Address and Presentation.

On the eve of removing from the Manse, at Orwell, to Charlottetown, Mrs. Goodwill was presented by Miss McPhail and Miss Campbell, on behalf of her friends, with an autograph quilt, and a purse containing $71 in gold. Also, the following ADDRESS:

To Mrs. J. Goodwill,

DEAR MADAM.—On the eve of your departure from Orwell, the undersigned respectfully beg your acceptance of the accompanying autograph quilt, containing 268 names, and a purse containing $71, as tokens of the high esteem and affection in which you are held by some of your friends in Orwell Head Parish, and elsewhere.

The memory of the untiring assiduity and unflinching attention with which you ministered loving words and kind actions, to the sick and to the afflicted, even while you were yourself suffering from the effects of a protracted residence in a tropical climate, will long be cherished by your many admirers.

That you may long be spared a true and useful help-meet to our revered pastor, wherever your lot may be cast, is the warmest prayer of your sincere friends.

MARY B. McPHAIL, FLORE CAMPBELL.

REPLY.

To Miss Mary B. McPhail, and Miss Flora Campbell,

MY DEAR FRIENDS,—With much pleasure and satisfaction I accept this pleasing address and tangible expression of your esteem and appreciation of my humble efforts. I assure you that there are some of you whose unceasing attentions and kindness I can never forget, and should I, by the pressure of other duties, through time forget any of you, this Autograph Quilt will serve as a memento to recall these kind friends with a fervent affection and regard as pure, I trust, as the gold which is associated with and accompanies it.

Your reference to my words and actions is pleasing and kind. My only regret is that I was not able to do more; not merely because kind words and actions can never die, but principally for the Lord's sake in the advancement of His purposes of Grace.

Many thanks to you, my beloved friends, and through you to each one whose name is indelibly written on this memorial, confirmed, sealed and delivered with precious gold.

Please accept of my hearty thanks for your good wishes in behalf of my husband, and my Pastor, Mr. Goodwill, whose welfare and happiness I seek by God's blessing fully more than my own, as his prosperity and success in the glorious work of the Redeemer will always be a great comfort and consolation to me.

Again I say thank you, and may God grant you abundant blessings in this life and in the world to come eternal happiness, is my fervent prayer for you all.

E. J. GOODWILL.

A Heartless Eviction.

An eviction took place lately on the Chisholm estate at Strathglass, Inverness-shire, the farmer and his wife being turned out on the highway amid a downpour of rain, and the house, barn and stable set on fire. To a witness, the wife of the evicted tenant related that her people had been on the farm for 50 years. Her father had built the house and paid for the wood used in its construction. At the outset her father had the farm at a rental of £27 10s., but some years afterwards it was increased to £30. By hard labor he was able to pay this sum, but when the present Chisholm's father got possession of the estate the rent was increased to £50 a year, which the land was incapable of yielding. After the furniture was moved, the house, barn, stable and dairy were set on fire, and in less than an hour only the stone walls were left standing. The sheriff's officers then retired, leaving Peter Shaw and his wife protecting their goods and chattels as best they could from the pitiless rain.—St. James' Gazette.

Total Bepravity.

A Milton Bridge, Pa., despatch says: Last summer Noah Mott, a farmer of Lyell township, took a 14-year old boy named Orrin Sullivan to earn his keeping. The boy's parents were drunken disreputable people, who neglected him, leaving the boy to shift for himself. He was an extremely bad boy, but in hopes of reforming him, farmer Mott took him. Young Sullivan was sullen and disliked work. One day recently he fell in a passion at a horse he was leading and was hammering him unmercifully when discovered by Mrs. Mott. She ordered the boy to cease, and he swore at her and called her vile names. She told her husband of the boy's conduct, and he berated Sullivan soundly, ordered him to quit the premises and never come back. The boy went away cursing and muttering. Next morning farmer Mott found his 13 cows in the barn yard, each with its tail severed close to its body. On entering the barn he found two valuable colts hamstringed, and a favorite mare dead with her throat cut. The poultry house floor was covered with dead chickens. No one has any doubt that this frightful work was done by Sullivan out of revenge. The country is being scourged by searchers, and it will fare badly with him if caught.

High vs. Low.

During services at the Anglican Church, at Gananoque, Ont., on Sunday, twenty of the low church party entered the edifice and carried away two candle sticks which had been placed there by the high church party. The latter resisted, supported by the clergyman, and for a time there threatened to be a general fight among the parishioners, but the appeal of the low church party succeeded in removing the objectionable pieces of metal. The matter will be referred to the Bishop.

"Nip it in the bud!" Said to say, many a good thing attains to nothing more than a fair beginning. On the other hand it is a matter for congratulation that the growth of some evil thing may be also promptly frustrated. A large proportion of the cases of that most widespread and fatal of diseases—consumption have their inception in nasal catarrh. Dr. Sage's catarrh remedy is pleasant, soothing and efficient. Try it. It has cured thousands.

Boston Markets.

OCTOBER 16.

Eggs.—The demand for Eggs the past week has been light, but prices hold about the same as last week. Sales of Eastern extras at 23¢ to 24¢; P. E. Island from 22¢ to 23¢ and Canadian at 22 to 24¢ per doz. Market closes with a quiet tone, and it is hard to get outside figures except for the very best marks.

POTATOES.—Receipts of Potatoes are not so large this week and prices are firmer. Houlton Hebrons command 55 to 58¢, and Houlton Rose move of 53 to 55¢. Proflora are selling at 50¢, and Burbanks at 48 to 50¢ per bu. Northern Rose and Hebrons range from 45 to 48¢. Sweet's Hebrons and dull, and sales range mostly from $1.12 to $1.25 per bbl.

FISH TRADE.—There has been a fair trade in Mackerel during the week, and prices unchanged. Dealers are not so anxious to buy, but with light receipts reserves are not disposed to urge sales. Receipts at Boston for the week foot up 5,554 bbls., of which 2,298 bbls. came from Provincial ports and 654 bbls. from domestic sources. The fleet landed 6,541 bbls. at all ports, against 8,472 bbls. for the corresponding week last year. Total catch to date by the New England fleet 69,776 bbls., against 287,230 bbls. in 1885, and 389,437 bbls. in 1884. P. E. Island Mackerel rule quiet and steady at $11 to $13 per bbl. for un-cured, and inspected lots rule at $9 to $10 for No. 3; ordinary No. 2; and $15 to $16 for ordinary No. 1. Extra No. 1 range up to $25 per bbl. Sales of Day Mackerel in cargo lots at $14.50 per bbl., sea packed.

Codfish are in steady demand at about previous prices. Sales of large pickled-cured Bank at $2.37½ to $2.50, and medium at $2 to $2.12½; large dry Bank at $2.25 to $2.50 per qt., the outside for prime retailing, and pickled-cured Shore at $3.25 per qt. Haddock are selling at $1.25 to $1.40, and Haddock at $1.50 to $1.75 per qt.

CANNED GOODS.—Canned Mackerel from the Provinces continue to command full quotations. Lobsters meet with a ready sale. We quote:—

Mackerel, per doz 1 lb cans, $1.00 to $1.15
Lobsters, per doz 1 lb cans, $1.50 to $1.55

A Female Jack Shepard.

Mollie Hoey, of New York, a noted shop-lifter, escaped from the Cleveland, Ohio, jail last week. She was under arrest for stealing an Indian shawl, valued at $450, from a local dry goods firm. The escape was a very clever piece of work. The woman, during her two weeks' imprisonment, was continually quarrelling with the other inmates of the jail, and thus caused them to shun her. During recreation time in the main corridor, which is on the first floor, she succeeded in making a hole in the brick wall at the side of a window leading to the street. The exit allowed her to pass to the ground below. The bricks were carried to the fourth tier of cells and placed in one that was unoccupied. While the woman was not at this work an oilcloth of the same color as the wall covered the hole. She took with her a ball confined for a petty offence, who had watched the turnkey while she was taking out the bricks. It was more than probable that her husband, Jimmy Hoey, who was out on bail, had a hand in the business. A buggy was waiting outside, and the party drove away before the "break" became known.

Shooting a Shark.

Thomas Crowell, of Port La Tour, had on Wednesday last week an exciting adventure with a shark—probably the largest and fiercest of those sea-prowlers which have proved such a source of annoyance to Cape fishermen this season. Mr. Crowell and his young son were fishing in a boat near Brazil Rock when a gigantic man-eater made its appearance. It followed up a fish which Mr. Crowell was pulling from bottom, and which it grabbed off the hook and devoured when close alongside. In spite of efforts to drive it away, the shark returned to the charge more voraciously than ever. There was a loaded gun in the boat, but the shark did not show above the surface enough to allow for a shot with any possibility of effect. At last, rearing itself partly out of the water, it fastened on a good-sized cod which the boy was just lifting in and refused to let go, the line being tightened to a short "snub." Mr. Crowell, on the spur of the moment, attacked the monster at close quarters with a bait knife, but it would not penetrate the tough skin or even make a scratch on it. Then he seized the gun and sent a shot through the gills of the shark, which, after a few short tremors, stretched out dead beside the boat. It was held there awhile by means of gruffs, but being too bulky to manage, it was finally let go and sank to the bottom.—Cape Sable Advertiser.
