

Ask your doctor how many preparations of cod-liver oil there are.

He will answer, "Hundreds of them." Ask him which is the best. He will reply, "Scott's Emulsion."

Then see that this is the one you obtain. It contains the purest cod-liver oil, free from unpleasant odor and taste. You also get the hypophosphites and glycerine. All three are blended into one grand healing and nourishing remedy.

The Transvaal War

A Test Fight.

The detailed accounts of the fighting at Elandslaagte which the correspondents of the London papers are sending in account for the comparatively heavy losses, both of officers and men, the British forces sustained. The Boers were in a peculiarly strong position, the hill they occupied rising in three ridges, each higher one commanding that below it. The ground was boulder strewn, affording fine shelter for defending force. Field and machine guns covered the lines of the British advance. The task was about as difficult and as trying for the soldiers as could be well imagined. It was, as the Times correspondent puts it, a company and a section leader's and a soldier's success. To see where they were going and where they should go, the officers and non-commissioned officers simply had to expose themselves; and this they did, seeing that the penalty was all but certain death or wounding. In 1884 it was a part of the Boer tactics to shoot the officers, and they evidently still act on the same idea. The Boers, also, showed high courage, and held their position till the last, till it was taken from them. Neither the number of men engaged nor the result of the fight at Elandslaagte make it an important one as bearing on the final outcome of the war. The struggle is interesting, mainly as showing that the disciplined courage of the British infantry is, as it has always been, equal to the most severe tasks that can be put on it. It indicates why, with a larger force at their command, the Boer leaders hesitate to push the situation at Ladysmith to an issue—something that would have been done long since had the positions of the two armies been reversed. And, what is most significant, it goes to strengthen the belief that when the men to carry out General Buller's plans are ready the conflict will be as short as it will be decisive.

"The Gallant Thirty."

Hail! heroes of Prince Edward Isle, That land of modesty and worth, Of genial hearts, and pleasant smile— To us the dearest spot on earth: Some thirty brave and loyal men, With Major Weeks, who took command Left verdant hills, and flowery glen, En route for Africa's burning strand.

'Mid cannon's peal and hearty cheers, The Gallant Thirty took their way— Long live our Island volunteers, The subject of this simple lay; Of this we know, what e'er befalls, In duty's path they'll never lag, But grasp the sword when Britain calls To battle for her honored flag.

To those who left their native Isle, May health and happiness attend, They've crossed the ocean many a mile The flag of Britain to defend; By men like these of noble mind, And hearts so fearless, just and true, Old England's foes will surely find They'll meet a hasty Waterloo.

They have their country's cordial thanks, And friends sincerely wish them well; They've joined the noble British ranks, In which so many heroes fell: When England's stubborn foes are "downed" And those detested wars are o'er, May each return with glory crowned, To meet their waiting friends once more.

Than soldiers of the British crown? We answer no! a thousand nays: The king who sits upon the throne— He may be wrong, he may be right, He may be right, as king alone, But 'tis the soldier wins the fight.

'Mid danger, ever in the van; His prowess cannot be denied, At Alma's Heights, and Inkerman Our claim was fully verified; Though trailing on the battered walls, A dust-begrimed, and tattered rag, He grasps the sword when duty calls To fight for England's honored flag.

Will Clear Natal First.

The best informed military writers are not disposed to believe that the British garrisons at De Aar and Orange River Junction will be strongly reinforced until Natal is cleared of the enemy. The voyage from Cape-Town to Durban is equal to that around England and Scotland. Each transport will require three days for making the distance, and it will be fully two weeks before Lord Methuen's division of 10,000 men is ready to advance from Estcourt. While General White is closely invested, he understands the art of defensive warfare, which he learned under Lord Roberts when he was shut up in Cabul 20 years ago. General White's friends in London assert that he is not only secure against long-range fire and unscientific siege operations, but he also serves a useful purpose in holding back Boer forces from raiding Lower Natal, where the British garrisons cannot now exceed 5,000 men, even with the naval brigade from the cruiser Terrible and the other ships.

DR. GAUTHIER ENDORSES

The statement that Mr. Major owes his life to... DR. CHASE'S Kidney Liver Pills

Dr. J. T. A. Gauthier, of Valleyfield, Que., writes: "I, the undersigned, certify that the contents of this letter, in regard to the cure of Mr. Isadore Major, by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, is correct. 'After 20 years of suffering from backache and kidney disease I owe my life to Dr. A. W. Chase. I had tried an endless variety of remedies to no avail, and on the recommendation of a friend began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills. Two pills that night and two next morning gave great relief, and I continued their use until now I am completely cured. My friends are surprised and pleased to see me well again, for I spent hundreds of dollars in vain trying to get cured. Before using Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills my back ached so I could not put on my shoes and couldn't lift 20 lbs. My shoulders were sore, I had headaches and a bad taste in the mouth. These troubles are now entirely gone and what I say I am ready to prove. I have told my friends of my wonderful cure, and many have been greatly benefited by using these pills.' Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are the greatest kidney cure the world has ever known. One pill a dose, 2 or 3 a box at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

PRISONER RELEASED.

Victim of Kidney Disease Escapes From its Clutches by Means of Dodd's Kidney Pills

Sharbot Lake, Nov. 6.—Twenty years ago this month, John Nicholas Babcock first noticed the symptoms of Gravel and other Kidney trouble. Since that day he has never been free from pain until immediately previous to the report of his complete cure which appeared recently. He has been like a prisoner, sentenced for life but his sentence has been up to-day.

He says: "After twenty years of pain caused by Gravel and other kidney trouble, I am pleased to make it known that I have been completely cured by one box of Dodd's Kidney Pills. During these years I have spent hundreds of dollars without receiving any lasting relief."
