Water Contamination In Kensington Is Reported; Early Action Being Planned

—The existence of a serious condition of contamination in the drinking water supply within the town of Kensington was confirmed last evening by Mr. R. D. Donnelly, director of the Division of Sanitary Engineering, with the Provincial Department of Health and Welfare, who told a meeting in the Town Hall that laboratory tests of water from 14 of 16 Kensington wells tested last week was unfit for drinking purposes, and the other two were contaminated to a lesser degree.

It was revealed also that tests presently being conducted from other wells in the town indicate similar contamination.

In reply to questions from several men and women present at the meeting, Mr. Donnelly outlined the steps the town would have to take in installing a water and sewerage system.

Mr. Donnelly described the tests that had been made on the water samples with regard to a bacteria which is excreted from the intestines and said he had never known a series of samples to be that high.

He warned that conditions here are ideal for the outbreak of some form of epidemic.

The water was also tested for its nitrate content which normally represents the last stage in the decomposition of organic matter.

Nitrates, he said, reduce the oxygen carrying capacity of the blood, and in infants under one year of age could result in a condition which could lead to death when the nitrate count exceeds the danger point of 50 parts per million, as is the case of several of the Kensington samples.

Mr. Donnelly said that about 50 percent of the homes in Kensington have water flush systems, and that inadequate drainage amid comparatively shallow wells in a high water table has continued to build up the conditions which exist.

Those taking part in the discussion which followed Mr. Donnelly's report were the Mayor, W. H. Darrach, who presided at the meeting, and Gordon Cooke, Ben Champion, Wm. MacLean, Mrs. Keith Kennedy, Mrs. Theo Ling, Ron Kennedy, Bruce MacLeod, Preston Kennedy, Mrs. Gordon Cooke and Rev. W. E. Ingraham.

Mr. Donnelly suggested that the first step towards a water and sewerage system would be to have a consulting engineer make a survey of the proposed project and give the town an estimated cost, and while this was going on the town should investigate all possible methods of financing the project.

Ron Kennedy reported that an engineer interested in the town of Kensington had offered to do the survey for 1.2 percent of the lowest contract bid, and his firm would act as consulting engineers and supervise the contract to completion for five percent of the contract price. Earlier Mr. Donnelly had said this cost might run as high as ten or fifteen percent.

The meeting appeared anxious for action to be taken as soon as possible and Mayor Darrach before adjournment of the meeting indicated that the urgent need had been recognized and that action on the project would begin as soon as financing could be arranged.

ADDRESS FROM CLERGY

Following is the text of the address delivered on behalf of the clergy by Rt. Rev. Monsignor J. D. MacLellan, Vicar General:

"The Most Reverend Malcolm Angus MacEachern, D.D. Ph.D., Bishop of Charlottetown.

"Your Excellency:

"The Diocese of Charlottetown today bids you a hearty welcome. You come bearing an Apostolic Mandate from the Holy Father Pius XII, empowering you to rule the members of this flock and directing you to lead them to God by word and example.

"The faithful of this diocese, always loyal and obedient to the successor of St. Peter, gladly receive you as the person of his choice for our Bishop.

"Your personal qualifications fitted you for this distinction. Born of good and Christian parents, your youth was passed in the serene surroundings of a rural parish, noted for its strong and living faith. Educated in the University of St. Francis Xavier, Antigonish, whose reputation as a seat of learning is well known not only in your native Province of Nova Scotia, but throughout Canada and far beyond its confines; your theological studies in the Grand Seminary of Montreal, where you merited a doctorate; and your postgraduate course in philosophy, crowned with a doctorate, in the far-famed Louvain University, give ample proof of your scholarly attainments. Likewise your career in the Holy Priesthood,—first years as curate in a mining town, then for many years professor of philosophy at your Alma Mater and for the last three years, pastor of an urban parish in an industrial center, served to prepare you for the onus of the episcopate.

"The Basilica in which you are enthroned today is symbolic of the faith, vision and courage of those who undertook to build it and of the sacrifice and gererosity of those who contributed to it, not only from the Cathedral Parish but from the whole diocese for it was the Mother Church.

"The faithful of this diocese have been noted for their deep and abiding faith and for their spirit of sacrifice and generosity in extending the kingdom of Christ, and this has borne abundant fruit in the numerous vocations here to the priesthood and sisterhood.

"The good works accomplished here, under the leadership and inspiration of the Chief Pastors, are due, under God, in a large measure to the zeal and spirit of sacrifice of the Clergy and to the devotion and self denial of the Religious, in the field of education, hospitalization and social service, backed and supported by the unfailing generosity of the laity.

"From time immemorial, there existed between the members of this flock and their separated brethren, cordial relations and mutual understanding. In the present chaotic state of affairs, when the bastions of Christianity are under attack and a ruthless attempt is made to eradicate the name of God from the world, it is meet that all who profess Christianity should have a deeper and more realistic understanding of the Fatherhood of God and the Brotherhood of man.

"We feel assured that under your enlightened leadership with the enthusiastic support of the Clergy and Religious and the generous cooperation of the laity, you will be able to do great things for the glory of God and the extension of his kingdom in the Diocese of Charlottetown.

"On behalf of the Clergy of the Diocese of Charlottetown."

FROM THE LAITY

Text of address delivered on behalf of the laity by Mr. Justice M. R. McGuigan:

"Your Excellency:

"On this happy occasion of your installation as Bishop of the See of Charlottetown, the laity of your new diocese wish to offer you their humble and respectful congratulations on your elevation to this exalted office in the Church, and to extend a sincere and heartfelt welcome to their Island Province.

"It is characteristic of life that even on an occasion like this a degree of sadness can be mingled with our joy. In our minds today are memories of that quiet, kindly, learned man who was our bishop for a decade and whose episcopate is now an eternal one. He has left on us the imprint of his personality, and we shall not soon forget him.

"However, there is joy in the fact that the same diocese which mothered him now sends us another great churchman to be our shepherd. Indeed, our relationship with the neighbouring diocese of Antigonish has long been a cordial one. Our people are largely similar in origin and outlook. We have long shared similar social and economic problems and have made use of similar remedies. Our sister institutions of higher education—St. Francis Xavier and St. Dunstan's, have for more than a century maintained both a friendly rivalry and a spirit of cooperation.

"Of Your Excellency's qualities of mind and spirit we have heard much. Your priestly labours in parish and school have well acquainted you with the pastoral problems to be encountered and your training in the realms of theology and philosophy, received in universities both on this continent and in Europe, as well as your long teaching experience, have fitted you admirably for the intellectual responsibilities of the episcopate. It is especially pleasing to us that one of such scholastic distinction will be the new chancellor of our university.

"It is fitting on this occasion that we assure Your Excellency of our friendship and loyalty and we shall strive to lighten in every way the burden of your office. Pope Pius XI's call for the participation of the laity in the work of the hierarchy has not gone completely unheeded, and in our age there is an increasing awareness among Catholic laymen of their identity with the restoration of all things in Christ.

"Thus the laity of this diocese offer Your Excellency our fullest co-operation in all your duties.

"It is for us a matter of some significance that Your Excellency should bear the name of the first Bishop of Charlottetown. To the people of this diocese the name of Bishop MacEachern stands as a symbol of courage in the face of adversity. The problems we are presented with today are considerably different from those of his time, but we know you will meet them with the same courage that characterized your great predecessor.

"May your days among us be long and rewarding, and in your endeavours there will go with you the prayers and hopes, the good will and support of the laity of the diocese who have extended this greeting to you with all filial devotion.

"On behalf of the laity of the Diocese of Charlottetown."

are very hopeful that within a very few months, we will see the beginning of one or more large processing plants in the Province.

In making reference to the processing plant at Bedeque, the Minister noted that 10,000 cases of canned goods had been shipped during the year. The quality of goods offered for sale, he thought, was above that being offered from outside the Province. He explained that the grade now being canned at Bedeque is Standard but felt that with the experience gained in the past year they would be producing a Choice grade next year.

FISHERIES

That the fishing industry had a good season, was noted by the Minister who said that the catch was good and the price excellent. He made reference to the captain of one dragger whose personal earnings for the season were $4,300. "While most of the credit is due to the man who captained the ship, a great deal of the credit is coming to the Director of Fisheries, Mr. Eugene Gorman, who instituted this method of fishing in Island waters," he said.

Explaining the type of dragger used in Island fishing, Mr. Cullen said it was a 60-footer which has been given the name, "The Islander". This type of craft has been adopted by all the other provinces engaged in dragger fishing.

Mr. Cullen said that the total amount loaned during the past year to help in trap losses was $100,000. That the Government was able to save the owners of boats $1,500 in insurance premiums per craft per year was shown by the Minister who said that up to a couple of years ago, the insurance rate was $2,500 to insure a vessel. When the fishermen asked for a reduction, they got a negative reply. Mr. Gorman contacted a Quebec insurance firm that was willing to take the risk for $1,000 annually and as soon as this happened, the companies that had formerly refused to lower their rates, fell into line and granted the premium of $1,000 also.

FISH SMOKE HOUSES

Mr. Cullen reported that a fish smoke house had been started at Mount Carmel and Egmont Bay and during the past year was reasonably successful. "They have been able to sell their fish at a price, which although it is not high, was beneficial to them. I am hopeful that when they gain more experience, they will get better prices."

Referring to the salt fish drier at Tignish, the Minister congratulated the Tignish Fisherman's Union which he said had been in operation for a long time and had done a good job. He was pleased to see that they had once again pioneered in this phase of the industry and he felt sure that they would have no difficulty in finding a ready market for their produce.

Mr. Cullen referred to the Act which makes provision for loans to organizations intending to go into the processing of agricultural, horticultural and fish products and which had been passed at the last session of the House. In this connection, he said, the Government had secured the services of a horticulturist whom they sent to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology and was given the chance to visit the various processing plants of other Canadian Provinces where he could study operations at first hand.

He said that last year loans had been granted for the establishment of a potato chip factory, the expansion of a creamery, fruit storage and a strawberry processing plant with several others under consideration.

OPPOSITION AMENDMENT

Discussing the Opposition amendment to the Draft Address, Mr. Cullen said: "So far as I know, this Government and it's predecessor are the only governments that ever did something practical in market expansion." But for the building of the Island Cold Storage plant which this past year held 3,000,000 lbs of Island products, a great deal of this would have been lost to the consumer or sold at the mercy of the market.

He said that 323,000 lbs of cheese had been seasoned at the plant which would ordinarily have been shipped to another province for seasoning or sold at a disadvantage. "This has saved the primary producers of this Province thousands and thousands of dollars," said the Minister.

Mr. R. R. Bell: "Isn't it a fact that there are retail merchants who can't get Island cheese right now"?

Mr. Cullen: "It could be right, because a great deal of cheese was shipped out of the Province last Fall and I supose there are those who did not lay in a large enough supply to run them through the winter."

STRAWBERRIES

"Mount Stewart canned a great many strawberries last year," said Mr. Cullen, "but the money which the producer got for the berries—20 cents a box—could not compare with the money obtained for the frozen berries." He said that last year the cold storage plant handled 460,169 boxes of berries.

"There are great possibilities in this industry," said Mr. Cullen, who pointed out that the Island crop ripened a week later than the berries in other centres and it gives our growers an excellent chance to know what market conditions are going to be like. He was of the opinion that Island berries possessed a flavour which surpassed that of any others on the market.

The Minister said that last year there were 700,000 lbs of Island butter stored in the Cold Storage plant as well as some stored in other provinces. At the present time there is only about one carload of butter left in the plant. Making further reference to the Opposition Amendment, Mr. Cullen said "not only did we give leadership to our fishermen and farmers but the products were marketed so well that it was necessary to bring in 150,000 lbs of blue berries in to the Province to fulfill commitments. He felt that this was a wise move so that the market for blueberries would be held for another year.

Mr. Hubert Gaudet

First Prince Member In Debate On Draft Address

"The Fisheries officers are not giving the fishermen a chance," said Hubert Gaudet (P.C. First Prince) in his speech on the Draft Address in the Legislature yesterday. He went on to tell of officers seizing the whole catch of some fishermen who had one or two lobsters that were a "hair" below the regulation length.

"They took the whole catch," said Mr. Gaudet, "and dumped them in the harbor. With a heavy undertow running the lobsters were washed ashore and died," Mr. Gaudet continued, "is that helping the fishing industry - - - Is that giving the fishermen a break?" He went on to explain that it was difficult for a fisherman to 'measure a lobster in a rolling and pitching boat and said the possibility of an error was very likely. "The fishermen are blamed for plenty, but the officers can take the rap too," said Mr. Gaudet.

The member from Tignish cautioned fishermen about selling their lobster to mainland buyers who appear to offer a fancy price. "I know of instances last year where fishermen were offered 29 cents and they sold all their lobsters with the result that a great many factories were closed down. Beware of these fancy prices, These men are out to ruin the industry.

"We kept our factory going and we realized 31 cents. In this way we kept a lot of people employed not only during the lobster season but we canned clams, etc., all summer. It's all right to blame the Government for unemployment, but people can help to relieve this situation themselves," he said.

ROADS

"I notice that the Hon. Mr. Cullent is advocating the paving of roads to the National Park but these roads do not do any good for the farmers," said Mr. Gaudet. He felt that the Trans Canada Highway was one of the reasons why more work was not done on the country roads. The Western Prince member was of the opinion that his District was not getting it's share of rural electrification. "We have many farmers who are a long distance from the road and the cost of bringing the power to their house is very great. I hope that something can be done to remedy this situation," he said.

Since the hour was drawing close to six o'clock Mr. Gaudet moved the adjournment of the House. He will continue the debate on the Draft Address when the House meets this afternoon at 3.00 p.m.

Paper Mill Plans Expansion

NEW YORK (AP) — West Virginiea Pulp and Paper Co. announced Monday it plans to build a $30,000,000 pulp and paper mill in central Pennsylvania, probably in Tyrone where it already operates a plant.

Both projects are part of a five-year, $100,000,000 investment program, company president David L. Luke Jr. told the New York Society of Security Analysts.

Luke disclosed that the company is also expanding in Canada, where it has a majority stock interest in Hinde and Dauch Ltd., its principal subsidiary Hinde and Dauch operates two paperboard mills and six box factories in Canada, ranging as far west as Calgary.

PROGRESS REQUESTED

"Thus, dearly beloved, God seems to take some visible part in furnishing you with a new Shepherd fashioned in such ways to fit the needs of His Church in this mid-20th century. Let me exhort you to accept him and bestow upon him the support of your prayers and your warm affection. May your Bishop be conscious in all the years of his new office, which of itself imposes a certain measure of loneliness — let him be conscious, I say, of your sturdy faith in God and His Holy Church, but let him also enjoy the warmth of feeling that children of the family give generously to the father of all. The destinies of this precious diocese lie very much in his hands from this day forth; his mind well furnished, his soul full of the grace of the episcopal consecration so lately received; may he shepherd you in the Divine truth in these difficult days; proclaim and interpret the moral law in your midst; maintain the primacy of spiritual matters and thus contribute no little to the sound basis of our beloved Christian civilization. May the Lord bless you. Bishop MacEachern, every day."

Receives Ayrshire Shield

Col. Fred I. Andrew, Maritime Director, receives an Ayrshire Production Shield on behalf of J. W. Lewis, Freetown, P.E.I. for Mr. Lewis' cow "Columario Geraldine" who topped the All Canadian Ayrshires for 1954 in the Junior 2 Year Old Honour Roll Division with her record of 11,765 lbs of milk, 572 lbs of butterfat, testing 4.86%. Mrs. Doyle Klyn, Weekend Magazine, makes the presentation at Montreal, during the annual meeting of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association.

The newly designed production award is a walnut shield approximately thirteen inches long and nine inches wide on which is fastened a five inch circular bronze plate with a raised Ayrshire head molded upon it. A two and a half by three inch inscription plate is also attached to the shield to facilitate engraving the particulars relating to the record, the cow and the owner. These shields are believed to be the first of their kind in North America.

Let's Talk It Over

by "d"

At the risk of being called a "carbon copy" writer, we must second the opinion already printed that the only type of French instruction worth while for junior grades must put the emphasis on conversation. The achievement, moreover, should be measured by the proficiency of the young students in speaking and understanding the French language after a reasonable amount of instruction has been given to attain those ends.

Instruction in the printed (French) word has its values, of course. Theoretically when a student takes four or five years of written French, he should be able to extract the meaning from a news item in a French newspaper, for example. But what students of high school French ever read French newspapers, French magazines, or stories? Reading French signs on a Quebec highway is about as far as they go. There is such a wealth of English reading at our disposal, we simply never get around to any other language. Consequently, the passage of the years finds our French vocabularies growing more and more inadequate for lack of practice.

A working knowledge of oral French is much more practical. The ability to speak and understand a foreign language must be intriguing, and could be kept in a satisfactory state with little effort by occasional tete-a-tetes among the pupils themselves. Adults constantly meet with situations where the skills would be helpful. The royal commission on education in Ontario recommended a compulsory course of conversational French on the first two years of secondary schools so that "The children's lives would be enriched culturally, besides gaining definite practical advantages." Oral French in the earlier grades might be a good idea. The proof to the pudding, of course, would be in the eating. It would be wise, too, we think to put more stress on the oral side of high school French instruction.
