MISCELLANEOUS.

A LOST WILL.

A DETECTIVE'S EXPERIENCE.

'I will tell you,' said Mr. F———, 'of an incident, that at the time, excited universal interest in New Orleans, and was the occasion of the success which subsequently attended Mr. I———and myself as detectives. In other words, it was our beginning. The success we met with gave us a reputation and started us in the public confidence.

An old gentleman, a Creole, named Cotier, had died, leaving an immense fortune. He had two heirs-at-law, a niece and a nephew. It was the old man's earnest wish that the young people should marry. He wished to preserve his property as a whole, and transmit it undivided.

It was a princely estate, and if guarded with care, the possessor might attain to any influence, and would certainly wield a flattering control in the financial world. This was the dream of the old man's ambition. It gave consideration to himself, and he hoped to found a great moneyed aristocracy in his family. But the girl was averse to the match. She was a fair, delicate creature, one whom we intuitively loved, and who exercised over all who came within the sphere of her influence a magic control. The young man, on the contrary, was wild and dissipated, and if not already depraved, was fast approaching a period when dishonor would be as familiar to him as the air he breathed. He was passionately in love with his cousin, and aside from moneyed considerations, wished to make her his wife.

Mr. Cotier, however, before his death, perceived the reluctance of his niece to the marriage, and made a will providing for a division of the estata. A former one had been made, giving the whole of his immense property to the orphans, relying on the willingness of his niece, when she came to understand his wishes, to comply with them

As I said before, the old man died, and to the surprise of the lawyer who had drawn up the last will, it could not be found. It was searched for in every conceivable place, but defied the researches of those interested in its recovery. The old will was, however, produced, and insisted on as the testament of the deceased.

By it the niece was disinherited.

The lawyer was convinced that the will had been stolen or destroyed. He commenced suit in behalf of the niece for a division of the property, and intrusted the case of the discovery of the will to us.

There was a large reward, and besides the case claimed all our interest. We went to work, therefore, with mind and soul in our undertaking.

Our first step was to find out the actual criminal. Suspicion, of course, rested on the nephew. Every one believed him the guilty party. We both inclined to this belief at first, but soon came to a different conclusion. Our investigations satisfied us that he knew nothing of the matter. The will, together with other valuable papers, was kept in a curiously carved antique box, studded with jewels, and was formerly the casket of an Indian Prince. It was not known by the family that this box was kept by the owner for any other purpose than as an ornament. This box had disappeared. The last time it was seen was a few days before the old man's death. Silently we looked for this box. There was not a jeweller's establishment in the city we did not enter; there was not a 'clew' we did not pull. Early and late we were on the watch; but every trace had disappeared, and our exertions seemed fruitless. As a last resource, we adopted a hazardous experiment. Among the cracksmen in the city was a mere boy. We had arrested him once or twice, and knew him well. He was shrewd, daring, and unscrupulous, but we believed we had a power over him which would make him faithful.—This boy was sought out. We told him all, and promised him a large reward if he would search the premises of an old 'receiver,' and let us know what it contained. This was late in the evening: the next day the trial came on. The boy undertook the trust, and was to report to us at daylight. He was punctual to the time. Among the articles mentioned, we recognized a description of the box. The old villian had it.

A warrant was immediately procured, and his house searched. Hid away in a secret recess, among silver plate and jewelry of immense cost, we found the casket. It had been stolen by the nephew, and pledged to the 'receiver' for money. He did not know that it contained anything, and it had never been opened. We hastened to the court room with our treasure. The will was all right; but the trial did not proceed. The rights of the niece were acknowledged, and half of the estate was surrendered. It was our first big case, and it was a source of pride to us, since that it was in behalf of virtue and innocence. The case has faded from men's minds, but it comes to us in many a silent musing with memory, replete with the recollections of an early triumph.

RETALIATION.

Some years ago in the country of Penobscot, there lived a man by the name of H., whose great pleasure was in tormenting others.

One cold, blustering night, he retired to bed at an early hour, his wife being absent at a neighbor's.

Some time after, when returning, finding the door closed, she demanded admittance.

'Who are you?' cried Mr. H.

'You know who I am; let me in, its very cold.'

'Begone you strolling vagabond: I want nothing of you here!'

'But I must come in.''

'What is your name?'

'You know my name—its Mrs. H.'

'Begone! Mrs. H. is a very likely woman—she never keeps such late hours as this.'

Mrs. H. replied, 'if you don't let me in, I will drown myself in the well.'

She then took a big log and plunged it into the well and returned to the side of the door.

Mr. H. hearing the noise rushed from the house to save, as he supposed, his drowning wife. She at the same time slipped in, and closed the door after her. Mr. H., almost naked, in turn demanded admittance.

'Who are you?' she demanded.

'You know who I am—let me in, or I shall freeze.'

'Begone you thievish rogue; I want nothing of you here.'

'But I must come in.'

'What is your name?'

'You know my name—its Mr. H.'

'Mr. H. is a very likely man, he don't keep such late hours.'

Suffice it to say, she, after keeping him in the cold until she was satisfied, opened the door and let him in.

"Look a-heah, Pete,' said a knowing darkey, "don't stan' dar on the railroad.'' "Why, Joe?" "Kase, if the cars see that mouf of yours open, dey will tink it am de depot, and run rite into it.''

[From the new "Dominion."

At this season, when coughs and colds are so prevalent, an effectual remedy, and one easily obtained Perry Davis' Vegetable PAIN KILLER. It is no new nostrum, vended by unknown agents, but has stood the test of over twenty years; and those who use the article, internally or externally, will connect with it grateful recollections of its worthy inventor.—HASTINGS' CHRONICLE, C. W.

PAIN KILLER.—The testimonials borne to the efficacy of this valuable medicine are sufficient to warrant its introduction into every house. Our own opinion is that no family should be without a bottle of it for a single hour. In flesh wounds, aches, pains, sores, &c., it is the most effectual remedy we know of. A bottle will last for a very long time, and its low price places it within the reach of all. Our readers will remember that the Messrs. Perry Davis & Son have opened a house in Montreal, whence Canadian orders are supplied.—NEWS, ST. JOHN'S, C. E.

DAVIS' PAIN KILLER.—From the reports of dealers in this city, we think no proprietory medicine has had a larger sale. Its valuable properties, as a speedy cure for pain, cannot fail to be generally appreciated, and no family should be without it, in case of accident, or sudden attacks of dysentery, diarrhœa, cholera morbus, and even Asiatic cholera, yields to its magic power, as we see by reports from those sections in the south west where the disease has been particularly virulent the Past summer.—MONTREAL TRANSCRIPT.

COMBINED WRTING & COPYING

INK!

THIS COMBINATION INK has been awarded the HIGHEST PREMIUMS over all others in the United States and pronounced by the most celebrated Chemists the best Ink ever offered to the public.

It is used by many of the largest Commercial Houses, Banks, Railroads, and other Corporations and gives perfect satisfaction.

The Advantages of this over other Inks are:

FIRST.—It flows freely from the pen, and does not thicken by exposure to the air.

SECOND.—It will give a perfect and instantaneous copy.

THIRD.—It will not mould.

FOURTH.—Being equally as good for Copying as for Book-keeping, it entirely does away with the use of two kinds of Ink.

FIFTH.—It is more permanent than common Inks.

SIXTH.—The color, when first written, is a beautiful dark green, but in a remarkably short time it changes to a BRILLIANT JET BLACK—not a brownish black.

SEVENTH.—It is admirably adapted to the most delicate writing, and ALWAYS "makes its mark."

This Ink is warranted to flow as freely as any other Writing Fluid now in use; to give as perfect a copy as any Copying Ink; and not to mould.

THE ROAD TO THHAE

AND LONG LIFE

SECURED BY

HOLLOWAY'S PILLS.

Impurities of the Blood.

In selecting the most appropriate medicine for a particular ailment, there may be some difficulty unless one can be found to purify, regulate, and improve the quality of the blood. These Pills possess and exert these three qualifications in an extraordinary degree. They enable the stomach to digest any ordinary food, increase the secretory powers of the liver, cleanse and purify the blood, expel all morbid matter, and throw into the circulation the urest elements for sustaining and repairing the rame.

Weakness and Debility.

How many persons suffer from debility withou knowing the causes why they are feeble! In many cases the stomach is the aggressor. Holloways Pills have long been famed for regulating a disordered stomach, and restoring its healthy digestion tone; they are, therefore, confidently recommended as a never-failing remedy in all cases where the onstitution, from any cause, has become impaired r weakened.

Disease of the Head and Heart.

These formidable diseases are, unfortunately, of frequent occurrence; for the most part they creep on gradually, but may be prevented by proper precautions. Holloway's Pills are the surest preservatives against all derangements of the brain, and are the speediest correctors of irregular circulation. If they be taken without delay, when tingling in the limbs, drowsiness, or giddiness comes on, the effect will be marvellous.

Females of all Ages & Classes

The fame of these Pills is partly based upon the beneficial effects they have upon the constitutions o females. From the domestic servant to the peeress universal favor is accorded to them for their invigorating and purifying properties, which render them so safe and invaluable in all disorders peculiar to the sex. Obstructions of every kind, either in young persons entering into womanhood or approaching the turn of life—the most critical period—may be radically removed by a recourse to these Pills.

All Disorders affecting the Liver, Stomach and Bowels

Whenever the stomach, liver, or bowels are disordered by high living, climate, over-indulgence, undue exertion or other causes, these fine regulating Pills will soon rectify the evil, and speedily bring back energy, strength and cheerfulness to the frame where previously all was lassitude, gloom and dejection.

Despondency, Low Spirits.

The misery occasioned by a disordered digestion is, unfortunately, felt by most. These famous Pills should be taken in appropriate doses to adjust the disturbed functions. They dispel headache, biliousness, nausea, lowness of spirits, and all similar ailments. A course of these invaluable purifying Pills never fails in removing the cause of such morbid affections, without subjecting the sufferer to any inconvenience.

Influenza, Diptheria, Bronchitis Coughs and Colds.

In our changeable climate few persons escape without colds, sore throats, influenza, diptheria, or bronchitis, for all of which these famous corrective Pills may be taken with the certainty of effecting a cure. While the Pills are expelling all impurities from the body generally, Holloway's Ointment should be well rubbed upon the chest and throat, it will penetrate the skin, reduce inflammation, and restore lasting soundness.

Holloway's Pills are the best Remedy known in the world for the following diseases:
