A JILT—ROMANTIC AFFAIR.
 A rather romantic affair has just happened in this neighbourhood. A young lass had attracted the attentions of a respectable tradesman some time since, and the affections appeared to be mutual. The lover, in prosecuting his calling, went to Liverpool, and still carried on a correspondence with his loving one. Not long since, a farmer from the States visited this, and was so struck with the charms of the rustic beauty, that he besought her to accept of him as a lover and promised to send for her after he would return home and set his house in order. A struggle in the bosom of the artless girl was doubtless maintained betwixt the rival lovers, neither of whom she had the courage to shake off, and she, therefore, corresponded with both. A few weeks ago, a letter from the other side of the Atlantic arrived, with an affectionate and urgent request, that she would get herself in readiness, and taking with her such things as were enumerated, sail from Liverpool on the first of this month to the betrothed wife of her admirer. Everything was provided, and the advent lass determined to brave the dangers of the deep to join him she regarded as her future husband. In passing through Aberdeen, she called on the mother of her first sweetheart to bid her good-bye, telling her at the same time the resolve she had taken. The old woman expressed her astonishment and disappointment at the course matters had taken, and assured her, that the affections of her son, the young man in Liverpool, were as strong and true to her as ever, and that he ever cherished the hope of making her his own. She also insisted upon the girl calling upon the young man when she reached Liverpool. She assented, but only on condition that the old woman should accompany her. This was at once agreed to, and both parties proceeded on the journey, visiting some friends in Edinburgh on the way. On arriving at Liverpool, the parties were received with the utmost cordiality by the youth, who lavished a thousand endearments on his equivocating mistress. Marriage was proposed, and mutually acquiesced in; the preliminaries were gone through, and the ceremony consummated on the 24th of last month! The feelings of the American Lotthario may be more easily conceived than described. He had arranged a place of meeting. Many a hopeful glance will he cast from the broad Atlantic.

And scarce forbear to weep,
 That constant love should linger on the deep!"

EFFECTS OF THE WAR UPON RUSSIA.
 A letter from St. Petersburg, of the 19th Nov., contains the following:—
 "There reigns at Court here a dead silence, and the Emperor is reputed to be extremely discouraged. It cannot be explained, why a few days ago, the Minister of War, Dolgoronkoff, summoned by telegraph, left for Moscow, accompanied by his secretary and the director of roads Tschetchnik. The reports were, that it was intended to fortify Moscow. That suffices to show how alarmed are men's minds here. Never was peace more desired, or were its necessities more fully exposed to the eyes of the Czar, than in his late journey to the South. Every deputations from the different where provinces were constantly pacific. At Moscow, the nobility, while protesting their profound devotedness, have drawn up with the commercial classes a report which displays the ruin of Russian commerce and industry. At Tver, a town which promises to rival Moscow as the centre of industry, an incident was communicated to his Majesty which must have caused him to reflect. One of the greatest cotton thread manufacturers of Tver, worked by Messrs. Kaufine and Salaguine, in 1853 employed 44000 spindles and 1400 workmen. Since the war it has not worked above 11,000 spindles, and has produced instead of 350 pounds (7300 kilos) the 24 hours, only 85 pounds. This is a signal instance of the disastrous influence of the war, as also of the efforts made by Russia to become an industrial power. I will not speak to you of other manufactures of Tver, such as Messrs. Meyer and Co. Tver, appeared destined to become the Lyons or Birmingham of Russia. Enormous establishments had been erected for raising silkworms, but to-day all are shut and industry has vanished."

The Great American Hair Tonic.
 Bogie's celebrated Hygienic Fluid, for the growth and preservation of the Hair is well known to be without a rival on this continent. Hundreds of imitations have started into an ephemeral existence, since the introduction of this unrivalled Hair restorative, and the "Royal Hair Tonic," which Bogie's Hygienic Hair Fluid, with a popularity never attained by any other article, goes on "conquering and to conquer." Bogie's Hair Tonic is not a hair restorative, but can be cared by the incorporeal preparation. To ladies it is invaluable and on children's heads it lays the foundation of the growth of Hair. It is now prepared by Her Majesty the Queen of Great Britain, and commands an extensive sale throughout Europe. It restores the hair to its soft and glossy natural beauty, by dissolving the dandruff, the matter it is applied, literally dyes the hair without staining the skin, and leaves the hair soft and glossy without injuring its texture in the least; a decided superiority over all other Hair dyes.

And those compound renders that usually unpleasant operation (shaving) a decided luxury. Bogie's Hygienic Fluid removes Freckles and tan from the face in the shortest possible time, and is acknowledged to be the very best article for beautifying the complexion.
 To be had, wholesale or retail, of W. Bogie, 227, Wellington Street, Boston, U. S.

GILMAN'S HAIR DYE.
 This article ever used, as hundreds can testify in this city and surrounding country. Read: GILMAN'S HAIR DYE. It has the effect of changing the hair to a brilliant jet Black or glossy Brown, which is permanent—does not stain or in any way injure the hair. No article ever so beneficial which will compare with it. We would advise all who have grey hairs to buy it, for it never fails.
