PIUSVILLE

From Friday evening till Sunday evening, the single people from 18 years upwards made a retreat at St. Anthony's Church, Bloomfield, retreat master was formerly of Tignish. The young people enjoyed this very much and most of them have never had the opportunity before.

Miss Arlene Corcoran, employ-ee in Alberton, spent the past weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John J. Corcoran.

Friends of Mr. Nelson L. Gal-lant are pleased to see him home again after spending a few days as a patient in the Western Hos-pital, Alberton.

Fourteen members of the Pius-ville Women's Institute attended the district convention held in Eb-blesfleet school on Friday. There were four guest speakers present. A delicious supper was served by the members of the Ebbsfleet Women's Institute. Next District Con-vention is to be held in Duvar.

Friends of Mrs. Ambrose Cor-oran are pleased to see her out again after being confined to her home with an attack of flu.

Mr. Freddie Gallant, employed in Dock Road, spent Sunday with his parents in Piusville.

Mr. Joseph Kinch, employed in Piusville, spent a day recently with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dick Kinch, Dock Road.

Friends of Rev. Father Trainor are sorry to learn he is a patient in the Western Hospital. All wish him a speedy recovery.

Mr. Loman Harris, St. John, N. B., spent the weekend visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. War-burton Murray.

Choosing for her subject, 'The Dead Sea Scrolls', she told a fascinating story of their discovery and suggested great possibilities of Christian enlightenment as the ancient writings are patiently examined.

The president, Mrs. Erast Champion conducted the meet-ing, and reports were heard from Mrs. D. Dickson. There was a good attendance, most of the Island branches being represent-ed.

Mrs. J. Bradford Millman of Cambridge, Mass., and Sumner-ey, spent a few days recently in Kensington.

Mrs. Eva B. Pickering is visit-ing her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Evans, Burling-ton.

Miss Susan Matheson, Burling-ton, spent the past weekend at her home in Inkerman.

Mrs. W. J. Harrington, Mrs. Keith Harrington, Mrs. Harry Sudbury, and Mrs. James Evans, Mrs. D. Dickson, Mr. and Mrs. Leigh Paynter, Mr. and Mrs. H.B. MacLeod, and Mrs. A.H. Camp-bell, Burlington, were in Crapaud on Wednesday attending the D.C.S. and W.A. meetings.

Mr. Athol Cotton of the firm of Cotton and Rogers, Kensington, was the victim of painful burns about the face and hands, in at-tempting to remove a pan in which fat had caught fire, at his home at Kensington. His many friends and customers will regret his ac-cident and absence from his place of business, and wish him a rapid recovery.

Among those attending the D.C.S. and semi-annual meetings at Crapaud on Wednesday were: Mr. and Mrs. John J. Corcoran, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson L. Gal-lant, Mr. and Mrs. J.G. Towns-ent, Mrs. Lloyd Howard, Mrs. William Gill, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Mill, Mrs. J. Bradford Millman, Miss Amelia Mill, Miss Lottie Sims, Mrs. John Moase, Mrs. Wal-ter Moase, Mrs. Elmer Moase, Mr. John Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Profit.

The many friends of Mrs. Peter MacMahon, Kensington, regret her recent accident when she had a bone broken in her ankle, and wish her a rapid recovery.

Some 70 guests enjoyed the de-licious lobster supper served by the Young Adult Group of the Kensington Presbyterian Church on Wednesday evening.

For three consecutive years now the English Literature paper in the Provincial Examinations for Grade Ten students has been set in such a way that one question discriminates against certain schools on the Island. The course of studies instructs that students memorize certain selections of poetry, and among them there is a choice of selecting two out of a specified three. Yet one of these three has been included in an option during the last three years, in spite of the fact that certain

Earl Attlee Says P.M. Must Be Ruthless To Ministers

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer
LONDON (CP) — Earl Attlee, once the butt of jokes as a "sheep in sheep's clothing," has given a glimpse of political moments when he was something of a big bad wolf.

The former prime minister, architect of the post-war "silent revolution," said in a speech there are times when a British premier must be absolutely ruthless.

"It is a most unpleasant task," he said, "to have to tell a 74-year-old statesman that he is not good enough for the job. I had to sack him very well."

Attlee's reference to ruthlessness stirred some poignant mem-ories in Whitehall. There are smoking-room stories of ministers schools had chosen to memorize the other two.

Two were more specific, this year the pupils were given a choice of quoting from memory 15 lines from either "The First Ploughing" or "Ulysses." Those who would have an option or choice, of writing whichever one of these they knew better. Those who did not choose "Ulysses" had no choice. They were forced to write the other.

We had sent a protest to the newly organized committee against last year, and were assured that it would not be received unoffi-cial word that at least one of the committee sees no wrong in this pro-cedure. We can scarcely credit, however, that a person appointed to such an important committee, could reason in such a way that he would not consider giving some pupils a second chance and other pupils only one chance in a ques-tion being discriminatory.

Now it might be argued that this is a small affair to protest about. Don't forget, however, that a pupil making, say an aggregate of 690 may receive a scholarship of $100, while a pupil receiving a total of 688 receives nothing. Keep in mind that a pupil with an aggregate of 400 will pass, while a pupil with 399 will fail. There is nothing wrong at least there is nothing we can do about such hair-line distinctions. They are a part of our system of competitive living. But under the circumstances we should at least endeavour to see that all pupils get an even break.

Informal arrangements had worked extremely well. There was, after all, a "certain professional comradeship" among prime ministers.

The premier should be a good House of Commons man and should make a point of being their at question time.

Above all, the premier must give a "firm lead" in cabinet discussions and decisions can be taken quickly.

BUILD BARGE FOR SWAMP DRILLING
LONDON (CP) — An oil well-drilling barge, with a landing deck for helicopters, is being built in Britain for use in the tidal swamps along the Niger delta coast in eastern Nigeria.

CHURCHILLIAN TITLE
His meek appearance, his pro-spective approach to affairs and his capacity for training the drama from a situation gave rise to some unrestrained, but perhaps partly affectionate, ribbing.

There was the story about the taxi that "drove up to 10 Downing Street, and noisily got out." Winston Churchill is said to have called him the "sheep in sheep's clothing."

Since his retirement as Labor leader, Attlee has shown a broader humanity under the starry exterior. Political oppo-nents have fit the flock of a quick astringent wit. His standing in the nation is probably higher than it ever was.

is expected to cost about 1,300,000 ($3,640,000) with auxiliary floating craft and equipment. The company says the machinery will be capable of drilling to a depth of 12,000 feet.

Much of the Niger delta consists of tidal mangrove swamp which, at high tide, is flooded to a depth of about four feet. Use of a conventional drilling rig would have necessitated use of large quantities of sand to build up the swamp to a level above high tide.
