Opening lead—jack of clubs.
 Part of declarer's skill is to play in such a way that the defenders learn as little as possible of his distribution and high card values.
 As an illustration, let's present this case where South is in four spades. First, we'll have South play the hand incorrectly.
 He wins the club with the king, cashes the ace, and discards a diamond. He then draws four rounds of trumps and leads the jack of hearts, taking a finesse.
 East wins with the king. East doesn't have to be a genius to now lead the ace of diamonds and hold declarer to eleven tricks. He is neither deaf, dumb, nor blind. South has given his hand away.

 Declarer is known to have seven spade tricks (West had a singleton). A.K. of clubs and dummy's three good hearts. East therefore knows that unless the ace of diamonds is cashed it will go the way of all flesh.
 Now let's go back and have South play the hand more deceptively. He wins the club in dummy and leads a spade to the king. (There is no need to discard on the club ace. It would only inform the defenders that declarer started with one club).
 South next leads the three of hearts to the queen. (He does not extract trumps. There is no point to exposing his spade holding. At the same time, he avoids leading the jack of hearts. He allows each defender to think that the other may have the jack and that dummy's hearts are not solid.)
 East wins the king. If he knows what declarer is up to. East will cash the diamond ace. But so far as East is concerned, West may have the jack or queen of spades as well as the intermediate hearts. The ace of diamonds does not appear to be in danger of being lost and East may decide to return a spade or a club.
 Only 30 points are involved. It's true but when it comes to making extra tricks some people have more fun than anybody.

Farm Aid Programs Are Seen 'On Way Out'

By OVID A. MARTIN
 WASHINGTON (AP)—There is a growing feeling that the days of United States federal farm aid programs may be numbered.
 This causes concern in the government agriculture agency which administers the farm program, with its acreage allotments, price supports, subsidy payments and crop curtailments.
 At stake may be jobs of many who have made administration of these programs a career. Not a few came to the department back in the 1930s, when the federal government broke fresh ground to bring itself into the economic affairs of farming.
 None of these farm officials is in a position to talk for quotation. But talking privately, they express belief in the necessity of federal programs for stabilizing agriculture. Many came to the department from the farm. Many talk of concern over fate of the small farmer.
 Yet, they say they believe the Eisenhower Republican administration seeks the eventual elimination of these programs. This administration leaders deny.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.
