MR. AND MRS. J. A. MacNEVIN

Wedding Guests Received At Confederation Centre

The marriage of Anne Elizabeth, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hawley C. Crockett, to James Alsen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stenning MacNevin, took place at Trinity United Church, Charlottetown on Saturday, November 21st. The officiating clergyman was Rev. Gerald Wyrwas.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was wearing a gown of peau de sole, the short sleeved bodice featuring a scooped neckline outlined with organza applique. Her elbow length veil of tulle illusion fell from a tiara of seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of red Sweetheart roses.

The maid of honour, Paula Downe, cousin of the bride, wore an Empire gown of dark green satin with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of green tinted carnations. Veda Waller, bridesmaid, wore an identical gown of gold satin with matching headdress and carried a nosegay of gold tinted carnations.

Flower girl Kellye Ann Crockett, wore a floor length white satin dress trimmed with green and gold sash and matching headdress and carried a basket of mixed flowers.

The best man was Ensor Muttart of Toronto and the ushers were Grant Crockett, brother of the bride and Alan Cotton.

Soloist for the occasion was Mrs. David Cox, accompanied by Suzanne Brenton organist. The selections sung by Mrs. Cox were 'Because', and during the signing of the register, 'The Wedding Prayer'.

The wedding bands used in the double ring ceremony were designed and made by an aunt of the bride, Mrs. Russell Crockett, of Summerside.

Following the wedding, a reception was held at the Fathers of Confederation Memorial Centre in Charlottetown. Receiving, the bride's mother wore an ensemble of cranberry ribbon lace with matching feather hat, squirrel stole, and a corsage of miniature white carnations. The mother of the groom wore royal blue velvet with matching hat, squirrel stole and a corsage of miniature white carnations.

The toastmaster was Robert Crockett, brother of the bride. The toast to the bride was proposed by Mr. Wyrwas and responded to by the groom. The toast to the bridesmaids was proposed by the best man and responded to by Alan Cotton.

The three - tiered wedding cake was topped by a pair of wedding bells and a miniature bride and groom.

The couple will reside in Charlottetown where the groom is employed by Canada Packers.

ELLEN'S DIARY

Frost Crystals Sparkle In Foretaste Of Winter

And for still another day, skies favored the plowing. Mack went to it in a sunny wind of day. In a light one, edged now with frost, he continues plowing on into the night.... This was a day given to the farmers for their end of season's doings: to gather in mangels it might be, or turnips; to combine that last piece of grain it could be, and for James to get to the banking. It was good to see the horse in harness and hear the once-familiar, and seasonal creak of the farm-cart again about the yards. Alex and Peter were in his neighborhood.

"What are you busy at?" Peter came into the pantry once to inquire.

"Mixing a cake for Sunday... Put your hands behind your back. The mixer is a dangerous machine, remember!"

He nodded. "My grandfather wants to know if or not, you want him to cover that climbing rose--or whatever it is, with clay. He said if you did, to come out and take the thing down. But didn't you hear him calling? You could have!" he chuckled.

"You tell him, we'll take care of it the first of the week. If all goes well."

"I'll tell him" he said.

The banking has been completed, the Sunday cake baked. The woodbox has been heaped with sticks to maintain the heartiffire against the forecast of a quite frosty weekend.

A rather wintry week was this one, which now is picking up to a fine Fields were spread with an amazing depth of snow for the time of year. And on it, the forst crystals sparkled... It is when we experience a foretaste of winter, that we are inclined to recall how pleasant were the perfect summer days. We hear the birds sing of the cherry-blossom time. We picutre a daisied meadow. And fancy so easily, the sleepy hum of the bees in an August raspberry patch. And are a little ashamed, for after all, Winter with its gently falling snow, its frost - gems in sun and coonlight along the breast of the snow, is so beautiful. And November, the sometimes unloved one of the twelve months, though not exactly of winter, has its charms.

"There is a lonely charm about the eleventh month" one reminds us. "Elms in the meadow stand like gray vases, and bleached ghosts of goldenrod and asters, line the roads. There are days of cold driving rain... But there are other days, as the year slides down the slope to that day in December, which marks the briefest period of daylight. There are memorable days when a golden platter of sun follows its low arc from southeast to southwest, and brilliant rays slant far into the woodlands. The sky is a pale blue, and in the far distance one sees hint of the purple haze of early Autumn... And a man who checks his farmstead and banks his house, knows that time is passing through the annual period of getting ready for winter. There are those who do not like November, but it is an integral part of the cycle, that gives us a flowering world"

A week is now about gone. Another, shining new and unlived, already casts its shadow before. What do we expect of it? What ask of it other than that we seek to find His will to do? One puts it this way in prayerful lines: "O Thou who dost the vision send,
And givest each his task,
And with the task sufficient strength,
Show us Thy will, we ask;
Give us a conscience bold and good,
Give us a purpose true.
That it may be our highest joy
The Dear Lord's work to do."

Until Monday — Diary — Good - night.....

Pumpkin Ice Cream Pie A Spicy Dessert Treat

A pioneer homemaker visiting us today wouuld be wide-eyed at our progress. There are plenty of pumpkins today... neatly canned and ready for pie - making There is also wonderful, wholesome milk.

Today's recipe for Pumpkin Ice Cream Pie is made with the amazing non - fat dry milk crystals for the most delicate of textures. The recipe is new and the pie simple to make. Yet it is full of mellow, golden flavor, and packs, by virtue of the instant crystals, all the proteins, B vitamins, calcium and phosphorous of whole milk.

Measurements level; recipes for 6

ICE CREAM PIE

¼ c. room-soft butter
¾ c. sugar
2 eggs
1 c. canned pumpkin
½ c. ice water
½ c. instant non - fat dry milk crystals
1½ tsp. vanilla
2 tbsp. lemon juice
1 baked spiced 9" pie shell (see note)
1¼ c whipped spiced, instant non - fat dry milk crystals (recipe follows)

With electric mixer or by hand, mix butter and sugar and beat until light and fluffy. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition. Continue to beat 3 min. or until thoroughly mixed, then beat in pumpkin; continue to beat until smooth.

Mix ice water, instant dry milk crystals and vanilla in separate bowl. Whip until soft peaks form, about 3 min. Add lemon juice; continue whipping until stiff peaks form, about 3 min.

Fold water - milk mixture into pumpkin mixture. Turn into cooled pie shell. Freeze 2 to 3 min. at room temperature before serving.

Garnish with, and also pass a sauce, whipped spiced instant non - fat dry milk crystals

Note: Add ¾ tsp. ground nutmeg and ¼ tsp. ground cinnomon to flaky pastry dough before rolling when making pie shell

SPICED WHIPPED NON-FAT DRY MILK CRYSTALS:

Mix ¼ c. instant non - fat dry milk crystals with ¼ c. ice water in quart bowl. Whip until soft peaks form (about 3 min.). Add 1 tsp. lemon juice. Continue beating until stiff peaks form (about 3 min. longer). Gradually add 2 tbsp. sugar, ¼ tsp. nutmeg and ¼ tsp. cinnamon.

White And Mauve Orchids Worn At Golden Jubilee

On November 16th, 1964, Col. and Mrs U. G. Dawson, Yarmouth, N.S. celebrated their Golden Wedding with seven of their eight children receiving with them in the afternoon and evening.

Mrs. Dawson was charming in a gold and turquoise brocaded dress. She wore a corsage of white orchids. Each daughter wore a mauve orchid, the gift of her parents.

The rooms were decorated with beautiful flowers in bronze, gold and white shades.

A four - tiered wedding cake flanked with silver candelabra was the centre of interest in the dining room.

Friends of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson called in great numbers at both receptions and many telegrams, cards, gifts and letters were received as well as a large number of floral arrangements in colors to suit the occasion.

Pouring at the afternoon reception were Mrs. Percy Hamilton, Mrs. Charles Fuller, Mrs Ormsby Rogers and Mrs. Ralph Harding.

In the evening the tea and coffee was poured by Mrs. Al Freeman, Mrs. Don Cain, Mrs. Charles Girvan and Mrs. Marion McLaughlin.

The six daughters and one son arrived over the week-end from widely scattered parts of Canada and U.S.A. They are Mrs. F. J. Hansen, (Eileen), Charlottetown, P.E.I. Mrs. Burton Lord Mich., U.S.A., Mrs. J. P. McAnnolly, (Phyllis), Edmonton, Alta., Mrs. J. E. Ledbetter, (Elsie), Ottawa, Ont., Mrs. Willard Goodwin, (Alice) Halifax, N.S. Mrs. D. MARY HAWORTH

Medicare Prog. Stands In Spotlight Again

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: This is in response to the doctor who voiced doubt, recently, of the validity of the two alleged nurses' letters which spoke in favor of the medicare program

May I remind him that the original letter signed DG, which sparked the discussion of medicare, dealt mainly with the regrettable passing of the conscientious old school physician, who really cared about his patients' welfare.

It happens that my line - of - thinking accords with DG's, not only in approving medicare, but in disapproving the new breed of materialist self - seeking profit - hungry doctors in private practise.

The doctor who refuses to believe that a nurse might deplore the medical racket today is a fellow who, like many in his profession, is having difficulty facing the truth about himself and hospitals generally, re their trend towards merchandising rather than ministry.

I am a registered nurse (and a good one, by the way) and I have been victimized by heavy medical fees, the same as John Q. Public is. I have seen people's life savings and property melt away as a result of extensive illness, and it seems plain that medicare could prevent some of that.

I myself am only 25, so I won't benefit for many years (if ever) from medicare legislation. Even so, I can't shut my eyes to the medical crisis that is stalking America, due in large part to shrewd professional exploitation of the population's growing (and worsening) need of basic adequate health-care.

To my knowledge, the average citizen in the American rank - and - file today is suffering from some degree of medical deprivation, indirectly imposed by medical fees that he can't afford.

Something has got to be done if we, as a nation, are to stay in the running, in a fast- moving world where the prize is to the strong. And it looks to me that medicare legislation might be a start in the right direction. Very truly yours, V.B

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: The influx of comments in your column, encouraging the passage of medicare insurance as an additional item of social security pension(ing) is just another example of "talking through the hat."

The authors of these socialist effusions certainly have been brainwashed by the federal Department of Health, Education and Welfare

Who has cared for the elderly for the past two thousand years? Are we coming to the time when federal government will be asked to do everything for everyone?

Persons like myself, who don't agree with this left - wing- cer buncombe, are labeled extremists. Why don't you - all move to Russia with your Communist ideas? ... G. Y.

DEAR G.Y.: Well, who HAS cared for the elderly for the past two thousand years? You tell me . . . And tell me also, if you can how many elderly persons weren't cared for, in that period

If you are against medicare legislation, say so, succinctly, and give your reasons why But don't be so childish, intemperate, vicious, etc, as to hurl the label "communist" and a bad - tempered cussword (deleted here) at persons whose thoughtful concepts of the duties and privileges of citizenship in a democracy differ from your convictions M.H.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of the Guardian.
