

MR. AND MRS. JOHN WELDON

Couple Wed In Charlottetown Make Home In Montreal

Vows were pledged and rings exchanged recently at St. Dunstan's Basilica when Mildred Mullen, daughter of Mr. Patrick Mullen, Charlottetown, became the bride of John David Weldon, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Weldon of Newcastle, N.B. Mr. William Simpson officiated at the ceremony. Mrs. Joseph Dougan played the wedding music and accompanied the soloist, James Flanagan. The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Rogers Bell of Montreal, wore a floor length gown of sheer over tulle with fitted bodice and lily point sleeves. Her elbow length bouffant veil of illusion was held by a crown of pearls and she carried a cascade of red roses. Mrs. George Carragher, the bride's sister, was her only attendant, and Deborah Carragher was the flower girl. They were both in full length gowns of red brocade, with the matron

Christian Science Lecturer Was Alaskan Bush Pilot

VANCOUVER (CP) — Jane Robbins, a chic and attractive blonde who doesn't give her age, says she took up flying because it was more fun than teaching music. Miss Robbins, a Christian Science lecturer, has been a bush pilot in Alaska and an air force flyer in North Carolina. She has also found time to raise three children, start a jade-selling business and be a practicing Christian Scientist. Miss Robbins, on a visit to Vancouver, outlined her colorful and active career in an interview. She was born in Timmins, Ont., but moved to the United States with her parents when she was still a baby. Miss Robbins left school and took a job teaching children the piano. She said she made the switch from teaching to flying one day when she took a nine-year-old boy for a plane ride instead of giving him his music lesson.

EILEEN'S DIARY January Will Leave Behind A Winsome Winter Moon

Presently, it comes to mind, January, the first, and sometimes considered, the longest, month of the year, will have spent its last day. It will leave behind in a bequest, a winsome winter-moon, and bright starry-nights to the new month to come. And we shall recall, even as its shadow lingers a fleeting moment on the hilltop in parting, how pleasant and kindly January had been. It had given us much to remember against the white of winter snowfall, the sparkle of frost.
"Have you ever seen a month spend away so fast?" we overheard one inquire of another, today. "No, never!" the other replied. "Too fast altogether!" he grinned. "No storms, you know not actually, to interrupt the work" the first smiled. "And if we can keep busy—that's when Time flies" he nodded.
Afternoons now, if these cooks chance to come to the yard, they may hear in a comforting seasonal sound the echo of the power-saw at work in the woodlands. And if we look off over the fields, we may glimpse the figures of the workers, and the horse in use at the 'yarding out', dark against the horizon there.
"Too much snow for the tractor?" James inquired of one of the crew. "Yes, there in the bush, though there's not too much on the fields." So with the wood-cutting, the farming makes progress. Not that, even without that extra work, it ever marks time. The churning continues. This year's crop of calves commences to appear. A fat one of the cow-kind is marketed. Others, it may be a heifer to be a potential dairy cow, or one to be a feeder to go from the grass, is added to the herd. Grains go out to a mill, mixtures of grains are brought in. "By Candlemas Day" a caller offered today glancing to the calendar, "half the winter feeding should be over. And that's not far off now." "But sometimes, I've seen a fairly long spell of feeding after that," James said. "I always like to see the beam in the mow covered with hay that day, rather than to find any daylight below it!" he grinned. The peace of week's

MARY HAWORTH

Deterioration Is Reported In Working Relationships

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Allow me to add something to the discussion of office manners, morals, overcrowding poor ventilation, etc.
For years I have worked in different offices, doing secretarial, typing and clerical work to replenish the family coffers. And I have noticed a steady deterioration in the relationship between men and women co-workers.
The women, mostly in the subordinate categories, of course are called by their first name regardless of age. The men, being oddities into higher paying posts, are "mistress" regardless of age. This may be the new international influence. I understand that secretaries in England, for instance make the fires and sweep the floors.
When I was treated for secretarial work, the secretary was expected to be good at shorthand, typing, filing, etc.; and she took pride in knowing good grammar, sentence construction, spelling and punctuation. She could write a good letter on her own if necessary. If she were ambitious, she could expect promotion to higher levels.
Today the secretary is mostly a typist, working from drafts and dictaphone. She makes coffee, washes the pot, acts as a messenger, dusts the furniture answers a switchboard, performs a variety of clerical chores and behaves with humility proper and becoming to a womanial. There is complaint that secretaries can no longer spell or punctuate correctly. The reason, I would imagine, is because the more intelligent young women no longer aim at secretarial jobs.
This whole new trend may be the end result of clever male maneuvering to keep women out of the higher levels of employment. And comments from other secretaries? Sincerely, T.D.

Quilting, Hooking Planned For Feb.

Members of the local Association of the 1st Kingsboro Company of Girl Guides and Brownies was held recently at the home of Mrs. Walter and Mrs. Edgar Dixon, East Baltic, and in spite of the stormy night, there was a good attendance.
Several business matters were attended to and discussed, and it was decided to hold a pantry sale and bazaar in the early spring. Each member was asked to make two articles for same.
A quilting and hooking party will take place at the February meeting and all members were requested to be present and bring a friend along — with a needle and a book.
The meeting adjourned following refreshments served by Mrs. Edgar Dixon. The next meeting will be held on February 21 at the home of Mrs. Major Young Mrs. Harold MacGregor will be in charge of refreshments.

Granddaughter Of Islander Married Recently In Ottawa

A colorful wedding took place December 30th at 7 P. M. at St. Paul's Eastern United Church, when Rev. David C. Searfoss united in marriage Carol Jean Burch, and Const. Leonard Arthur Lang.
The bride is the daughter of Sgt. Duncan A. Burch and Mrs. Burch of Ottawa, Ont. and granddaughter of Lloyd Anderson, St. Peter's, P. E. I. The groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Lang of Saskatoon, Sask.
The bride was given away by her father before an altar flanked by gold candelabra and centered with a bouquet of white gladioli and chrysanthemums. The bride was in a formal gown of cameo-white, imported Italian peau de chamois fashioned on classic lines. A chapel train of lace fell gracefully from the scooped back neckline. Her shoulder length pouff veil of lace applied on tulle was held in place by a dainty crown encrusted with tiny seed pearls and diamonds. She carried a cascade bouquet of flame-toned sweetheart roses interspersed with white stephanotis and English ivy.
The bride was attended by Barbara Camell, RN of Hailybury as maid-of-honor, with her sister, Sandra Burch and Winnifred Campbell, RN as bridesmaids. They were identically gowned in formal frocks, the skirts of which were cameo-white peau de chamois, topped with sleeveless royal blue velvet. They wore long white satin gloves and royal blue velvet muffs. Their head-dresses were attractive matching bows.
Const. Howard Hill of Armstrong, B.C., was groomsmen, Const. Fred Winters of Dauphin Man, and Const. John Cummings of Simcoe, Ont. were ushers, all were in formal RCMP dress attire.
A buffet supper was served to 50 guests in the church hall followed by an informal reception at the Birch home 146 Drummond St., Ottawa.
For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Burch chose a white and turquoise ribbon knit suit and a turquoise draped turban of corded silk, silver accessories and a shoulder spray of pink sweetheart roses.
Mrs. Joseph Lang chose royal blue cut velvet with a matching feather hat. Black accessories and a shoulder spray of white baby carnations completed her ensemble.
For travelling the bride donned a sail-white wool boucle suit. Her attire was complimented by a feather hat in autumn blends of rust and green, and black accessories.

IDA BAILEY ALLEN Light-As-Puff Muffins Of Yeast-Raised Batter

Here are the directions we promised yesterday for making a trio of fascinating muffins from basic yeast muffin batter. There's no sifting, no kneading. Measurements level.
YEAST-RAISED BATTER MUFFINS
(Plain or use any one of the special variations — makes 12)
2-3 c. milk
2 tsp. sugar
1½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. margarine
¾ c. warm water (100-115 degrees F.)
1 pkg. or cake active dry or compressed yeast
1 egg, beaten
2¼ c. unsifted flour
Plain Yeast-Raised Batter
Muffins: Heat milk until bubbles form at edge; stir in sugar, salt and margarine; cool to lukewarm. Measure warm water into warmed large bowl. Sprinkle or crumble in yeast; stir until dissolved; mix in lukewarm milk mixture. Add egg and flour. Beat until smooth. Cover; let rise in warm room (temperature 70 to 75 degrees F.) free from draft, for about 1 hr. or until doubled in size. This is the basic batter.
Spoon batter into 12 oiled 2½" muffin cups to the half-full mark. Cover; let rise 30 min. in warm place, free from draft or until doubled in size. Bake 20 to 25 min. in moderate oven, 375 degrees F. Serve warm, or when still fresh-baked.

SUNDAY DINNER

THE CHEF EXPLAINS WALDORF SALAD
Meadames: Waldorf salad became the rage early in the century. Here is the way it should be made then—the way it should still be made today.
Waldorf Salad: Combine 2 c. small-diced, cored, peeled apples and 1 c. diced crisp celery with 1-3 c. not-sweet French dressing or enough barely to moisten. With a fork, add ¼ c. mayonnaise or enough to combine. Chill 30 min. Serve in nests of lettuce.
BELL COUNTS AGE
