Train Holdup Gang Sought In Argentina

BUENOS AIRES (Reuters)—A search was under way in Argentina for members of the 1963 British "great train robbery" gang, a police spokesman said.
The spokesman said the search was requested by the international police organization, Interpol, but that the results so far have been "negative."
The spokesman also said the Interpol request did not imply the gang members were in Argentina. "Identical requests have been circulated to Uruguay and to a number of countries where Interpol thinks they may be in hiding," he said.
The "great train robbery" was the biggest train holdup in history. It occurred on the night of Aug. 8, 1963, when a large, highly organized gang robbed a Glasgow-London mail train of mailbags containing more than $7,000,000 in British currency.
More than $5,000,000 in pounds still is missing.

Flying Saucers Report Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — After 18 years of investigating flying objects, the United States Air Force lists 663 sightings as unidentified.
The latest air force report, made available today, showed that 8,906 reported sightings were investigated from 1947 through 1964.
So far, the report said, these firm conclusions had been reached in 18 years of chasing down reports of unidentified flying objects:
1. No such object reported, investigated and evaluated by the air force "has ever given any indication of threat to our national security."
2. No evidence has been submitted to or discovered by the air force that sightings classed as unidentified "represent technological developments or principles beyond the range of present-day scientific knowledge."
3. There has been no evidence indicating that any of the unidentified sightings are vehicles from beyond earth.
The air force said that it "does not deny the possibility that some form of life may exist on other planets in the universe." However, it said, it has neither received nor discovered "any evidence which proves the existence and intra-space mobility of intra-terrestrial life."

Crown Counsel In Toronto Court Hits Maritimers

TORONTO (CP)—An assistant Crown counsel here said Maritimers seem to enjoy getting drunk and fighting so much they may be genetically different from other Canadians.
Robert Barr made the comment with a smile after three former Nova Scotians were punished in two beating incidents.
Delano Shaw, 18 of Truro, N.S., and Douglas MacPherson, 21, of Glace Bay, N.S., were fined for a drunken assault on two youths and Wayne G. Porter, 17, formerly of Nova Scotia, was sentenced to two months for assaulting a restaurant owner.
Magistrate C. A. Thoburn, who heard both cases, said he would not comment on the origins of the three accused. Mr. Barr said it appeared Easterners had some different kinds of genes which made them act differently.
Outside the court, Mr. Barr said an amazing number of East Coast migrants are being brought before the courts.
A few weeks ago, Magistrate Kenneth Langdon of Milton, Ont., said former Quebec and Atlantic province residents seemed to have less respect for the law than other Canadians.
Al Hogan, manager of Toronto's Maritime Club, a social organization, commented: "Why pick on us?"
He said most Maritimers settle down in Ontario and fit in well. The ones who do not fit in had left home because they could not get along in the first place, Mr. Hogan said.
