

THE DAILY EXAMINER. MARCH 6, 1893.

British Commercial Union.

The reasonableness of postponing tariff revision until next year is admitted by almost everyone. There is no necessity for immediate revision. As compared with that of other countries at this time of universal depression, the trade of Canada is fairly prosperous. It would, therefore, be unwise to effect a change in the present conditions of trade until after the bearing and effect of the change can be clearly seen.

One of the latest contributors to the discussion is Lord Augustus Loftus, lately Governor of New South Wales. Lord Loftus mentions, incidentally, the fact that he was employed for nearly thirty five years in Germany, and witnessed the gradual growth from its infancy of the German Customs Union or Zollverein.

The chief difficulty in respect to this scheme, and indeed to every other, is the loss of revenue which it will (or may) involve. In all the colonies this is a consideration of prime importance. Yet the difficulty is not insurmountable. It may be that the Government of Canada—remembering that the best way to remove a doubt is to take action—will, after a year of careful preparation, make an attempt to surmount it.

Bank of Ireland shares have gone up 5 per cent. from their recent decline. It looks as if the Montreal Gazette, as it the stock markets as well as the English electors were getting used to the idea of Home Rule.

Hockey Match. SINGLE LADIES ONE GOAL: MARRIED LADIES NIL.

A GREAT treat was the match game of hockey played in the Citizens Rink on Saturday evening, between the married vs. single ladies of the club. The married ladies wore scarlet and black caps and jackets; the single ladies cream and navy blue caps and jackets. Both costumes were pretty and tasteful, and the scene presented as the hockey players came upon the ice was one of the most graceful and animated that we have seen.

The teams lined up for play at ten minutes after eight, and the referee's whistle sounded the attack. Mrs. Richards and Miss Fannie Longworth at once commenced hostilities, the advantage of the "bully" being with the red and black.

Back and forth went the puck, now one side having a slight advantage, now the other, and excitement waxed high when the force scrimmage took place at the blue and white flags. Both sides indulged in some loose play, neither gaining much. So the game went on until the referee's whistle sounded the "cease firing," and the teams retired for a well-earned rest of ten minutes.

In the middle third of the game brilliant playing was the order of the day, and here the blue and whites scored the only goal of the evening after 10 minutes play. In the remaining five minutes of this third, the ladies of the red and black fought manfully, but they could not recapture the goal gained.

For a second time, a rest of 10 minutes was allowed, and at nine o'clock the sides lined out for the final struggle, and it was well worth seeing. Now one goal was threatened; and a scrimmage, and it was only to be sent bounding away. Now it is at the opposite goal, and there is great danger for a full minute. The attack is fierce, the defence is determined, and again the fort is relieved.

As the rival teams lined up, their relative positions were as follows:— Mrs. A. Barlett, point; Mrs. W. A. Weeks, jr., cover point. Mrs. J. Richards (captain), Mrs. Percy Pope, Miss Daisy Hobbs, Miss Fred, Forward, Color—Red and Black. Single—Miss Lucy Carven, goal; Miss Minnie Moore, point; Miss Blanche Haviland, cover point. Miss Fannie Longworth (captain), Miss Bella Palmer, Miss Lottie Strickland, Miss Weeks, Forward, Color—Blue and White.

Umpires—Mr. Chas. Leigh, jr.; Mr. Louis G. Wheeler. Referee—Dr. H. D. Johnson.

For beginners, the ladies should be heartily congratulated on the manner in which they handled their hockey, and the ease with which they avoided the onslaught of their respective opponents.

The large number of spectators all expressed themselves much pleased with the game from beginning to end.

The Citizens' Band discoursed sweet music throughout the game, and added to the interest of the evening.

Skating was indulged in by those who wished after the play was over, until 10 o'clock.

The Shooting of Miss Gordon.

Mail advices from Boston last evening report that Miss Matilda Gordon, who was shot there recently, is progressing favorably at the Hospital and the prospects for her ultimate recovery are now better than at first supposed. The shooting occurred at a boarding house, 77 Worcester Street, where she had called to see the man Farquharson. She had passed a very pleasant evening, and was putting on her things to leave to take the train for Quincy when Farquharson fired. One bullet entered the right side of her neck, below the ear, passing entirely through her neck, while a second bullet struck her in the back of the neck, and striking against the skull, glanced off, making a flesh wound. Miss Gordon says she was in the centre of the room putting on her rubbers when the shots were fired. She did not hear the report of the revolver, but felt a humming sensation in her head. She ran screaming from the room, and the stairs with the blood pouring from her wounds. On the stairs she was met by some persons and taken to the bath-room where with rare presence of mind she assisted in washing off the blood. There is no reason given for the rash act, and Miss Gordon says she knows of no cause for it.

Miss Gordon, as we stated on Saturday, is a native of New Perth. She visited Charlottetown last autumn and has many friends in the city. Farquharson, who fatally shot himself after firing at Miss Gordon, was a native of Scotland, and was about fifty years of age. He had one child who is being educated abroad.

The Appeal of the Princess.

The Princess Kaiulani of Hawaii, on her arrival in New York from England, issued the following appeal to the American people:

"Unbidden I stand upon your shores today where I thought so soon to receive a royal welcome on my way to my own kingdom. I come unattended except by the loving hearts that have come with me over the watery seas. I hear that commissioners from my land have been here for many days asking this great nation to take away my little vineyard. They speak no word to me but to find out as I can from the rumors of the air that they would leave me without a home or a name or a nation."

"Seventy years ago Christian America sent over Christian men and women to give religion and civilization to Hawaii. They gave us the Gospel, they made us a nation and we learned to love and trust America. To-day three of the sons of those missionaries are at your capital asking you to undo their fathers' work."

"To-day, I, a poor weak girl, with not one of my people near me and all these Hawaiian statesmen against me, have strength to stand up for the rights of my people. Even now I can hear their wail in my heart, and it gives me strength and courage and I am strong—strong in the faith of God, strong in the knowledge that I am right, strong in the strength of 70,000,000 of people who in this free land will bear my cry and will refuse to let their flag cover dishonor to mine."

A Doctor Poisoned.

BY AN OVERDOSE OF CHLORAL—A FORMER RESIDENT OF ONTARIO.

Two years ago Dr. H. W. Froiland, with his young wife, arrived in Chicago from Kingston, Ont., and soon built up a flourishing practice. His domestic life was not without a cloud, however, occurred in his own circle on a Wednesday afternoon at 7 o'clock on Tuesday night. The doctor's friends say that he took the drug by mistake. At the time of his death there were in the office with Dr. Froiland his wife and two intimate friends, Drs. Beckwith and Williams. The doctor was getting ready to go home. "I will take a dose of water," he said, and turning into an adjoining room he drank from a glass filled with a colorless liquid. As he stepped from the room, Dr. Froiland's feet gave way and he fell to the floor. The experienced eyes of the physicians told them that the doctor had taken poison. Antidotes were at once resorted to, but were of no avail. Dr. Froiland graduated at King's College in Canada, and was well known to the medical profession in Canada.

News Notes.

The examination of John C. Egan, under an indictment found against him in May, 1884, by the federal grand jury for having made away with the funds of the Second National bank of which he was President, set down for Wednesday afternoon in the United States circuit court, New York, has been postponed indefinitely. It is announced that the hearing will be transferred to Albany.

The Porte seems to be in a quandary between the French and Russian advisers who represent that England's longer occupation of Egypt is inconsistent with its dignity and the British ambassador, who presses for an announcement that the British force is to be strengthened. The Sultan is said to be quite willing that the occupation should continue, as long as England's flag flies at Cairo, he has the satisfaction of knowing that he is, at least, suzerain of Egypt, whereas should he insist on evacuation, it is likely that a conference would be called and Egypt would probably be taken out of his hands altogether.

He knows that it is really in his interest to have England in an hour's time than to have the country exposed to all sorts of intrigue and aggression.

The United States Panama canal equity has developed the fact that three banking firms received between them $1,200,000 for acting as a committee to look after the interest of the company, which committee never seem to have done anything. Mr. Thompson, ex secretary of the navy, also received a salary of $24,000, and his labors appear to have consisted chiefly in drawing his pay. He had also a fund of over $100,000, to draw upon for any contingencies he might deem necessary. All this was outside the legitimate expenditure of the company. There seems, however, to have been no bribery of legislators in the United States, as there was in France. The canal company just wasted as much of its money which the Yankees took in.

Death in the Gin Bottle.

St. JOHN, March 6.

William J. Paley, a young man whose habits have been far from regular, was about town on Sunday with two companions. They visited Danaher's saloon and other places and procured a bottle of gin. Paley got sick and was unable to walk, and his companions at length procured a conveyance, but before they got home Paley was dead, apparently from the effects of bad liquor and exp. sure.

SPECIAL DESPATCHES TO THE EXAMINER.

Letter from Senator Drummond

Sir Richard's Absurd Statements Contradicted.

MONTREAL, March 6.

Senator Drummond has written the following:—"I share to the full the disinclination of every man of affairs to see his name in print. But Sir Richard Cartwright has been accustomed so long with impunity to malign everyone connected with industrial matters, as to imagine that everything he chooses to say will be submitted to. He has not infrequently, as in this instance, pointed his remarks by special reference to myself, and need not be surprised if even a member of the disreputable Upper Chamber should turn on him. Accepting his correction of a newspaper report of the figures he gave as to the number of employees in the sugar trade, I can still say that his statement to the House of Commons is absurdly incorrect, and his statements to a whole are nothing but a burlesque of the facts—not even an honest guess. He is anxious about the dignity of Parliament. I have long been of opinion that to supply a Legislative body with misinformation is an offence which should be visited by that body with some mark of its disapproval."

A Town Subsidies.

Two Hundred Houses Destroyed

Great Excitement Among the People.

LONDON, March 6.

On Saturday night the people of Sandgate, Kent, were aroused by a rocking of their houses and a loud rumbling underground. Walls split, ceilings fell, foundations sank, roofs fell and there were large rents in the ground. The inhabitants were almost overcome by noxious vapors. Every body supposed that the town was being shaken by an earthquake, and hundreds fled in panic to the near-at-hand town. At the cessation, it was found that the ground on which Sandgate stands had sunk several feet. The subsidence extended throughout the surrounding districts, affecting in all about a square mile. Many houses are completely wrecked. A further subsidence occurred several times yesterday. As far as known no lives were lost. The disaster was caused by a landslide. The waves are believed to have undermined the cliff of which the town stands. Two hundred houses are destroyed.

FATAL CYCLONE

Great Damage—Lives Lost.

COLUMBUS, Ga., March 6.

A cyclone last night in the northern part of the state wrecked many buildings and wiped out some small settlements. It is reported that twenty people were killed.

BERMINGHAM, Ala., March 6.

Many persons are reported killed and injured by the cyclone in Eastern Mississippi and Western Alabama last night.

MEMPHIS, Miss., March 6.

Fourteen people were killed and twenty-nine injured at Barnett Station by the cyclone.
