HUNDREDS OF ORPHANS ARE VIET NAM PROBLEM

By PETER ARNETT
PHU MY, South Viet Nam (AP)—The four-year-old boy picked up the Khaki-covered water bottle, held it to his waist, and giggled. It had belonged to his soldier father.

Another child marched by wearing a steel helmet pulling his tiny sister along behind him. Their father had been wearing the helmet when he was killed the previous night.

Two other children stood on the back of a truck, cracking jokes with soldiers and making faces at a photographer. They had just lost their fathers and mothers.

They still hadn't realized they were orphans.

These children had survived a concentrated Viet Cong mortar attack on this town headquarters and were being taken to an orphanage in Saigon.

Their lot was a hard one, and all too frequent in South Viet Nam, where justified" and it planned a similar move.

Late Thursday it joined the increase, issuing a new price schedule.

In announcing price increases of up to four cents a pound Feb. 10 Consolidated said it would maintain the higher prices even if it meant cutting back production. The prices involved averaged about 35 cents a pound.

Alcoa raised prices for various sheet products by 2 cent to one cent a pound Wednesday. The products involved were said to account for about a quarter of all fabricated aluminum shipments.

Alcan Aluminum Corp., a subsidiary of Aluminium Ltd. of Canada, said its soon-to-be-announced price list would reflect the increased prices.

Reynolds announced price increases ranging from 2 cent to one cent a pound for certain common alloy coiled sheet products.

3 U.S. Firms Boost Prices For Aluminum

NEW YORK (AP)—The second and third-ranking aluminum producers in the United States have announced they are following a price increase on some aluminum sheet products posted by Aluminum Co. of America, the major primary producer.

The increase by Reynolds Metals Co., No. 2 in the industry, was about the same as Alcoa's and did not go as far as those announced eight days ago by Consolidated Aluminum Corp., the smallest of the primary producers.

Kaiser Aluminum and Chemical Corp., No. 3 in the industry, said Wednesday the increase was "appropriate and Opening lead—four of clubs. This was Board No. 1 in the match between Italy and France during the European championships of 1962. Certainly the bridge played at both tables on this deal was far from perfect. For what it was worth, though, it did serve to demonstrate that even in the highest echelons there are lapses of mind.

When the French North-South pair played the hand, they arrived at three spades and made it on the nose. Declarer lost a spade, a diamond and two clubs. However, he was guilty of a misplay and needed some luck to make the contract.

The defense started with three rounds of clubs and South ruffed the third one. When the dealer forced out the ace of spades, it turned out that East had no more clubs to lead and the result was that South made nine tricks. It would have been more prudent for declarer to discard a diamond at trick three in order to maintain better control over trumps.

When the Italian North-South pair played the hand, the bidding went:
North East South West
Pass 1NT Dbl. 2♣
2♣ Pass 3♠ Pass
4♠

The French East-West pair went using the weak notrump, 12 to 14 points. Apparently this spurred the Italians into over-reaching themselves and they undertook a poor four spades contract.

However, this adventure did not prove fatal, since the Italian declarer succeeded in making the contract.

Three rounds of clubs were led at this table also, South ruffing the third one. After forcing out the ace of spades and drawing East's trumps, declarer entered dummy with a heart and led the jack of diamonds.

South would surely have gone down if East had seen fit to cover the jack with the queen, but, for reasons unknown, East played a low diamond. Declarer also played low and Italy was off to a good start in the match.
