HAVE A GUESS.

Oh, wheelmen, all take my advice,
And don't forget, be sure
To take a look at the famous "Bike"
In PROWSE'S well-known Store.

The handsome Brantford Bicycle
That in their window's shown
Is as good as any in Charlottetown,
And it may be your own.

A jar in which are cents galore
Is placed where all can see;
Guess how many cents the jar contains
And the "Bike" your own will be.

Be wise, make all your purchases
At PROWSE'S Clothing Store;
Each purchase, on that Bicycle,
Will give you one chance more.

Their Carpets, Hats and Furnishings,
And all, in fact, they keep,
Compared with others in the town
Are more than quite as cheap.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 75c. bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

THE MARKETS.

TRADE is quiet, and is likely to continue so. So long as our two best customers—Great Britain and the United States—are both financially sick, we cannot expect to have brisk times. Millions in England and in the United States cannot afford to have eggs for breakfast, and so eggs are only 7 cents a dozen in Charlottetown. There is, however a fair price for oats—38 to 40 cents—mostly for the Provincial markets. Potatoes sell in this city at 24 cents per bushel and pork at 5½ cents per pound.

In Chicago pork is quoted at from $11.70 to $11.75. In Montreal Canadian short cut (heavy) is worth from $18.00 to $18.50, and Canadian short cut (light) at from $17.00 to $17.50.

The price of eggs in New York is steady, 12 to 13 cents.

PREPARATION FOR FARM LIFE.

"The need of better farmers is obvious. The means of preparing for such life work are multiplying rapidly, and are already beyond the dreams of the farmers of today. In times of depression in any industry men seek to reduce the cost of production and to improve the quality of the product, and it may be that the lessons then learned will recompense for the cost of reduced values. Our mistakes teach us lessons that are as profitable as our successors, on the whole. A start in farm life with a better knowledge of the principles that underlie agriculture in its different lines than it was possible for us to obtain twenty years ago may now be obtained. Much of a farmer's time is spent alone, and as we know that the farmer who thinks is the one who is successful—other things being equal—so that we think that the boy or man who gets as much of the science of agriculture as he can will have the means at his command to think out for himself just what part will be of benefit to him under his circumstances. The genius or both poverty and riches are seeking the secrets of nature—the science of agriculture being only the sum total of successful practices, and never in the history of man were so many men of trained intellect studying agricultural science and success. We can no more stop this progress than we can the change of the seasons. We may, if we will, help it much, for a great measure we hold our own destiny in our own keeping. We can create an atmosphere of distrust and doubt of success about our chosen profession, or we can build up a substantial structure of contentment and success which shall add further credit to the country whose motto is "Forward."

ABSOLUTELY NOTHING LIKE IT.

MEETING AT ELMIRA.

According to notice the members of the Horn Club held a meeting in their hall, at Elmira, on Saturday, the 5th inst. The meeting was called to order by appointing Mr. Hugh Campbell to the chair. After the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted, the following officers were appointed:

President—Hugh Campbell (re-elected.)
Vice do.—Æneas Baily.
Financial Secretary—Jos. Baily.
Asst. Secretary—Angus McPhee.

The preliminaries having been gone through, the President, Mr. Campbell, arose and thanked the club for entrusting him with so great a responsibility as President of such a flourishing society, and said he would zealously endeavor to guard and increase the interests of the club.

He was followed by Mr. Æneas Bailey, who for an hour held the attention of the meeting. He said that for the past year he had been engaged in the butcher trade at Harmony, and during that period he had succeeded in collecting a number of horns, which he had suitably mounted and dressed for the benefit of the club, which he hoped to see prosper and increase.

Mr. Angus McPhee spoke next. He briefly eulogized the object of the club. He said he had lived in Elmira well-nigh sixty years, and had often experienced the want of union amongst our young men. Mr. McPhee is a fluent speaker, and was closely listened to throughout his speech.

After a vote of thanks was tendered the chairman, to which he replied, the meeting adjourned to meet on some future occasion.

True dignity is never gained by place, and never lost when honors are withdrawn.—Massinger.

A lady will sometimes spend hours selecting dress goods. She is not desirous of giving trouble at all. But there are conflicting claims. There are considerations of durability, of texture, of draping Priestley's dress fabrics have reached a niche in the popular esteem when conflict ceases to vex. It is enough to get Priestley's black dress goods to feel confident that you have the best. They wear better than any other make.

CARE OF HOGS.

Speaking of feeding hogs and of hog pens, Prof. Roberts says: "The common way of constructing the floors of the pens is unsuitable. If they slope backward from the trough they will be kept wet. That means sickly hogs that will not thrive well. I prefer to make the floor slant toward the trough. Twice the profit can be made when the animals lie dry all the while, and besides that, their health is much better. Then the feeding trough should have its holding capacity in length and not in depth. It pays to have them fed with good clean feed, which means the difference between profit and loss. They will take the waste from the table. It does not do, as as is usually the case, to have it put into a tub or barrel, which is never emptied or cleaned. That becomes poison. It ferments and sours and makes bad blood. With the sow and young pigs taking it, the consequence is they die before they are ten days' old; and even little pigs have the right to be well born. Hogs fed on clean food should gain at least one pound for every four and a-third pounds of grain used. A man can tell whether it will pay to keep them or put his labor to other sources of profit. If any man feeds his hogs too long it costs more than he can make out of them."

A CITY WITHOUT WOMEN.

Maiwatchin, in Mongolia, Has That Novel Distinction.

We know that Venice is a city without streets, without horses, except four or five bronze ones, without carriages, without trees, except in one garden, and without houses. But there is a city still more peculiar than Venice. It is in Mongolia, close to the borders of Russian Siberia, and is named Maiwatchin, and is the only city in the world peopled by men only. The Chinese women are not only forbidden to enter this territory, but even to pass the great wall of Kaikan and enter into Mongolia. All the Chinese of this border city are exclusively traders, and they accumulate money until their trading with Europe through Siberia has created a sufficient fortune to enable them to return to their native cities and live there in ease with their families. Their dwellings indicate their prosperity. They are separated from the street by a clay wall, rather ugly, it is true, but surrounding generally a very elegant looking house before which are gamboling those sleek-looking plump ones, with unusually big eyes, such as are faithfully represented on Chinese vases and screens. The main part of the houses of Maiwatchin is divided int two compartments, and that which is behind is raised. Fires are kept up under this great platform, which is covered with mats that serve as seats by day and beds by night. Opposite the door a niche is generally seen where the domestic idols, unaccustomed to studidize to profane eyes, repose behind an ornamented blind. The walls of the reception room are lacquered in red or black, and sometimes covered with figured silk, according to the wealth and taste of the owner. The apartment overlooking the court is generally of light wood, perforated and carved, and over these openings colored paper is stretched, producing something of the graceful effect of stained glass. The idol temples are gorgeous buildings.

MAY HAVE CONSENTED.

A Woman of Ninety Killed by Her Son, Who then Killed Himself.

Ninety-year-old Lena Samsmullar was murdered a few nights ago by her son Charles, 50 years old. After nearly severing his mother's head from her body with a razor, the son killed himself by cutting his throat. The Samsmullars lived in the rear house at 641 East Twelfth Street, New York city. They occupied two rooms on the second floor.

The position of the bodies told the story of the way the crime was committed. Mrs. Samsmuller had made no resistance. Her hands were not clinched, and her attitude was peaceful.

Charles, after cutting his mother's throat, had sat down on the side of his bed. He had drawn the razor across his throat. Then he raised his left hand, as if to make the wound more fearful by tearing it.

From the appearance of Mrs. Samsmullar, it was thought possible she might have consented to death in such terrible form. The two little rooms showed evidence of poverty, and there was no food. But money was found sufficient to have bought a good stock of provisions, and there was a bank book showing a balance in bank that would have kept the two alive for some time. In the purse was $4.63. The bank book showed that $56.71 had been deposited, of which all but $16 had been drawn out. Investigation disclosed the fact that Samsmuller, who used to work in a South Brooklyn paper factory, had been out of work for two months. It is believed that either he feared he would be unable to get work and would starve, as well as his mother, and so killed her and then himself, or that they had talked the matter over and decided to die.

Samsmullar and his mother were very fond of each other and never quarrelled. He was not a drinking man.

The old woman had not been out of the house in a year. They had lived in the house nine years.

WILLETS HAD A VISION.

The Instant the Electric Fluid Entered His Body He Saw His Parents.

Harry Willets, the young man who was nearly killed by electricity at Atlantic City, N. J., a few evenings ago, when interviewed gave a graphic description of the sensation he experienced as the electric bolt passed through his body.

"I have often heard," he said, "that persons in the face of death saw their whole lives spread before them like a panorama, and I now believe it to be true. My home is in Camden, sixty miles from here, yet when the steel tip on my umbrella struck the death-dealing arc light, and I felt the electric fluid striking into my very vitals, I had a vision which will remain stamped on my memory as long as I live

"I had left home but two days before, and every detail of the home life I remembered, and as I fell unconscious I saw it again as plainly as I now see you. My father sat by the table reading, while my mother was engaged in sewing a button on his clothes. The picture was so realistic that my last words as I fell were, "My God, where am I?" And they were heard by bystanders, who, of course, did not know what caused them.

The most marvellous part of young Willet's vision is that his brother, who arrived at Atlantic City since the accident, declares that at the hour the accident occurred his parents were seated and occupied just as he saw them. The young man is still weak from the terrible ordeal, and his flesh twitches in a spasmodic way.

The light which caused the accident is only six feet and a half above the sidewalk and young Willets will sue the lighting company for $10,000 damages.

Consumption—Low Condition

Wonderful Results From Taking Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Miss Hannah Wyatt
Toronto, Ont.

"Four years ago while in the old country (England), my daughter Hannah was sent away from the hospital, in a very low condition with consumption of the lungs and bowels, and weak action of the heart. The trip across the water to this country seemed to make her feel better for a while. Then she began to get worse, and for 14 weeks she was unable to get off the bed. She grew worse for five months and lost the use of her limbs and lower part of body, and if she sat up in bed had to be propped up with pillows. Physicians

Said She Was Past All Help

and wanted me to send her to the 'Home for Incurables.' But I said as long as I could hold my hand up she should not go. We then began to give her Hood's Sarsaparilla. She is getting strong, walks around, is out doors every day; has no trouble with her throat and no cough, and her heart seems to be all right again. She has a first class appetite. We regard her cure as nothing short of a miracle." W. WYATT, 89 Marion Street, Parkdale, Toronto, Ontario.

Little Josephine Libby.

Old age and Childhood NEED SPECIAL CARE, AND THEY Depend upon Others FOR Guide and Support.

HOW PLEASANT

it is to see an aged person with an elastic step, a bright smile and a kind word, and hear the child with its merry laughter ringing in our ears: these denote good health, which can be found in Skoda's Discovery.

Mr. Chas. Libby, of Auburn, Me., says: "My little girl Josephine, had congestion of the lungs, which left her very nervous and weak. She also had a humor break over her body; after giving her a bottle of Skoda's Discovery and using a tube of Skoda's Ointment, the humor entirely left her. She is now well and strong."
