruth's sister Doris, returning to the mainland on the 3:00 p.m. bus.

Asks Better Sex Education Films

KINGSTON (CP) — An Ottawa psychology professor says more advanced films are needed in sex education. "There is scope for several really good films dealing with methods of imparting sex education," Dr. F. R. Wake of Carleton University told the 1958 summer film seminar for members of eastern Ontario home and school and parent-teacher associations. "We can't afford to be backward in the choice of material for sex films when children have the opportunity to see so much material that is, to say the least not in very good taste."

Considering the publications on corner newsstands it would be "a little bit party-waist of us to object to the showing of a passionate necking session on the back seat of a car."

PREDICTS NEW FILMS
Dr. Wake said within 10 years advanced films will be made and audiences will accept them. "The attitudes of young people change so quickly we must keep up with their arguments about sex standards and be prepared to meet them in discussion of what constitutes adequate standards."

In Ottawa most parents felt sex education belongs in the home, Dr. Wake said. They thought it could be made part of the public school curriculum in an unorganized way, he said, with the teacher handling the sex question as it arose.

EASTERN GUARDIAN
ST. GEORGE'S Junior Farmers present their plays and specialties in St. Georges Hall, July 28th. Curtain 8:45. Dance after.

PERSONALS
Miss Heather Fraser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Fraser, Ottawa, is a patient in the King's County Hospital, Montague.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Furness, Vernon and their daughter, Mrs. Platts of Calgary, Alberta, were Sunday visitors to Montague, guests of Mr. and Mrs. Lester MacLeod.

Messrs. Joseph Kearney, Roy Kearney, Neil Murphy, Gerard Murphy of Sturgeon and Mr. Wendall Johnston of Murray Harbour North left recently for Ontario where they are seeking employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Neil Campbell, Mass., are spending their holidays at the home of Mr. Campbell's brother, Mr. Bernard Campbell, Sturgeon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Callaghan, Charlottetown were the week-end guests of Mr. and Mrs. William Landrigan, Sturgeon.

Wants Hungary Considered Too

ROME (AP) — Msgr. Bela Varga, head of the Hungarian national committee, said Saturday summit talks should consider Hungary's plight as well as the Middle East.

The former president of the Hungarian parliament said the West had abandoned their friends in Hungary "but moved quickly when oil was involved."

The monsignor, whose committee headquarters are in New York City, spoke at a press conference.

He said Russia's efforts to subjugate and eliminate the Hungarian people continues fiercely. Its means he said, include abrogation of treaties, transfer of people and removal of workers to camps some of them even to China.

Since the 1956 revolution, Msgr. Varga said, "about 2,500 more freedom fighters have been killed the greater part of them in secret. Thousands of others who participated in the revolution have been imprisoned, deported or sent to concentration camps."

On the other hand, the possibilities of the development of our powers seem unlimited.

In one rural community two boys grew up together, one the most brilliant scholar in the school and the other the most student never really tried and never amounted to anything; while his less gifted friend gained intellectual and moral power that influenced the nation.

It costs to excel, and the price paid by those who do is very great. But our abilities are a sacred trust, the very richest of the manifold gifts of God, and they are a field in which we gain by spending and lose irreparably by their neglect.

POPE EXHORTS NUNS
CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — The Pope told Roman Catholic cloistered nuns Saturday the ancient motto "ora et labora"—pray and work—is as valid as ever. The Pope's radio message to convents around the world was the second in a series of three. They are the first such messages ever delivered to the nuns, many of whom take vows that cut themselves off from the world.

STICKS GUM ON ART
WASHINGTON (AP)—Someone who had little to do with a wad of chewing gum on a 400-year-old painting in the National Gallery of Art. Experts removed the gum without damage to the valuable picture. Portrait of a Young Man, by Antonis Mor of the Flemish-Dutch school of painting. Gallery officials found an easy clue: A clear fingerprint in the gum. Police are investigating.

NOTICE TO PATRIOT SUBSCRIBERS
Patriot subscription accounts may be paid at the Montague, Souris or Summerside offices of The Guardian and The Patriot.

The Guardian — The Patriot

YEO Theatre MONTAGUE
MON.-Tues
JULY 28, 29
SHOWS AT 8:30

"House Of Numbers"

JACK PALANCE
The most fascinating puzzle a man ever faced — and his love depended on the solution. One man did what no other man had ever done before. A truly gripping suspense story that will thrill you for sure.

Coming Wednesday and Thursday "Desire Under The Elms".

BOAT UPSETS; 25 DIE
MOSCOW (Reuters) — Twenty-three children, their nurse and their teacher, were drowned when a home-made boat capsized in the Tara River, near Omsk, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported Saturday. Nine other children and an accordion player were saved. All were members of a young Communist organization. Izvestia quoted statements that the boat was made out of sheet metal from drawings supplied by the teacher who had had no experience of boatbuilding and no licence to operate a boat.

ORDAEN BORMANN SON
INNSBRUCK, Austria (Reuters) — Martin Adolf Bormann, son of Adolf Hitler's deputy and a godson of the fuhrer himself, was ordained a Roman Catholic priest Saturday. The 26-year-old monk, a member of the order of missionaries of the Holy Heart of Jesus, wears a full red beard. The fate of his father, also named M<sup>artin</sup>, after the downfall of Hitler is a mystery.

RELIGION AND LIFE
BY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D.
FIRST Moderator of the United Church of Canada

POWERS UNUSED OR NEGLECTED SOON DISAPPEAR
Nothing in nature is clearer than this—powers unused or abused are withdrawn.

One's muscles are developed by exercise; unused they grow flabby or thin. The man who refuses to think through the problems of life loses his capacity for independent thought.

Failure to make moral decisions when moral issues arise, means personality without character and without significance for his age.

It is difficult at this distance to understand what has happened in France. But this seems clear. The Republic's elected representatives used the power entrusted to them in an irresponsible spirit. They upset one government after another on minor issues until French politics became the laughing stock of the world.

No stability was possible. Now one has taken over the authority and powers of government. A nation free to govern itself has consented to be governed, and the saying has gone abroad that this had to be done to save France.

Rights used without wisdom or clear purpose have been drastically restricted, to say the least.

RELIGION AND LIFE
BY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D.
FIRST Moderator of the United Church of Canada

POWERS UNUSED OR NEGLECTED SOON DISAPPEAR
Nothing in nature is clearer than this—powers unused or abused are withdrawn.

One's muscles are developed by exercise; unused they grow flabby or thin. The man who refuses to think through the problems of life loses his capacity for independent thought.

Failure to make moral decisions when moral issues arise, means personality without character and without significance for his age.

It is difficult at this distance to understand what has happened in France. But this seems clear. The Republic's elected representatives used the power entrusted to them in an irresponsible spirit. They upset one government after another on minor issues until French politics became the laughing stock of the world.

No stability was possible. Now one has taken over the authority and powers of government. A nation free to govern itself has consented to be governed, and the saying has gone abroad that this had to be done to save France.

Rights used without wisdom or clear purpose have been drastically restricted, to say the least.

When we turn to Bible history we find the same law in operation.

Under the Judges the tribes of Israel were free. In their emergencies God raised up gifted leaders and gave them success in maintaining that freedom. But the different tribes were irresponsible.

When Deborah, Israel's Joan of Arc, was leading in a desperate fight against the invader, Reuben was piping among his flocks, and Meroz insisted on its neutrality. When little Jdiah was fighting for her life against the Philistines the powerful tribes of the North paid little attention to their struggle, until the Philistines carried the war into their rich valley; then a captain from Judah had to save them.

There was no sense of solidarity, and therefore no realization that in a living organization the injury of one member was the hurt of all. As a consequence, they had to unite under a king with the evils that absolute monarchy brought with it. This has happened in many a country since, in fact, it is the inevitable result of a failure to appreciate what national freedom involves.

ON TRIAL
Democracy is on trial in our time. France is not the only nation that has thrown it out as a failure. The personal and local sacrifices needed for unity, the free citizen's refusal to accept his share of responsibility for the common good, and to think through for himself the issues before the state have left the weight of choices and decisions with the few and sooner or later, those who bore the burden seized the authority.

As Canadians we pride ourselves on the liberties for which our fathers fought.

There is nothing in modern history more impressive than the sight of a free people going to the polls to choose their rulers and to place authority in their hands. But there are ominous signs of failure in our use of these rights. Numbers of citizens fail to vote. Many who do vote do so without the independent thought and serious conviction required for intelligent self-government.

The partisan spirit is a constant menace, and too often self-interest is behind the party cries. When other nations are discarding the system for the sake of efficiency and security, Canadians need to examine our treatment of our rights and opportunities lest we too forfeit our precious heritage from the past.

SAME DANGER
The same danger threatens the Church. The spiritual health and vigor of any congregation is determined by the individual member's intelligent and conscientious loyalty to the truths and principles for which his church stands.

Now many people wear proudly the name of the church of their fathers without a working knowledge of its history or its doctrines. To be able to give a reason for the faith that is in him, and to which he lives is surely the least that can be asked of the Christian man today. I am a believer, but in what? And in whom? My world needs to know my answer. My church's statements of faith will crumble unless they express vital convictions of the rank and file of her members.

OURS TO USE
To return to the point from which we started—my rights and privileges are mine to use. One who is unable or unwilling to use his money to advantage can put it in the bank and know that it is safe, but there is no institution which can keep his heritage of moral principle or spiritual faith for him. Forgotten or neglected they waste away.

On the other hand, the possibilities of the development of our powers seem unlimited.

In one rural community two boys grew up together, one the most brilliant scholar in the school and the other the most student never really tried and never amounted to anything; while his less gifted friend gained intellectual and moral power that influenced the nation.

It costs to excel, and the price paid by those who do is very great. But our abilities are a sacred trust, the very richest of the manifold gifts of God, and they are a field in which we gain by spending and lose irreparably by their neglect.

POPE EXHORTS NUNS
CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — The Pope told Roman Catholic cloistered nuns Saturday the ancient motto "ora et labora"—pray and work—is as valid as ever. The Pope's radio message to convents around the world was the second in a series of three. They are the first such messages ever delivered to the nuns, many of whom take vows that cut themselves off from the world.

STICKS GUM ON ART
WASHINGTON (AP)—Someone who had little to do with a wad of chewing gum on a 400-year-old painting in the National Gallery of Art. Experts removed the gum without damage to the valuable picture. Portrait of a Young Man, by Antonis Mor of the Flemish-Dutch school of painting. Gallery officials found an easy clue: A clear fingerprint in the gum. Police are investigating.

NOTICE TO PATRIOT SUBSCRIBERS
Patriot subscription accounts may be paid at the Montague, Souris or Summerside offices of The Guardian and The Patriot.

The Guardian — The Patriot

YEO Theatre MONTAGUE
MON.-Tues
JULY 28, 29
SHOWS AT 8:30

"House Of Numbers"

JACK PALANCE
The most fascinating puzzle a man ever faced — and his love depended on the solution. One man did what no other man had ever done before. A truly gripping suspense story that will thrill you for sure.

Coming Wednesday and Thursday "Desire Under The Elms".

BOAT UPSETS; 25 DIE
MOSCOW (Reuters) — Twenty-three children, their nurse and their teacher, were drowned when a home-made boat capsized in the Tara River, near Omsk, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported Saturday. Nine other children and an accordion player were saved. All were members of a young Communist organization. Izvestia quoted statements that the boat was made out of sheet metal from drawings supplied by the teacher who had had no experience of boatbuilding and no licence to operate a boat.

ORDAEN BORMANN SON
INNSBRUCK, Austria (Reuters) — Martin Adolf Bormann, son of Adolf Hitler's deputy and a godson of the fuhrer himself, was ordained a Roman Catholic priest Saturday. The 26-year-old monk, a member of the order of missionaries of the Holy Heart of Jesus, wears a full red beard. The fate of his father, also named M<sup>artin</sup>, after the downfall of Hitler is a mystery.

RELIGION AND LIFE
BY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D.
FIRST Moderator of the United Church of Canada

POWERS UNUSED OR NEGLECTED SOON DISAPPEAR
Nothing in nature is clearer than this—powers unused or abused are withdrawn.

One's muscles are developed by exercise; unused they grow flabby or thin. The man who refuses to think through the problems of life loses his capacity for independent thought.

Failure to make moral decisions when moral issues arise, means personality without character and without significance for his age.

It is difficult at this distance to understand what has happened in France. But this seems clear. The Republic's elected representatives used the power entrusted to them in an irresponsible spirit. They upset one government after another on minor issues until French politics became the laughing stock of the world.

No stability was possible. Now one has taken over the authority and powers of government. A nation free to govern itself has consented to be governed, and the saying has gone abroad that this had to be done to save France.

Rights used without wisdom or clear purpose have been drastically restricted, to say the least.

When we turn to Bible history we find the same law in operation.

Under the Judges the tribes of Israel were free. In their emergencies God raised up gifted leaders and gave them success in maintaining that freedom. But the different tribes were irresponsible.

When Deborah, Israel's Joan of Arc, was leading in a desperate fight against the invader, Reuben was piping among his flocks, and Meroz insisted on its neutrality. When little Jdiah was fighting for her life against the Philistines the powerful tribes of the North paid little attention to their struggle, until the Philistines carried the war into their rich valley; then a captain from Judah had to save them.

There was no sense of solidarity, and therefore no realization that in a living organization the injury of one member was the hurt of all. As a consequence, they had to unite under a king with the evils that absolute monarchy brought with it. This has happened in many a country since, in fact, it is the inevitable result of a failure to appreciate what national freedom involves.

ON TRIAL
Democracy is on trial in our time. France is not the only nation that has thrown it out as a failure. The personal and local sacrifices needed for unity, the free citizen's refusal to accept his share of responsibility for the common good, and to think through for himself the issues before the state have left the weight of choices and decisions with the few and sooner or later, those who bore the burden seized the authority.

As Canadians we pride ourselves on the liberties for which our fathers fought.

There is nothing in modern history more impressive than the sight of a free people going to the polls to choose their rulers and to place authority in their hands. But there are ominous signs of failure in our use of these rights. Numbers of citizens fail to vote. Many who do vote do so without the independent thought and serious conviction required for intelligent self-government.

The partisan spirit is a constant menace, and too often self-interest is behind the party cries. When other nations are discarding the system for the sake of efficiency and security, Canadians need to examine our treatment of our rights and opportunities lest we too forfeit our precious heritage from the past.

SAME DANGER
The same danger threatens the Church. The spiritual health and vigor of any congregation is determined by the individual member's intelligent and conscientious loyalty to the truths and principles for which his church stands.

Now many people wear proudly the name of the church of their fathers without a working knowledge of its history or its doctrines. To be able to give a reason for the faith that is in him, and to which he lives is surely the least that can be asked of the Christian man today. I am a believer, but in what? And in whom? My world needs to know my answer. My church's statements of faith will crumble unless they express vital convictions of the rank and file of her members.

OURS TO USE
To return to the point from which we started—my rights and privileges are mine to use. One who is unable or unwilling to use his money to advantage can put it in the bank and know that it is safe, but there is no institution which can keep his heritage of moral principle or spiritual faith for him. Forgotten or neglected they waste away.

On the other hand, the possibilities of the development of our powers seem unlimited.

In one rural community two boys grew up together, one the most brilliant scholar in the school and the other the most student never really tried and never amounted to anything; while his less gifted friend gained intellectual and moral power that influenced the nation.

It costs to excel, and the price paid by those who do is very great. But our abilities are a sacred trust, the very richest of the manifold gifts of God, and they are a field in which we gain by spending and lose irreparably by their neglect.

POPE EXHORTS NUNS
CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — The Pope told Roman Catholic cloistered nuns Saturday the ancient motto "ora et labora"—pray and work—is as valid as ever. The Pope's radio message to convents around the world was the second in a series of three. They are the first such messages ever delivered to the nuns, many of whom take vows that cut themselves off from the world.

STICKS GUM ON ART
WASHINGTON (AP)—Someone who had little to do with a wad of chewing gum on a 400-year-old painting in the National Gallery of Art. Experts removed the gum without damage to the valuable picture. Portrait of a Young Man, by Antonis Mor of the Flemish-Dutch school of painting. Gallery officials found an easy clue: A clear fingerprint in the gum. Police are investigating.

NOTICE TO PATRIOT SUBSCRIBERS
Patriot subscription accounts may be paid at the Montague, Souris or Summerside offices of The Guardian and The Patriot.

The Guardian — The Patriot

YEO Theatre MONTAGUE
MON.-Tues
JULY 28, 29
SHOWS AT 8:30

"House Of Numbers"

JACK PALANCE
The most fascinating puzzle a man ever faced — and his love depended on the solution. One man did what no other man had ever done before. A truly gripping suspense story that will thrill you for sure.

Coming Wednesday and Thursday "Desire Under The Elms".

BOAT UPSETS; 25 DIE
MOSCOW (Reuters) — Twenty-three children, their nurse and their teacher, were drowned when a home-made boat capsized in the Tara River, near Omsk, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported Saturday. Nine other children and an accordion player were saved. All were members of a young Communist organization. Izvestia quoted statements that the boat was made out of sheet metal from drawings supplied by the teacher who had had no experience of boatbuilding and no licence to operate a boat.

ORDAEN BORMANN SON
INNSBRUCK, Austria (Reuters) — Martin Adolf Bormann, son of Adolf Hitler's deputy and a godson of the fuhrer himself, was ordained a Roman Catholic priest Saturday. The 26-year-old monk, a member of the order of missionaries of the Holy Heart of Jesus, wears a full red beard. The fate of his father, also named M<sup>artin</sup>, after the downfall of Hitler is a mystery.

RELIGION AND LIFE
BY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D.
FIRST Moderator of the United Church of Canada

POWERS UNUSED OR NEGLECTED SOON DISAPPEAR
Nothing in nature is clearer than this—powers unused or abused are withdrawn.

One's muscles are developed by exercise; unused they grow flabby or thin. The man who refuses to think through the problems of life loses his capacity for independent thought.

Failure to make moral decisions when moral issues arise, means personality without character and without significance for his age.

It is difficult at this distance to understand what has happened in France. But this seems clear. The Republic's elected representatives used the power entrusted to them in an irresponsible spirit. They upset one government after another on minor issues until French politics became the laughing stock of the world.

No stability was possible. Now one has taken over the authority and powers of government. A nation free to govern itself has consented to be governed, and the saying has gone abroad that this had to be done to save France.

Rights used without wisdom or clear purpose have been drastically restricted, to say the least.

When we turn to Bible history we find the same law in operation.

Under the Judges the tribes of Israel were free. In their emergencies God raised up gifted leaders and gave them success in maintaining that freedom. But the different tribes were irresponsible.

When Deborah, Israel's Joan of Arc, was leading in a desperate fight against the invader, Reuben was piping among his flocks, and Meroz insisted on its neutrality. When little Jdiah was fighting for her life against the Philistines the powerful tribes of the North paid little attention to their struggle, until the Philistines carried the war into their rich valley; then a captain from Judah had to save them.

There was no sense of solidarity, and therefore no realization that in a living organization the injury of one member was the hurt of all. As a consequence, they had to unite under a king with the evils that absolute monarchy brought with it. This has happened in many a country since, in fact, it is the inevitable result of a failure to appreciate what national freedom involves.

ON TRIAL
Democracy is on trial in our time. France is not the only nation that has thrown it out as a failure. The personal and local sacrifices needed for unity, the free citizen's refusal to accept his share of responsibility for the common good, and to think through for himself the issues before the state have left the weight of choices and decisions with the few and sooner or later, those who bore the burden seized the authority.

As Canadians we pride ourselves on the liberties for which our fathers fought.

There is nothing in modern history more impressive than the sight of a free people going to the polls to choose their rulers and to place authority in their hands. But there are ominous signs of failure in our use of these rights. Numbers of citizens fail to vote. Many who do vote do so without the independent thought and serious conviction required for intelligent self-government.

The partisan spirit is a constant menace, and too often self-interest is behind the party cries. When other nations are discarding the system for the sake of efficiency and security, Canadians need to examine our treatment of our rights and opportunities lest we too forfeit our precious heritage from the past.

SAME DANGER
The same danger threatens the Church. The spiritual health and vigor of any congregation is determined by the individual member's intelligent and conscientious loyalty to the truths and principles for which his church stands.

Now many people wear proudly the name of the church of their fathers without a working knowledge of its history or its doctrines. To be able to give a reason for the faith that is in him, and to which he lives is surely the least that can be asked of the Christian man today. I am a believer, but in what? And in whom? My world needs to know my answer. My church's statements of faith will crumble unless they express vital convictions of the rank and file of her members.

OURS TO USE
To return to the point from which we started—my rights and privileges are mine to use. One who is unable or unwilling to use his money to advantage can put it in the bank and know that it is safe, but there is no institution which can keep his heritage of moral principle or spiritual faith for him. Forgotten or neglected they waste away.

On the other hand, the possibilities of the development of our powers seem unlimited.

In one rural community two boys grew up together, one the most brilliant scholar in the school and the other the most student never really tried and never amounted to anything; while his less gifted friend gained intellectual and moral power that influenced the nation.

It costs to excel, and the price paid by those who do is very great. But our abilities are a sacred trust, the very richest of the manifold gifts of God, and they are a field in which we gain by spending and lose irreparably by their neglect.

POPE EXHORTS NUNS
CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy (AP) — The Pope told Roman Catholic cloistered nuns Saturday the ancient motto "ora et labora"—pray and work—is as valid as ever. The Pope's radio message to convents around the world was the second in a series of three. They are the first such messages ever delivered to the nuns, many of whom take vows that cut themselves off from the world.

STICKS GUM ON ART
WASHINGTON (AP)—Someone who had little to do with a wad of chewing gum on a 400-year-old painting in the National Gallery of Art. Experts removed the gum without damage to the valuable picture. Portrait of a Young Man, by Antonis Mor of the Flemish-Dutch school of painting. Gallery officials found an easy clue: A clear fingerprint in the gum. Police are investigating.

NOTICE TO PATRIOT SUBSCRIBERS
Patriot subscription accounts may be paid at the Montague, Souris or Summerside offices of The Guardian and The Patriot.

The Guardian — The Patriot

YEO Theatre MONTAGUE
MON.-Tues
JULY 28, 29
SHOWS AT 8:30

"House Of Numbers"

JACK PALANCE
The most fascinating puzzle a man ever faced — and his love depended on the solution. One man did what no other man had ever done before. A truly gripping suspense story that will thrill you for sure.

Coming Wednesday and Thursday "Desire Under The Elms".

BOAT UPSETS; 25 DIE
MOSCOW (Reuters) — Twenty-three children, their nurse and their teacher, were drowned when a home-made boat capsized in the Tara River, near Omsk, the Soviet government newspaper Izvestia reported Saturday. Nine other children and an accordion player were saved. All were members of a young Communist organization. Izvestia quoted statements that the boat was made out of sheet metal from drawings supplied by the teacher who had had no experience of boatbuilding and no licence to operate a boat.

ORDAEN BORMANN SON
INNSBRUCK, Austria (Reuters) — Martin Adolf Bormann, son of Adolf Hitler's deputy and a godson of the fuhrer himself, was ordained a Roman Catholic priest Saturday. The 26-year-old monk, a member of the order of missionaries of the Holy Heart of Jesus, wears a full red beard. The fate of his father, also named M<sup>artin</sup>, after the downfall of Hitler is a mystery.

RELIGION AND LIFE
BY REV. GEORGE C. PIDGEON, D.D., LL.D.
FIRST Moderator of the United Church of Canada

POWERS UNUSED OR NEGLECTED SOON DISAPPEAR
Nothing in nature is clearer than this—powers unused or abused are withdrawn.

One's muscles are developed by exercise; unused they grow flabby or thin. The man who refuses to think through the problems of life loses his capacity for independent thought.

Failure to make moral decisions when moral issues arise, means personality without character and without significance for his age.

It is difficult at this distance to understand what has happened in France. But this seems clear. The Republic's elected representatives used the power entrusted to them in an irresponsible spirit. They upset one government after another on minor issues until French politics became the laughing stock of the world.

No stability was possible. Now one has taken over the authority and powers of government. A nation free to govern itself has consented to be governed, and the saying has gone abroad that this had to be done to save France.

Rights used without wisdom or clear purpose have been drastically restricted, to say the least.

When we turn to Bible history we find the same law in operation.

Under the Judges the tribes of Israel were free. In their emergencies God raised up gifted leaders and gave them success in maintaining that freedom. But the different tribes were irresponsible.

When Deborah, Israel's Joan of Arc, was leading in a desperate fight against the invader, Reuben was piping among his flocks, and Meroz insisted on its neutrality. When little Jdiah was fighting for her life against the Philistines the powerful tribes of the North paid little attention to their struggle