

Unshod Horses.

An Englishman who has had great experience in Brazil with working unshod horses, writes to the London Times proposing that the only important difficulty found with the asphalt pavements, viz., that on a wet day the horses cannot stand on them, be solved by leaving them unshod.

To write a good hand is one of the things every young man who means to succeed should set before him. Printers know what grave mistakes result from illegible writing.

The Osterburger Kreisblatt tells the following anecdote. At the annual festival of the Osterburg marksmen; a worthy citizen, Otto Bismarck by name, a master shoemaker, was elected king of the marksmen.

A barrister, joining the circuit, had the misfortune to have his trunk cut off from the back of his postchaise, on which Lord Erskine consoled him by saying—"Young gentleman, henceforth imitate the elephant, the wisest of animals, who always carries his trunk in front, where he can see it."
