— Mr. Alex Beaton, Flat River, and Mr. John Weston of the U.S.A. were in Kensington and vicinity recently buying Holstein cows. They found few farmers who were willing to part with suitable stock, but were able to secure several head of choice cattle for which good prices were paid. — Bur.

Mr. Erskine Hunter, well-known house decorator of Indian River, is busy these days putting a coat of paint on the buildings on Mr. Heath Castle's up-to-date farm at Kensington. Mr. Hunter is in great demand as he is master of his craft, and Mr. Casey is fortunate in being able to secure his services in improving the appearance of his fine set of buildings.

Mr. L. D. MacLeod, well-known livestock dealer of Victoria, had a narrow escape from death, when a truck in which he was riding overturned throwing him into two feet of water. The truck was loaded with five large cattle which made it, to a certain extent, top-heavy, which no doubt contributed to its unexpected overturning on the shoulder of a greasy road near the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Paynter, Freetown. Mr. MacLeod was unconscious when picked up and only "came to" several hours after being admitted to the Prince County Hospital, Summerside. The X-ray machine was in transition from the old hospital to the new and could not be used at the time, but it was later determined that no bones were broken, and he is making a good recovery. Incidentally, Mr. MacLeod is said to have been the first man to be admitted to the new hospital. Both the other two men in the truck, who were cared for at the Paynter home, and the cattle, were badly shaken up but all escaped serious injury. — Bur.
