A PHILADELPHIA man predicts the end of the world three centuries hence. When a Philadelphia man finds and knows that he fits, as he generally does, he fixes it so as to tire out anybody that might sit up to catch him at it.

It is pleasing to note that the North Atlantic Steamship Company will again place steamers on the route between London and Liverpool and Charlottetown. The Nellie Wise leaves Liverpool, and the Clifton leaves London for this port about the 15th of April next. F. T. Newbery, Esq., is the agent here.

THE base burner stove, the telephone and other improvements of a like kind have worked a domestic and social revolution within the last few years. Among these improvements it is not unfair to include the "Myrtle Navy" tobacco. The great majority of men smoke tobacco; have done so for centuries past, and will continue to do so. It is important therefore, that they should smoke the best quality of the article. That is what they are supplied with in the "Myrtle Navy." All smokers who have used it know that its flavor cannot be surpassed, and that the only care they have to exercise in its purchase is to see that the trade mark T. & B. is stamped on the plug.

AN Annapolis despatch to the Halifax Herald, dated January 25th, says: Yesterday morning, while Henry Robinson, trader of Port Williams, King's County, was in church, a man in his employ named John Wright, a native of New Brunswick, disappeared with one hundred dollars in cash. He hired a farmer to drive him to Bridgetown, where he purchased a new suit of clothes, and a flask of gin and tobacco. He took the freight train from there this afternoon and was arrested at the Annapolis station. Mr. Robinson expected that he also took a cheque which he was expecting in a letter from P. E. Island. Upon being searched about $81 was found in his possession, and he admitted taking the money, but denied any knowledge of the cheque.

CAPTAIN JACK CROWLEY, of the Salvation Army, who died at Moncton on Saturday, was buried on Monday. The funeral procession was large. About 120 carriers marched ahead of the hearse, each wearing a white ribbon on the left arm. At the head of the procession was the standard bearer carrying the army flag, which was draped in black crepe. The big drum was also at the head of the procession muffled and covered with black. The pall bearers wore red gowns and walked next to the hearse, and behind the hearse followed about 30 sleighs. As the procession marched along, the Salvationists sang slowly "You never can tell when the death bell is tolling; you never can tell when your end will be." &c. The whole affair was very impressive, and many followed the procession to the cemetery, where the funeral services at the grave were conducted in a very solemn manner.

The fishing schooner Carris and Annie, at Boston from Georges, reports that at 8:50 last Tuesday night, Charles H. Ryder, a native of Argyle, N. S., was swept overboard and drowned. He leaves a widow and three children.

The Fiji Islanders have just been celebrating the jubilee of the introduction of Christianity into the islands. Some of the older converts wanted to commemorate the event by eating all the missionaries on the island, but they were finally persuaded that such a course would tend to throw a damper on the proceedings, and they compromised on pork.

An English statistician shows that since 1793 wars among the civilized have caused the death of 4,470,000 men. A large majority of these deaths resulted from wounds, hardship, and disease, the number actually killed on the field being comparatively small. The bloodiest battle in the period named was Borodino, where 250,000 men were engaged and 17,000 were placed hors de combat.

The Sacramento Record-Union thus delicately tips the wink to an indiscreet young man: "If the young gentleman who is paying attention to H-st. belle will in the future not sit between the lamp and the window, the shadow pictures will not attract such assemblages as nightly gathers in front of the residence, neither will he furnish food for comment for passengers in the street cars."

A Winnipeg despatch of the 21st says:—The frame block, containing J. E. Cameron's tailoring shop, Uglow's book store, and Mrs. Stovel's millinery store, Main street, was burned at an early hour this morning, and Brydon & Mackintosh's music store was damaged. The total loss is about $100,000. Two firemen, named Poore and Oatfield, were badly injured, the latter possibly fatally.

At Handerson, Kr., the other night, a mob took Galvin Simpson, the mulatto murderer of Mrs. Graves, from jail and hanged him to a tree, after which they riddled him with bullets. The mob told him to say his prayers, which he did. They then asked him what did he kill Mrs. Graves for. He replied that the Lord asked him to do so. They then said, "Up you go to the Lord," and they struck him up.

The St. John's, Nfld., Mercury says: A most daring burglary was committed a few nights ago on the premises of J. C. Strang. The burglars gained admittance by boring a hole with a large auger through the back door, which enabled them to remove an iron bar from across the inside. They then entered and removed an iron safe, which would require the combined strength of two men to lift, and conveyed it to Crossman's forge, effecting an entrance by removing a board from the side of the building. Here they had all the tools for opening the safe, and did so by breaking in the bottom with a sledge hammer, they then abstracted the contents which amounted to a large sum of money. They also took from one of the shelves in Strang's shop a quantity of cigars and whiskey.

The Halifax Herald says: James McDonald, who kept a general store at Cape George, Antigonish, had his stock insured for $800 in the Queen Insurance Company. Two weeks ago he reported to Mr. King, the agent for the company at Antigonish, that his house and shop with its contents, were destroyed by fire, he not having a dollar's worth of furniture or stock. The fire was alleged to have occurred about 11 o'clock at night. He sent in his proof of loss. Mr. King however became suspicious and reported the case to Stephen Tobin, the agent at Halifax, who sent Detective Power to investigate the case. The detective began a search, which resulted in his finding all McDonald's stock and furniture stored in a barn near where the house stood. McDonald thereupon agreed to surrender his policy and pay all the expenses of the investigation. He had lost his house and had all his troubles for nothing. It is likely the authorities will take up the case.

THE ROCKFORD

is a watch that can truly be called a "TIME-KEEPER."

ONE of the principal Jewelers of Albany, N. Y., says:—"We have noted by our observatory time the rate of a number of Rockford Watches sold by us, and their variations. Watch of Fred Rees, conductor, Hudson River R. R., 10 seconds in three months; watch of Franklin Lusk, engineer Boston & Albany R. R., 1 1/2 minutes a year; watch of Jacob Link, postmaster, six seconds a month; watch of Albert Morey, engineer, B. & A. R. R., five seconds a month; watch of Charles Connelius, conductor, B. & A. R. R., eight seconds a month; watch of Captain Peelan, pilot of B. & A. steamer, four seconds a month."

We find, after properly regulating to our customer's wear, that the

is all that it is represented to be.
